SKY ARMY'S EPIC: 1,800 BACK

1,200 WOUNDED LEFT IN NAZIS' ARNHEM TRAP

Germans Fall Back to Maas River.

(Maps on page 8.)

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 28 [Thursday]—(AP).—Between 1,700 and 1,800 survivors of an original force of 8,000 British air borne troops trapped at Arnhem have escaped across the Neder Rhine, leaving some 1,200 wounded behind.

Tho the price was steep, headquarters refused to give the label of defeat to this stand of eight days and nights by the British 1st air borne division, the "Red Devils," so called because of their distinctive red berets.

Instead staff officers pointed to the 12,000 to 15,000 estimated German dead heaped around the foothold which the "Red Devils" had held against incessant bombardment and armored attack. They declared the epic battle had helped in the development of a new eastward thrust now taking shape along the length of the Maas [Meuse] river a few miles from the Dutch-German frontier.

Corridor Firmly Held.

Field dispatches said the corridor extending up thru Holland now was firmly held and rapidly being expanded, and that German forces were falling back across the Maas to take up positions in front of the Siegfried line.

The besieged "Red Devils" had tied down vastly superior German forces, perhaps preventing disaster for large elements of Lt. Gen. Dempsey's British 2d army in the corridor from Eindhoven to Nijmegen.

Have Only One Exit.

A dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Robert C. Wilson, with the allies in Holland, said the corridor now appeared sufficiently protected to keep the estimated 100,000 Germans between it and the sea from breaking across to the reich. The only exit for this Nazi force, he said, now is the long way around north of Arnhem.

The rescue of the battered remnants of the "Red Devils" was accomplished Monday night by assault boats of the British 2d army plying across the quarter mile wide Rhine. Some troops swam to safety across the muddy torrent. The announcement was held up 48 hours by a news blackout.

Drive Delayed Too Long.

The desperate gamble of the "Red Devels" to seize and hold a bridgehead across the Neder Rhine until the British 2d army's armored force could reach and relieve them failed because Marshal Bernard L. Montgomery's drive northeast from Eindhoven was delayed too long, in winning the bridge across the Waal Rhine at Nijmegen, nine miles from Arnhem.

By the time British ground forces reached the Neder Rhine opposite Arnhem last week-end, counter-attacks by German SS. Elite Guard divisions had driven the airborne troops back into the woods west of Arnhem, and the chances for a full junction of allied forces had been lost.

Failed to Get Supplies.

Only a trickle of supplies ever reached the desperately fighting "Red Devils," and their defeat became inevitable when miserable weather prevented their reinforcement from the air.

The German high command said allied attacks north and east of Nijmegen were beaten back, and that heavy toll had been taken of 2d army attempts to relieve the Arnhem pocket.

This announcement, also listed heavy booty and said 1,000 allied

Tired Troops Flee Thru Axis Lines to Rhine

WITH THE ARNHEM AIR BORNE FORCE, Sept. 26 [Delayed]—(AP).—This is the end. The most tragic and glorious battle of the war is over, and the survivors of this British air borne force can sleep soundly for the first time in eight days and nights.

Orders came to us yesterday to break out from the forest citadel west of Arnhem, cross the Rhine and join up with the 2d army on the south bank.

Our commander decided against a concerted assault on the Germans around us. Instead the plan was to split up into little groups 10 to 20 strong, setting out along different routes at two-minute intervals, which would simply walk thru the German lines in the dark.

"John Bull" Password.

To hinder the Germans waking up to what was happening, 2d army guns laid down a battering box barrage all afternoon.

We tore up blankets and wrapped them round our boots to muffle the sound of our feet in the trees. We were told the password, "John Bull." If we became separated, each man was to make his way by compass due south until he reached the river.

Our major led the way and linked our party together by getting every one to hold the tail of the parachutist's smock of the man in front of him, so our infiltrating column had an absurd resemblance to some children's game.

Go Thru Nazi Pocket.

It was half-light, with the glow of fires from burning houses around, when we set out. We were lucky. We went thru a reputed enemy pocket without hearing a shot except for a stray sniper's bullet.

Another group met a machine gun with a fixed line of fire across their path. Another had to silence a bunch of Germans with a burst of fire and hand grenades.

But we all got thru without the enemy realizing that we were doing anything more than normal night patroling.

Wait for Boats.

The worst part was waiting two hours by the riverside till our turn came for assault boats to ferry us across. The Germans were inquisitive—they kept sending up flares, and it was vital to lie flat and motionless.

We were lucky again: Our actual crossing was quiet. But soon after it seemed that the Germans had guessed what was going on, because they mortared and shelled heavily along the shallow river banks.

Men whose turn for a place in the boats had come after hours of waiting insisted on staying under fire a little longer so that the wounded could go first.

Sick Quit Beds to Go.

Any wounded left behind, of course, became prisoners of war, so many sick and limping left their beds to take a chance with the escape parties making their way to the river.

And so this epic stand of the British air borne soldiers ended as it had been fought—with honor, with high courage, with selfless sacrifice.

What of the spirit of these men as they trudged back thru the wet night to the billets where they are now sunk in sodden sleep?

You can best judge it by the name they chose for last night's break out. It had the same objective as they have always had, and they still mean to get in there. They called it "Operation Berlin."

REDS ORDER U. S., BRITISH OFFICERS OUT OF BULGARIA

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 26 [Delayed]—[Reuter].—Some 20 British and American officers, who had been in Sofia for about 10 days, left by car for Turkey Monday night after receiving a direct order from the soviet military command in the Sofia area to leave Bulgaria with 24 hours.

Russian officers traveled in a separate car with the British and American officers to the Turkish frontier.

These officers did not form any part of the official missions which are expected to go to Bulgaria as the British and American sections of the inter-allied control commission to be established there.

Ward Bosses Take Over in Transfer Row

Harried parents, balked in their efforts to obtain the hitherto customary school transfer permits for their children from the board of education, last night were reported turning to Democratic ward committeemen in various parts of the city in an effort to solve their problem.

The committeemen, for their part, with an election just around the corner, were reported bending every effort to pour the soothing oil of practical politics on the troubled waters of the school transfer row.

Flynn Reassures Mothers.

A committee of three mothers whose children in former years attended O'Toole school at 6550 S. Seeley av., but whose transfer permits, with hundreds of others, were revoked this year by mandate of the board of education, yesterday waited on Michael J. Flynn, county clerk and Democratic committeeman for the 13th ward.

Flynn received them graciously, expressed sympathy with their plight, asked them to let him have a list of the 125 pupils at O'Toole school affected by the board's no-transfer order, and told them not to worry.

He told them further, one mother said, that he already has taken the matter up with James B. McCahey, president of the board of education. Everything is arranged, Flynn indicated to the mothers. Flynn is reported to have added that Ald. Hogan [13th] has taken similar steps with regard to pupils at Hubbard school, 6200 S. Hamlin av.

Many Transfers Reported.

One of the mothers on the committee which waited on Flynn said that approximately half the 125 pupils at O'Toole school affected by the no-transfer order already have obtained transfers or the assurance that transfers will be issued, mostly on the basis of medical certificates. Thirty such certificates were reported to have been issued by one doctor in the neighborhood.

William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, has insisted that no transfer permits will be issued this year except upon certificate from a physician that a transfer order is essential to a child's health. Johnson insisted last night that no permits have been issued thus far except on medical certificates. He was unable to say whether any unusual number of permits has been issued to pupils of the O'Toole school.

At Committeeman Flynn's home it was reported he is out of town.

Political Climax Forecast.

At the time the no-transfer order was announced at the beginning of the school year, it was suggested that parents might be compelled to seek assistance from their Democratic ward committeemen and might be expected to be properly grateful, in an election year, for the committeemen's efforts.

About 20 children were refused admission yesterday to Burns school, 2524 S. Central Park av. They had been reinstated on the basis of affidavits furnished by Henry Sonnenschein, Democratic committeeman from the 22d ward and candidate for reëlection as clerk of the Superior court. The action excluding them came after the exposure of the wholesale affidavit business in Tuesday morning's TRIBUNE.

BUTTER POINT VALUE 20 POINTS A POUND OCT. 1, OPA REVEALS

An increase from 16 to 20 in the number of red points required for a pound of creamery butter, effective Sunday, Oct. 1, was announced yesterday by Rae E. Walters, regional administrator of the office of price administration, on the basis of information from the OPA in Washington.

The point change, approved by the war food administration, the WFA and OPA butter industry advisory committees, and the American Butter institute, which represents a large part of the butter production and distribution industry, is made necessary by the restricted supplies available for the remainder of the year, according to OPA information.

"There are no two ways about it—we civilians are going to have to get along with less butter than formerly, at least during the next 90 days or so," Administrator Chester Bowles of the OPA declared. "We simply don't have anywhere near the normal amount of butter to distribute."

83 Cry Fraud at CIO Union; Quit in a Body

Eighty-three war workers at the Chicago Flexible Shaft company, 5600 Roosevelt rd., yesterday served notice on the company that they are withdrawing from membership in the CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers' union, Local 1150. They requested that the company cease deducting $1 a month union dues from their wages.

In a letter addressed to union headquarters, 166 W. Jackson blvd., the 66 men and 17 women demanded that all moneys they have paid to the union be returned and that no further held out dues be accepted. Refusal to comply, the letter said, will result in an injunction suit such as was filed by Harry Morgan, turret lathe operator, who clashed with the union last August.

Union Branded Red Fraud.

The workers' action was based upon charges similar to those made by Morgan last summer. The CIO union, they asserted, is a Communist New Deal political machine which fraudulently collects dues by representing itself as a labor union.

Morgan was removed by the union from his position as chief shop steward last June 22. He charged this was because he had refused to distribute Communist and New Deal propaganda leaflets. Morgan contended he was suspended illegally at a meeting of 75 of the 554 shop members of the union. His suit for return of moneys followed.

The workers who rescinded their membership in the union yesterday were among a large group who protested Morgan's removal.

Five Former Stewards.

Five of the workers are former shop stewards. They are Walter Rutkowski, 2345 S. Whipple st.; Clara Scheibe, 4552 S. Kenilworth av., Berwyn; Stanley A. Lubanski, 1847 Alport st.; James Nezgoda, 2633 18th st., and Walter Konkel, 1118 N. La Salle st.

Atty. William J. Grace, acting for the withdrawing members of the union, said the real source of the trouble at the plant is Ernest De Maio, vice president of the international union, in charge of the Chicago area. Grace said De Maio, a notorious Communist, became incensed at Morgan and other stewards who declined to hand out Communist literature and who opposed contribution of one-half the union's $30 initiation fee for sending members to the Communist controled Abraham Lincoln school.

FIGHT AGAINST F. D. R. RAGES IN 4 DIXIE STATES

Louisiana Electors Balk at Pledge.

Paper Backs Dewey

Galveston, Tex., Sept. 27 (AP).—Traditionally Democratic in politics, the Galveston News has announced its support of Gov. Dewey in the Presidential campaign.

"Texas Democrats can best serve the cause of constitutional government and the ultimate interests of their party by voting and working for the election of Thomas E. Dewey," The News, Texas' oldest newspaper, said.

The News opposed Roosevelt's reëlection in 1940, indorsing Wendell Willkie.

Waves of revolt against the Roosevelt administration swept thru four southern states yesterday.

In Louisiana, where 10 Democratic Presidential electors have orders from the state committee to pledge their votes to Roosevelt or resign by Oct. 2, four electors quit rather than take the pledge and four others defied the ultimatum, with one of them threatening court action. Only two electors agreed to support Roosevelt.

In Arkansas, Republican leaders said the state is now "doubtful" as a result of a new Democratic party rule which leaves Democrats free to vote for Republican Presidential electors and congressional candidates and still keep in good standing with the party.

In Alabama the printing of official ballots was delayed to permit a Circuit court ruling on a mandamus action by which the American Democrats, an anti-Roosevelt party, are seeking to force the state secretary to place their slate of electors on the ballot.

In Texas the newly organized Texas regulars sought a coalition with Republicans to concentrate opposition to President Roosevelt in a single party.

ELECTORS BALK AT PLEDGE

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 27 [Special].—E. Wayles Brown of Shreveport, La., vice chairman of the state Democratic committee and one of the Presidential electors named by the party last spring, said today he intends to defy orders from the committee that he and other electors pledge support to President Roosevelt by Oct. 2 or resign as electors.

Brown coupled this announcement with a hint that court action is in prospect to challenge the power of the state committee to exact pledges from electors as to how they intend to vote in the electoral college.

"I will not say now that I will resign as I anticipate some sort of court action that may make resignation unnecessary," Brown said.

Three others among Louisiana's

Split Reported in WPB Over Reconversion

BY JOHN O'DONNELL.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 [N. Y. News].—A savage internal row split the unhappy war production board into quarreling factions tonight and brought forth a shower of threatened resignations as the proposals of Acting Chairman J. A. Krug for the conversion of the nation's industries to a peace time footing, were privately circulated among WPB chiefs.

Charges that the Krug reconversion plan was political and "had been cleared thru Sidney" [Sidney Hillman] to aid the fourth term election of President Roosevelt, were hurled in the WPB headquarters. The charges were accompanied by threats of resignation if Krug, who took office as WPB's acting chief only a month ago, persisted in his proposal.

May Force Revised Plan.

Today's uproar broke out when WPB chiefs of the industrial division learned of the specific details of Krug's plan to abolish or relax the war time controls of industry within 30 days after V-E [victory in Europe]. The proposals were to be made public within the next 48 hours but, because of the hot opposition they met behind the scenes today, may be delayed for drastic revision.

Business men representatives within WPB were frank in predicting that Krug's proposal for sudden relaxation of government control would not only cause industrial chaos but would penalize severely those industries which had turned over their plants to 100 per cent war time production.

Recalls Earlier Feud.

The present battle behind the scenes in WPB recalls the explosion a month ago which resulted in the departure for China of WPB Chairman Donald Nelson and the resignation of Vice Chairman Charles E. Wilson, who quit in a row, because of "Washington sniping" to return to his job as president of General Electric.

The 35 year old Krug, a former TVA executive, who three weeks ago told a senate committee that he was prepared to fire all WPB feudists, was tonight the center of some of the hottest sniping and feuding that the capital has seen. The anti-Krug forces did not hesitate to spread the story that Sidney Hillman, chief of CIO-PAC, was behind the scenes in fomenting the Wilson-Nelson feud, which resulted in Krug's rise to his post of power. Krug's new proposals on the surface apparently have the backing and eager support of Hillman's CIO associates.

HOPKINS' SON WEDS BRITISH DANCE HOSTESS

[By Cable to the New York News and Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The marriage a few days ago of Sgt. Robert Hopkins, 23, son of Harry Hopkins, adviser to President Roosevelt, and Brenda Stephenson, 18, attractive British dance hostess, was disclosed today. A letter is on the way from Hopkins to his father, announcing the nuptials, the young couple said.

"I think my parents-in-law sound very nice," Brenda, a brunette, said today. "I believe they might have preferred Bob and me to have waited, but I'm not sure. I'm now simply dying to go to America."

CHURCH MOVES TO PROSECUTE 4TH TERM BOSS

Radicals in Chicago Drive Named.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Sidney Hillman, CIO political boss, was accused of perjury today after the house committee on un-American activities heard evidence indicating he had testified falsely Aug. 28 before another congressional committee regarding the operations of his political action group.

Sidney Hillman.

The opening of hearings into evidence linking the New Deal administration with Communist leaders and Hillman's PAC in the fourth term campaign was also featured by the following disclosures:

1. The Hillman organization in the Chicago area is under the leadership of notorious Communists, including Ernest De Maio, who assailed President Roosevelt as being "as nutty as Hitler" during the period of the German-Russian nonaggression pact.

Phone White House 28 Times.

2. Twenty-eight telephone calls were made to five White House assistants to the President from New

Sen. Pepper [left], Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas, and Ernest De Maio [right].

York and Chicago headquarters of the PAC during the heat of primary campaigns.

3. An entire government agency, the farm security administration, was taken over and employed as "a political weapon" by Hillman and his aids.

4. Sen. Pepper [D., Fla.], the most vociferous defender of Roosevelt policies in the senate, was at the beck and call of the Hillman organization.

5. Mrs. Helen-Gahagan Douglas of Hollywood, stage and screen actress and the Democratic party's glamor candidate, attempted, under CIO-PAC auspices, to bring about the defeat of Sen. McCarran of Nevada, a veteran Democrat.

80 Per Cent Linked to Reds.

6. More than 80 per cent of the 141 members of the national citizens political action committee organized by Hillman, according to the testimony, "to circumvent the provisions of the Smith-Connally act," have had affiliations with the Communist party or its front organizations during the last 10 years.

7. Hillman is using pressure tactics against CIO unions in the campaign to solicit a "voluntary" dollar from each of the CIO's reported 5 million members.

Interested listeners at the hearing were Chairman Anderson [D., N. M.] and Rep. Church [R., Ill.] of the special house committee which has been investigating the CIO-PAC's political slush fund. Church said the evidence clearly indicated perjury by Hillman in his appearance before Anderson's group and he filed a demand for immediate action leading to prosecution of the labor leader.

"Purge List" Denied.

Hillman testified Aug. 28 that his national organization did not and would not indorse senatorial, congressional, state, or local candidates, asserting "we have no purge list, either public or secret." He emphasized this point again and again, thus avoiding the charge that his group was engaged in illegal political activities.

In charging Hillman with perjury in a letter to Anderson today, Church demanded that the Anderson committee promptly recall the PAC leader as a witness and question him about the discrepancy between his earlier testimony and today's evidence.

Church declared that unless Hillman disproves his apparent perjury to the satisfaction of the committee he will call upon the house group to cite him for contempt of congress. Under congressional procedure, such a contempt citation, after committee approval, would be sent to the house speaker for transmission to the district attorney and presentation to the federal grand jury.

McKeough Message Shown.

Chief Investigator Robert E. Stripling, who outlined the evidence gathered over a period of months to Chairman Costello [D., Cal.] and Rep. Thomas [R., N. J.], introduced into the record a telegram sent by Raymond S. McKeough, regional director of the PAC for Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, to PAC leaders in the three states. It read:

"Please immediately notify all locals and PAC committees thruout your state to positively make no political indorsements until approved by regional and national offices of CIO-PAC."

"These telegrams were sent four days before Hillman gave his testimony, under oath, to the campaign expenditures committee," declared Stripling. "There is little question that McKeough was acting under instructions from the national office; a mere reading of the telegrams makes that clear. Yet, four days later, Hillman was telling a committee of congress that the national PAC did not in any manner interfere with the political freedom of indorsement of the rank and file of the CIO."

PAC leaders in the Chicago area, Stripling said, include John T. Bernard and Ernest De Maio.

De Maio's Efforts Resented.

De Maio is international organizer in charge of the Chicago area for the CIO United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers union, and is also an international vice president. He is a widely known Communist sympathizer and is a fanatical CIO political action leader who is attempting to "whip" every member of his union into line for the New Deal and the Communists. Numerous members of local unions in Chicago have resented his orders to contribute to the PAC and pass out Communist literature and are attempting to rescind their memberships. De Maio spoke at a Communist rally in the Chicago Stadium in 1941 and demanded President Roosevelt release Earl Browder from prison where he was doing time for falsifying passport records. De Maio is a director and faculty member of the Communist dominated Abraham Lincoln school.

Bernard is Chicago director of the PAC committee of the Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers' union. He is a former Farmer-Laborite congressman from Minnesota and known as the "darling of Minnesota Communists." While in congress he waged an incessant fight to help the Spanish Communists. He went to Spain in 1937 and greeted the Communists with their clenched fist salute. During 1943 and 1944 he was an instructor at the Abraham Lincoln school.

Summoned by McKeough.

A telegram Aug. 7 last from McKeough to De Maio was put into the record. It read: "Important policy committee meeting Wednesday 10 o'clock my office. Urgent you be present."

"Witnesses will be presented to the committee who will testify concerning De Maio's dictation of political activities in the Chicago area," Stripling informed the committee. "The above telegram reveals his importance in the PAC program."

The investigator also filed a report on long distance telephone slips subpenaed from the records of the telephone company in New York and Chicago. A summary showed, he said, that 77 different officials and employes of the federal government in 26 different agencies had been in frequent communication with PAC.

Rep. Thomas asked for specific information on calls to the White House. Stripling said the evidence showed 17 PAC calls to David K. Niles in a five month period this year during the primary campaigns. There were six calls to Jonathan Daniels, one to Samuel Rosenman, one to Lowell Mellett, and one to Benjamin Cohen. Several calls were also made from the Chicago headquarters of the PAC to Niles. All those mentioned are aids of President Roosevelt, with offices in the White House.

"The evidence indicates very strongly that one government agency, the farm security administration, is being used as a political weapon by the PAC," continued Stripling. "C. B. Baldwin, former FSA administrator, has been the principal executive officer of the PAC since November, 1943, altho he continued to draw his $10,000 yearly salary from the government until April 11, 1944."

Chairman Costello at this point directed Stripling to demand an explanation from the FSA of how Baldwin continued to draw his government salary. Costello said he presumed it was on the basis of "accrued leave." Baldwin's reported PAC salary is $12,500.

George S. Mitchell, PAC director for nine southern states, was also formerly assistant administrator of the FSA, Stripling noted. Amer Lehman, PAC director for five western states, was another high FSA official.

Fight Against McCarran.

A telegram dated June 27, 1944, from Helen Gahagan Douglas, wife of the movie actor Melvin Douglas, to Sen. Pepper, was placed in the record, it read:

"If at all possible please prevail upon Vail Pittman to run against McCarran in Nevada. Everything is in his favor and he is most electable."

"This telegram was charged to the CIO-PAC in Los Angeles," said Stripling. "Pittman did run against Sen. McCarran in the primary and additional evidence on this point will be presented later. Miss Gahagan, a candidate on the Democratic ticket and one of the principal speakers at the Democratic national convention, is thus shown to be engaged in a conspiracy to bring about the defeat of a Democratic senator. It appears typical of the political intrigue within the PAC."

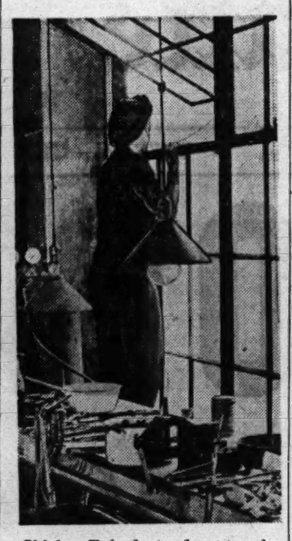
Hillman Pressure Shown.

A telegram sent by Hillman was introduced by the investigator to show the pressure being put upon unions in the "voluntary dollar" campaign. Dated Aug. 24 last, it was sent to John Green, president of the CIO International Union of Marine Ship Workers, Camden, N. J., and read:

"Local nine is committed for $1 a member which amounts to $16,000. To date the administrator has paid only $1,000. He also has not put on a full time man from the national office. Imperative this be done immediately and commitments fulfilled."

Conversation Corner

(Story in adjoining column.)



Shirley Feipel stands at a window of Diamond Tool company which figures in dispute involving a postman, six women, and the women's employer, who closed the window.

REBEL LASSIES INVOKE LAW IN POSTMAN ISSUE

Charges and counter charges of [1] high jinks in the production department of the Diamond Tool company, 938 E. 41st st., and [2] of insanitary working conditions and wage discrimination flew thick and fast yesterday as the walkout of six girl employes, who quit because the windows were closed so they could not chat with the mailman, swung into its second day.

The work stoppage is not a strike in the ordinary sense. The six girls, who are members of no union, simply quit in protest when the windows of their workroom were closed. All were given releases permitting them to seek jobs elsewhere. None is interested in going back. Sheldon Booth, owner of the company, doesn't want them back. He is trying to hire other employes.

The Boss Tells His Side.

Booth explained yesterday that he closed the windows because production of diamond edged cutting tools was falling off because the girls used to spend too much time chatting thru the windows with the mailman, Eugene J. Wiley, 42, of 5127 Union av. Booth said he took his action after he saw one of the girls helping Wiley to climb thru a window.

The girls, four of whom have husbands in the army, indignantly denied any amorous interest in the postman. They explained that they all live in the neighborhood, and that, as a favor, the postman delivered letters from their husbands to them at the plant.

Meanwhile, Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen sent a delivery supervisor to take a statement from Wiley.

Prosecutor's Help Asked.

Assistant State's Atty. Ora P. Lightfoot said the girls called on him Tuesday to voice complaints about insanitary working conditions and wage discrimination, and that he had told them to appear at 10:30 a. m. Saturday for a formal inquiry into the wage discrimination charge.

Mrs. Ruth Leonard, 24, of 4000 Drexel blvd., whose husband, Thomas, 27, is a private in the army air forces, asserted the plant was infested with rats and cockroaches and that the washrooms were filthy.

The other employes are: Mrs. Marian Albertson, 24, of 4000 Drexel blvd., whose husband, Merle, 24, is a sailor; her sister, Mrs. Marjorie Lewisburg, 36, of 4010 Drexel blvd., whose husband is Sgt. J. J. Lewisburg; Marjorie Albertson, 21, of 4344 Ellis av.; Mrs. Florence Katic, 39, of 1006 E. 41st pl., and Mrs. Audrey McKenna, 19, of 4310 Berkeley av., whose husband is in the army.

PLAN SCHOOLS FOR STRANDED YANKS ABROAD

New York, Sept. 27 [Special].—Large numbers of American soldiers, no longer needed, will be kept in Europe after the defeat of Germany because of transportation shortages, an official war department spokesman said today. He was Col. Lawrence Westbrook, assistant director of the department's planning division. He spoke before the industrial relations conference sponsored by the American Management association.

Most of the shipping available after the fall of Germany will be rerouted to supply the troops operating against the Japanese, he indicated.

Westbrook said the war department is preparing to train these men in Europe to equip them for their eventual return to civilian life. This will emphasize vocational courses and will probably include university courses, he said. Also on the agenda are tourists junkets.

BOMBER GROUP CITED.

ROME, Sept. 27 [AP].—Maj. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, commander of the United States 15th air force, presented the Distinguished Service unit badge today to the 456th Liberator bomb group, commanded by Lt. Col. Joseph G. Russell of San Antonio, Tex. The award cited the group for the bombing of Wiener Neustadt aircraft plants last May 10.

INDICT CIO WAR PLANT STEWARD IN MORALS CASE

Rape, Crimes Against Nature Charged.

Howard McGarvey, 36, a chief steward of the CIO United Automobile Workers union at the Studebaker corporation, was named in three indictments returned yesterday before Chief Justice Harold G. Ward of the Criminal court.

Two of the indictments charge McGarvey, who lives at 6129 S. Rockwell st., with crimes against nature and involve alleged offenses against a 14 year old boy. The other charges rape, and is based upon the complaint of Mrs. Helen Antoni, 18, of 3131 W. 131st st.

Forced to Accompany Him.

McGarvey was arrested Sept. 19 when Mrs. Antoni accused him of forcing her, at the point of a knife, to accompany him to his rooms. There, she told police, he subjected her to unnatural abuses and raped her.

The boy's complaint was brought to light during police investigation of Mrs. Antoni's accusations because McGarvey's description tallied with that of a man who forced the boy, also at the point of a knife, to accompany him into a basement.

Dodges Photographers.

When arraigned last week before Judge William V. Daly in Felony court, McGarvey protested when newspaper photographers sought to take his picture. His attorney, John Simpson, told photographers publication of such pictures would be disadvantageous to McGarvey.

McGarvey has been held in the county jail since his arraignment. Bond of $15,000 had been set by Municipal Judge William V. Daly. Under the indictments his bond was elevated to $20,000.

CASHES CHECK, FINDS IT'S STOLEN.

James V. Masters, proprietor of a clothing store at 2906 E. 79th st., told police yesterday that a man posing as a discharged soldier cashed in his store Aug. 2 a $35 check which he later found to have been stolen from Mrs. Johanna Olson, 2807 E. 78th st.

COMMUNISTIC ALP TEAMS WITH PAC TO GET VOTES FOR F. D. R.

New York, Sept. 27 [Special].—The Communist dominated American Labor party and the CIO political action committee today teamed up openly to get out the vote for the Roosevelt-Truman ticket.

Sidney Hillman is both state chairman of the ALP and national chairman of the PAC which is engaged in raising a multi-million dollar slush fund to try to maintain President Roosevelt in power.

Today the ALP officially began a house to house distribution of PAC literature, including a leaflet bearing the title "PAC needs a dollar you won't miss to elect a man you can't afford to lose."

In addition, the city CIO, affiliate of the PAC, had begun sending out more than 100 volunteers to whip up enthusiasm in ALP clubs, a CIO spokesman announced in today's Daily Worker, official Communist newspaper.

Theft of four tires and radio from an automobile in his used car lot at 6318 S. Ashland av. was reported to police yesterday by James Ryan.

UNIONISTS QUIT STRIKE PARLEY TO GO HUNTING

BY GEORGE HARTMANN.

Negotiations for the return of 2,500 strikers to their jobs at two plants of the Revere Copper and Brass company broke down early yesterday, so two international AFL auto workers' union officials, who took part in the negotiations, went pheasant hunting in South Dakota.

The pheasant hunters are Angelo Inciso, ex-convict international representative of the union in charge of Chicago area plants under the union's jurisdiction, and Anthony Doria, international secretary-treasurer of the union.

Called to RWLB Hearing.

Yesterday the regional war labor board ordered strike leaders and company officials to appear before the board this afternoon to show cause why the strikers have not returned to work at the strikebound plants of the company at 2200 N. Natchez av. and 6630 Fullerton av.

A union spokesman said Doria and Inciso are attending a WLB panel hearing in South Dakota involving the International Harvester company. The International Harvester company checked its records of pending and current WLB and national labor relations board hearings, but could find no record of any hearings involving any of the company's plants in South Dakota.

The Revere negotiations which collapsed yesterday started at 3 p. m. Tuesday. Doria, it was learned, demanded the company "give the union something" so the union leaders could offer the strikers some inducement to return.

Want Men Back First.

The company stood on its demand that the strikers return to work first.

Without gaining the union shop for which they struck, several hundred store managers for the National Tea company, members of local 1555 of the AFL Retail Clerks International Protective association, voted to end their strike and reopened the company's stores thruout the Chicago area yesterday.

Twelve billet checkers at the Wisconsin Steel works of the International Harvester company, whose strike Tuesday forced 750 other workers into idleness, returned to work yesterday. The regional war labor board assured the men their request for a wage adjustment would be handled in a few days.

Another strike settled yesterday was one of 400 members of the United Automobile Workers [CIO], who struck Tuesday at the Dole Valve company, 1923 Carroll av.

250 Back to Jobs.

Two hundred fifty striking employes of the General American Transportation corporation in East Chicago, Ind., agreed to return to work today after listening to an address last night by Lester Thornton, sub-district director of the United Steelworkers [CIO] for the Indiana Harbor district, in the union hall at 3436 Michigan st., East Chicago.

The strikers, members of local 1133 of the USW, had been out since Monday in a dispute over a daily quota of 20 gondola cars, which they said was too high. The strikers included assemblers, riveters, buckers, fitters, heaters, and welders.

70 PASSENGERS UNINJURED IN NO. SHORE CRASH

A two-car Chicago bound North Shore Line train carrying 70 passengers crashed head-on into a Waukegan-Great Lakes city line car last night on Sheridan rd., half a block north of 22d st., in North Chicago.

The only person on the city line car was the motorman-conductor, James Matthews, 2217 Washington st., Waukegan. He was uninjured. The Shore Line train was slowing down at the time for the 22d st. stop.

North Chicago police said Matthews' car was operating north on the southbound track, preparing to enter the car barns at that point. None of the passengers on the North Shore train was injured.

SOLDIERS WRITE SCORN OF KELLY PLEA FOR F. D. R.

Compare Japs' 'Sense of Fair Play.'

Resentment at what they call a patent attempt to dictate their vote is being shown in an increasing number of letters being received by THE TRIBUNE from Cook county service men overseas who have received Mayor Kelly's letter calling upon them to mark their ballot for the entire Democratic ticket.

"I've seen captured Japs with a greater sense of fair play," declared one soldier, stationed in New Guinea.

"In my present predicament, I have been handed a ballot and a blindfold," wrote another soldier fighting in the South Pacific.

How Kelly Seeks Votes.

Announcing the nomination of Roosevelt, Mayor Kelly wrote each Cook county service man as chairman of the Democratic county central committee because "feeling that you would like to vote for him in the forthcoming election, we deem it not only our privilege but our duty to aid you in doing so."

The Kelly letter continued: "When you do receive an official ballot, the simplest and quickest way to indicate your loyal support is by making a cross [X] in the circle in front of the word DEMOCRATIC at the top of the first column on the ballot. One single cross in that circle means a vote for each of our candidates."

Soldier Condemns Letter.

"Unreasonable as it may sound," wrote one soldier from the Pacific, "it is entirely possible that some few out-of-touch soldiers in the far flung corners would interpret that one paragraph as official instructions.

"Three weeks ago, we all mailed applications for ballots to our home states, so this letter is unnecessary. If such books as 'Yankee from Olympia,' 'America Unlimited,' and 'Ten Years in Japan' are banned as dangerous political propaganda, where does the central committee of the Democratic party of Cook county get off sending out this stuff? I hope the committee gets its ears pinned back. Our 'sacrifices,' to which they so gallantly refer, aren't made for outfits that operate like that."

Called Sample of Arrogance.

Another soldier inclosed the Kelly letter he received and wrote: "Speaking as a soldier 12 months overseas whose congress has seen fit to withhold from the armed forces all writings of a political nature, I deem Mr. Kelly's pre-digested ballot a sample of the arrogance of the Democratic party.

"It presumes me incapable of thinking beyond the precincts of Mr. Kelly's wishes and of writing more than a fairly legible 'X.'

"I commend the Republican party for being above such propagandizing as the party in power is now using."

SAYS WALLACE SWAP KILLS 4TH TERM'S CHANCE

The New Deal's chance to obtain a fourth term was blown out the window when the President traded horses in the middle of the stream by swapping Vice President Wallace for Sen. Truman, State Auditor Lueder declared at a Republican meeting in Wheaton yesterday.

"When Roosevelt dumped Wallace he sold out millions of people who had helped elect him three times," said Lueder, a candidate for reelection. "He chose to rely on the corrupt political machines of America to win him a fourth term instead of on the threadbare theories of the New Deal.

"Wallace knows he was sold out. The country knows he was sold short. But the American people are not going to turn the White House over to the unholy alliance of Missouri, headed by Pendergast, Truman, and Hannegan."

Mayor's Letter Seeks Soldier Votes for Roosevelt

EDWARD J. KELLY

Chairman, Central Committee of the Democratic Party of Cook County
Democratic National Committeeman

HEADQUARTERS • MORRISON HOTEL • CHICAGO

Dear Friend:

Franklin D. Roosevelt has been nominated for reelection as President of the United States. Feeling that you would like to vote for him in the forthcoming Election of November 7, 1944, we deem it not only our privilege but our duty to aid you in doing so. We enclose herewith an "Application for Ballot". In order to receive a ballot, you must first fill out this "Application for Ballot", have it certified by a commissioned officer and return it by mail as soon as possible to the County Clerk of Cook County, Chicago, Illinois.

If you have already filled out and mailed to the Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois, a Federal Army-Navy Post Card Application for Ballot, that application may be sufficient, but to be doubly sure send in the enclosed also.

Senator Harry S. Truman has been nominated as Vice President. Our other leading candidates are Scott W. Lucas, for reelection as United States Senator; Thomas J. Courtney, able State's Attorney and a veteran of World War I, for Governor; Mrs. Paul Douglas, whose husband is serving with the Marines in the Pacific, for Representative in Congress at Large; and Edward J. Barrett, now serving with the United States Marines, for Secretary of State. These candidates for National, State and County offices, are staunch, ardent supporters of President Roosevelt. In addition to the foregoing, there are listed for your convenience on the reverse of this sheet, the names of our other highly qualified candidates for State and County offices. This is not an official ballot.

When you do receive an official ballot, the simplest and quickest way to indicate your loyal support is by making a cross (X) in the circle in front of the word DEMOCRATIC at the top of the first column on the ballot. One, single cross in that circle means a vote for each of our candidates.

We are all deeply grateful for the sacrifices you are making for our country and trust that with your help and under the continued guidance of President Roosevelt this war will end soon in a lasting peace.

Sincerely yours,

Edward J. Kelly

CHAIRMAN,
CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY OF COOK COUNTY
DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN

BRIDGES' APPEAL IN DEPORTATION FIGHT REJECTED

Plans to Take Case to Supreme Court.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 27 [Special].—Harry Bridges, radical CIO leader of west coast longshoremen, today was given another setback in his fight against deportation to his native Australia on a charge he is an undesirable alien with Communist affiliations—a fight in which he has resisted successfully for more than six years.

The United States ninth circuit Court of Appeals turned down Bridges' petition for a rehearing. The petition had been filed after the court on June 26 upheld a federal District court order which, in turn, had upheld the original deportation order issued by Atty. Gen. Biddle.

Evidence Challenged.

Attorneys for the alien had contended, in petitioning for a rehearing, that the deportation decision was made on the basis of accepting a "mere scintilla of evidence."

"Federal courts do not regard a mere scintilla of evidence as effective for any purpose," Justice Albert Lee Stephens wrote, "and it is my understanding that in using the word 'evidence' the idea of the mere scintilla was never considered.

"Where there is evidence of more than a scintilla and not unbelievable on its face, the administrative head must resolve the doubts as to its credibility. On this rule we have ordered enforced numerous orders for the exclusion and deportation of aliens without regard to our own view as to the fact finding discretionary conclusions.

Court Adheres to Rule.

"The advisability of liberalizing this rule is currently the subject of much discussion, but whatever the ultimate action may be on such issues, it is clear to me that this intermediate court must adhere to the rule as it presently exists."

Today's action makes the United States Supreme court the only tribunal which can halt the deportation order. Bridges' attorneys have declared from the inception of the case that they would carry it that high if necessary.

Charges repeatedly have been made that there seem to be powerful influences at work to prevent Bridges' deportation despite a multiplicity of trials and hearings which finally culminated in a deportation hearing in 1941 at which it was ruled he had been affiliated with the Communists and should be deported.

Move Balked in Senate.

The house of representatives twice passed bills providing for his deportation forthwith but both measures were smothered in the senate. Secretary of Labor Perkins quashed a deportation warrant which had been issued early in the proceedings.

A special examiner for the department of justice conducted hearings on evidence brought to light by the FBI and found that Bridges was a Communist and, as such, a member of an organization working for the overthrow of the government, but the immigration board of appeals reversed this finding.

WITNESS TELLS OF OIL HEIRESS' ROW WITH YOUTH

Salinas, Cal., Sept. 27 [Special].—Bean field love talks between Jay Lovett, 19, and Mrs. Frances Andrews, 37, the oil heiress who is on trial for his murder last July 15, were described today by Jay's sister, Myrtle Jean Perry, who appeared as a state witness.

Myrtle said she had overheard Mrs. Andrews, owner of a Carmel valley ranch, berating Jay for his attentions to Mrs. Nancy Linde, wife of a San Francisco physician, and that she described a new building on Mrs. Linde's property as a "love nest for Jay and the redhead."

On another occasion, Myrtle said she saw Mrs. Andrews point from the bean field to a herd of home going cows and comment to Jay that the cows were rushing home "just as you rush to the redhead."

Claims He Shot Himself.

The state has charged that Mrs. Andrews shot and killed Jay in a jealous rage after he spurned a dinner invitation from her in order to keep an engagement with Mrs. Linde. The defense for Mrs. Andrews is based on the theory Jay shot himself with a revolver he borrowed from the wealthy matron.

Mrs. Andrews drove them to a place on the highway where the body lay, Myrtle said, and on the way Mrs. Lovett exclaimed, "What on earth caused my child to do a thing like that?"

Three Threatening Letters.

Asked if Mrs. Andrews had implanted the idea of suicide in their minds by telling them the young ranch hand had shot himself, Myrtle was unable to recall such a remark until shown her grand jury testimony. She then said Mrs. Andrews might have said, "Jay killed himself."

During cross-examination of Luther Lovett, 17, brother of Jay, Leo Friedman, defense attorney, produced three threatening letters written to defense witnesses and asked Luther if he had written them. Luther denied it and Friedman then demanded and obtained samples of the boy's handwriting.

NAVY RUSHES TO GIVE YACHT BACK TO DAVIES

Boston, Mass., Sept. 27 [Special].—Joseph E. Davies' palatial pleasure yacht, Sea Cloud, will be returned to him about Nov. 1, the navy here announced tonight. Davies is the former ambassador to Russia.

The statement, issued by the navy public relations office, came after it was learned that the 316 foot bark was being decommissioned here and after the Boston Traveler reported that the navy had ordered special priorities to speed the return of the yacht to Davies.

The navy statement said that with the improved submarine situation, the navy is returning to their owners or former owners several hundred other pleasure craft.

HIGH CALIFORNIA DEMOCRAT WILL VOTE FOR DEWEY

Senator Calls for Fight Against Reds.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 27.—The political sensation of the hour in California is the withdrawal of State Sen. Jack B. Tenney from the Democratic party and his registration as a Republican to help save the country from the state socialism threatened by a fourth term for Mr. Roosevelt under the influence of Sidney Hillman's Communist dominated CIO.

Tenney's declaration for Gov. Dewey symbolizes the revolt not only in the Democratic party against the totalitarian tendencies of the New Deal but in the ranks of organized labor, for Tenney has long been a prominent leader in the American Federation of Labor as president of musicians' unions. The senator predicted that four years more of the New Deal would mean the Russianizing of labor unions and the loss of all their gains.

Bridges' Men for F. D. R.

While the longshoremen under the rule of Harry Bridges, the Australian Communist whose deportation was ordered by Atty. Gen. Biddle, and other CIO unions have gone all out for the fourth term, the AFL is divided. The executive committee of the California Federation of Labor indorsed Mr. Roosevelt but the president of the federation, Anthony Noriega, is supporting Gov. Dewey.

Noriega, who has a large following, took a prominent part in the reception of Dewey in San Francisco and headed a committee of 15 union leaders who conferred with the candidate before his speech. They discussed with Mr. Dewey his attitude on labor questions and came away satisfied, according to the statements of several of the participants.

Sen. Tenney achieved fame on the west coast as the chairman for five years of the California legislature's committee investigating un-American activities. In one of the reports of this committee Tenney exposed the Communist-New Deal-CIO tieup.

Result of Long Study.

"My decision to register as a Republican is not a decision lightly made," said Tenney in his formal announcement of withdrawal from the party of which he has been a member thruout his career. "It is based on studies and investigations made over the past four or five years.

"It has become increasingly difficult during the past several years for an independent American to work within the Democratic party. I have observed with alarm the infiltration of bonafide members of the Communist party into the Democratic party, and because of the demagoguery and the ambitions of office seekers and office holders, nothing has been done to check this insidious infiltration.

Clutch of Burocracy.

'I no longer can remain a Democrat and preserve my self-respect as a citizen of the greatest republic in the history of the world. In the clutch of New Deal burocracy the Democratic party no longer represents true democracy or the principles that build America.

"It has been taken over lock, stock, and barrel by Sidney Hillman, the CIO political action committee, and the Communist party. It is no longer the party of Jefferson and Jackson. It is now the party of Hillman and Earl Browder.

"The Constitution of the United States and government by law is being continually by-passed and people are being sold down the river by demagogues who are more interested in holding office than in doing the job according to law.

"Organized labor is being betrayed even while being courted. Present trends indicate the ultimate loss of every gain made by legitimate labor thru the years if the New Deal remains in power. The relationship of employer and employe may soon be that of labor versus the government. Strikes, boycotts, and picketing, legitimate labor practices in a free government, may soon be treason against the New Deal government."

A suggestion that allied generals who are fighting the war should be represented at the peace table was offered to members of the Army and Navy club post of the American Legion last night when Philip R. Davis was installed as commander, in the club at 410 S. Michigan av.

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, retired, told of the late Marshal Foch's visit to the country in 1921, and quoted from the great Frenchman's only speech in this country Nov. 19, 1921. He pointed out that not one of the generals who fought World War I., was at the peace table, adding: "There is a tie and a spirit of conciliation between men who fight together that is not found among diplomats or in other groups."

During the ceremonies Atty. Davis, author, playwright, reconteur, and officer of the first World war, was presented with a gavel by John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, on behalf of a group of Davis' colleagues at the bar. Davis was first judge advocate of the Legion's department of Illinois. The installing officer was James P. Ringley, past department commander.

WALLACE GIVES F. D. A RETURN 'INDORSEMENT'

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 27 [Special]. — Vice President Wallace, speaking under auspices of the CIO-political action committee, today urged organized labor to support the candidacy of President Roosevelt in the interest of post-war jobs, but only if "hard-boiled" thinking led the working man to the same conclusion.

Observers noted no satirical note in the Vice President's voice as he spoke to 3,500 members of the CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Ship Building workers during their lunch hour at the Cramp Shipbuilding company, but to many, his remarks suggested an endorsement of President Roosevelt paralleling that given Wallace by the President to the Democratic national convention in the matter of selecting the President's running mate. For in picking their candidate, he urged the workers to "think the thing thru and be perfectly hard boiled about it."

KELLY MACHINE UNDER FIRE AT G.O.P. RALLIES

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Picking up speed, the Republican campaign in Cook county last night found county candidates showing their determination to join in blows against the Kelly Democratic machine.

The Chicago school board's failure yesterday to change the no-transfer order was declared a help to the Republican cause. This kept fresh an issue favored by John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney.

Mrs. Helen Dormitzer, vice chairman of the citizens committee for Dempsey, and vice president of the Woman's City club, ridiculed the statement of his Democratic opponent, William J. Tuohy, that he would investigate the school board.

Good Faith Questioned.

"This statement by the Kelly candidate for state's attorney is remarkable," Mrs. Dormitzer said.

"It is as tho Kelly promised to investigate Kelly. It presents the possibility of a Kelly state's attorney investigating Kelly's superintendent of schools.

"If such an investigation were undertaken, it would end in a complete silence."

Leo Carr, Republican nominee for sheriff, speaking at ward meetings, charged that Sheriff Mulcahy is attempting to trade courtesy cards for votes. The Democratic incumbent is a "willing collaborator in the alliance between the Democratic machine and gangdom," Carr said.

"These courtesy cards infer a license to break the law without fear of arrest," Carr said. "They are being handed out by the hundreds by 'King' Kelly's gang. These pasteboards now are in the hands of hoodlums who I am told openly flaunt them as evidence of their drag."

Asserts Kelly Rules Police.

Raymond J. Peacock, Republican nominee for recorder of deeds, told an audience at 3647 E. 106th st, that Mayor Kelly does not permit police captains to control their districts.

"Crime can be substantially reduced in Chicago," Peacock said. "But not until the control of the police districts is taken out of the hands of the Kelly city hall henchmen and returned to the police captains. These henchmen are interested only in seeing that the Kelly machine gets its full cut from organized gambling and vice.' '

Laddie T. Pelnar, G. O. P. nominee for Superior court clerk, predicted that 85 per cent of the citizens in the country towns of Cook county will vote Nov. 7 and give victory to the Republican ticket. In 1942 only 50 per cent voted, but the party lost by only 60,000 votes, he told an audience in the Hotel La Salle.

ENDS LIFE IN RIVER.

Albert F. Byczik, 46, of 2818 Short st., leaped into the Chicago river at Eleanor and Lock sts. and was drowned yesterday.

Dewey Tabs

(Story in adjoining column.)

DEWEY BUTTONS GO TOO FAST TO KEEP UP SUPPLY

Dewey-for-President buttons went like hot cakes yesterday at THE TRIBUNE'S Public Service office at Madison and Dearborn sts. When the office opened at 9 a. m., 2,000 were available. At 11 a. m., 1,300 of them were gone, and at 2 p. m. the last of them went over the counter.

Many of those who requested buttons were content with one to pin on the lapel or bodice. But many wanted more than one; some requested 40 and 50 at a time for clubs or lists of employes. The buttons, however, were limited to two to a person.

Another 1,000 Snapped Up.

That limitation will continue in effect from day to day as THE TRIBUNE is able to obtain the buttons from Republican state headquarters in the La Salle hotel, which provided the initial 2,000. Because the first batch went so fast an additional 1,000 was sent over from Republican headquarters at 3:30 p. m. These, too, were gone when the office closed for the day.

A number of business concerns requested buttons by the thousands. The largest request came from the office of Sewell Avery, chairman of Montgomery Ward & Co., who was carried from the company's big building at Chicago av. and the river by soldiers in a dispute over the administration's seizure of the property. Avery's office wanted 5,000 buttons. This request was referred to the Greenduck company, Chicago manufacturers of the buttons.

Word reached Republican state headquarters that 400,000 of the insignia are "in transit to Chicago from New York." Out of 5 million purchased by Republican national headquarters, 425,000 had been alloted to Illinois.

Lapel Tabs Are Popular.

The Greenduck company also is turning out lapel tabs with Dewey's name on them. W. U. Watson, president of the concern, said these apparently are popular with many voters.

Watson added that he received orders yesterday for 700,000 more Dewey buttons. He said 500,000 will go to San Francisco for the California state organization, 100,000 to Detroit for Michigan Republicans, and another 100,000 to Milwaukee for the Wisconsin G. O. P.

The buttons supplied to this newspaper are about one-half inch in diameter with "Dewey" across them in sizeable letters. Many of those asking for them were disappointed; they were expecting buttons with Gov. Dewey's picture. A number also asked for larger buttons with photographs of both Dewey and Gov. Bricker, nominee for Vice President.

STREET STRAW BALLOTS SHOW G. O. P. GAIN HERE

Sen. Brooks was elected in 1942 by a plurality of 202,000 votes, and Gov. Dewey, Republican nominee for President, promises to exceed that margin by his standing in Chicago straw votes, G. O. P. leaders disclosed yesterday.

The most recent poll was taken last Saturday, before the exchange of blows by President Roosevelt and Dewey which Republican leaders say has enormously increased Dewey's appeal to the public. But it showed Dewey ahead of Brooks' 1942 record in the same wards, they said.

Admitting the inconclusive nature of street corner polls in comparison with actual voting of entire wards, they maintain that the results must be accepted as significant.

Of the 13 corners where pedestrians were polled, seven showed a gain for Dewey over the 1942 ward figures; two were the same as in 1942, and four showed a loss in G. O. P. percentage.

CROWDS DEMAND DEWEY 'POUR IT ON!'—SO HE DOES

Enthusiasm Increases as He Recrosses U. S.

En route with Dewey to Albany, Sept. 27 (AP).—As the October phase of the Presidential campaign was being planned today, Gov. Dewey relaxed to survey the results of his 6,700 mile sortie to the Pacific coast and back.

The "pour it on, Tom" messages that arrived blizzard fashion after the Republican nominee's fighting Oklahoma City speech, plus the increased enthusiasm of station crowds since then may impel Dewey to drop his scholarly campaigning tactics and fight it out on a personal basis.

While emphasizing that he will "not join my opponent in his descent to mud slinging," the New York governor has developed an obvious relish for lambasting such New Deal figures as Ickes and Perkins and Harry Hopkins.

Cheers Greet Attacks.

The response was always wild cheering which brought a wide grin to the candidate's tanned face.

The trip now drawing to a close started out sedately with platform appearances confined to hand shaking and autograph signing. Dewey had planned to speak only to big political rallies where his carefully chosen words could be broadcast.

But as the train wound across the country the governor started making little talks to those who came to see him at the smaller stops. He gave mostly excerpts from speeches he had delivered in Philadelphia and Louisville.

Station Talks Increase.

The station talks began growing longer and more frequent. At Claremore and Vinita, Okla., and at Monett and Springfield, Mo., he began running beyond the scope of his major speeches.

At Monett, where 5,000 persons had gathered, the governor remarked "there must be a lot of people who want a change in Washington."

Some one in the crowd shouted, "And we're going to have it."

This brought a grin to Dewey's face and he declared: "That's right. It's not going to be such a tough job if we have your help."

Wants to Clean House.

Responding to the cheers of a crowd at Muncie, Ind., this afternoon, Dewey said:

"There is a job in Washington which I would particularly like to do. I should like to start the best housecleaning job the government ever got. We'll start with Madam Perkins and get a secretary of labor from the ranks of labor who knows labor's problems."

At Bellefontaine, O., Dewey told a station crowd that the biggest job of all will be to see to it that we do not go back to those dreary days when the WPA set the standard of living in this country."

Going to West Virginia.

Arriving back in Albany tomorrow, Dewey will prepare material for the closing phases of the campaign. He will speak in Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 6, and he noted with a smile that President Roosevelt is scheduled to speak the night before.

Whether he will continue on from Charleston for a tour of the midwest has not been decided.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by David Deutsch, Brooklyn, N. Y.]

THE QUESTION.

What does your husband think is his secret vice?

WHERE ASKED.

Carson Pirie Scott and company.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. Jerome Streff, housewife, 1549 Jonquil ter.—Before my husband went into the service he was in the refrigerator business. He used to call and say "I'll be a little late tonight. I have to stop by and fix a refrigerator." He didn't mention that he wanted to lighten the load of a refrigerator in a bar by a bottle of beer.

Mrs. Milton Strate, housewife, Poplar Grove, Ill.—When he comes home for dinner and says he isn't hungry it's usually a sign he already has eaten. He doesn't like to tell me, tho, if I have dinner ready. If he stops to see his sister on his way home they usually ask him to stay and he eats there and then eats again at home.

Mrs. Sam Sterling, housewife, 4200 Hazel st.—He doesn't have any now, but he used to have when I was working. I had to work holidays and when I'd come home I'd ask, "What did you do today?" and he'd tell me all he did around the house. But he never wanted to go to bed and I'm sure he slept most of the day.

Mrs. J. J. Wilson, housewife, Lawrence, Kas.—He uses any excuse he can think of to buy a new necktie. He has even gone so far as to buy a new suit so he could get a couple of new ties to match. When he sees one he likes he buys it, puts it on his necktie rack and purposely neglects to mention he has a new tie until I spot it.

Mrs. Anthony R. Anderson, housewife, 7642 Bosworth av.—He kids the girls at the office. He and another fellow are the only men and there are seven or eight girls. He must have said something to his secretary about me because he casually remarked after I had visited his office, "My secretary said, 'Well, your wife isn't so big.'"

Canadian Major Ousted for Insulting the King

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—For making improper references to the king in a sergeants' mess and threatening to commit suicide, Maj. J. T. McLoughlin, 42, commanding officer of an engineers' company, today was sentenced by a court martial to be cashiered. McLoughlin, who rose from the ranks, was due to retire on pension in a few months' time after 20 years' service in the Canadian army.

DIRKSEN BLASTS F. D. R. QUIPS AS MOCKING NATION

Playwright Robert E. Sherwood was brought back from London by plane to inject showmanship into Roosevelt's speech of last Saturday night, Rep. Dirksen [R., Pekin] declared last night in a speech broadcast from radio station W-G-N over the nation-wide Mutual Broadcasting system.

One of the President's speech writers, Sherwood had been in the British capital recently as head of the overseas branch of the office of war information. His hurried return to this country was for the purpose of lending his talents as "master of the smart phrase" to F. D. R., Dirksen said.

"Sought Light; Got Quips."

"Where the people sought statesmanship, they got showmanship," the congressman said. "Where they sought a report on big things, they got smart sallies. People sought light and got quips. They sought guidance and got wise-cracks.

"The people sought humility and got a strange kind of arrogance. Their hope for comfort was turned into the cold ashes of despair.

"Is this the spiritual leadership that the people expect as young men die on distant battlefields? Is this the sweet bread of inspiration or the cold stone of demagoguery?"

Roosevelt had just come from the conference at Quebec, with its hints of supreme importance, but he did not choose to let the people in on those doings, Dirksen declared.

Hits Silence on Parleys.

"Young men who are about to die are interested in what their sacrifices may achieve in a faulty world," he said. "I hoped he would discuss Teheran. It is more than a year since the fourth term candidate met with Stalin at Teheran. It must have been important, even tho no report has been made to the nation.

"Earl Browder, the Communist leader, deemed it so important that he wrote a book about it. He said life begins with Teheran. Perhaps so. But it is news to us, because the President has not seen fit to tell us about it."

Mr. Roosevelt's speech was a service to the nation in one respect—it presented a clear contrast of what the people will have when Tom Dewey is elected 41 days hence, Dirksen concluded.

COUNTS JERSEY FOR G.O.P.; SAYS PAC TURNS TIDE

Activity of Sidney Hillman's political action committee is making New Jersey safely Republican for the November election, declared Rep. Gordon Canfield [R., N. J.] who was in Chicago yesterday to address the Propellor club in the Merchandise Mart.

Canfield ran against Irving Abramson, president of the New Jersey state CIO council, in 1942 and defeated him by a 2 to 1 vote. Abramson, he said, is now a director on the PAC committee, having charge of New Jersey, Maryland, and Delaware.

The New Jersey congressman, who traveled incognito as a seaman on a tanker shortly after D-day, declared the maintenance of a No. 1 merchant marine and a seven ocean navy are essential to American defense and prosperity after the war.

WATCH AND $50 STOLEN.

Burglars took $50 and a wrist watch from her home, Mrs. Joseph De Marco, 124 S. Paulina st., told police yesterday.

REVOLT AGAINST F. D. R. RAGES IN 4 DIXIE STATES

Louisiana Electors Balk at Vote Pledge.

10 electors indicated they also will refuse either to resign or promise to vote for the party's national nominees. Four electors submitted their resignations, asserting they would not bind themselves to vote for Roosevelt and Truman. Only two electors announced they would remain on the slate and support the national ticket.

The committee's ultimatum to the electors was given yesterday thru adoption of a resolution by a vote of 77 to 17.

The resolution indicated that electors refusing to resign or sign Roosevelt pledges by Oct. 2 would be arbitrarily removed from the slate and replaced by persons willing to pledge their votes to Roosevelt.

Power Challenged.

"The committee has no power to exact pledges of this kind," Brown asserted. "Under the Constitution, Presidential electors are semi-judicial officers and it is not within the prerogatives of the state committee to ask them how they are going to vote or to give them orders as to whom they must vote for."

Louis C. Riecke of New Orleans, one of the electors who sent his resignation to the state committee today, asserted the electoral slate selected last spring contained a preponderance of anti-New Dealers because the committee at that time desired such a slate.

"It was not an accident that eight of the 10 electors were anti-Roosevelt men," he said, implying that state Democratic leaders now were trying to throw the slate into the discard after using it for bargaining purposes with the national administration.

ARKANSAS HELD DOUBTFUL

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 27 [Special].—An assertion that Arkansas is now a doubtful state in the national election was made here today by Wallace Townsend, Republican national committeeman for Arkansas, following revelation that a new Democratic party rule apparently permits Democrats to vote for Republican national candidates.

Townsend said the rule was adopted at the Democratic state convention Sept. 16 for the ostensible purpose of tightening restrictions against Negro participation in Democratic primaries but that its wording abrogates a long standing provision making support of national candidates a condition for maintenance of party membership.

Arthur Adams of Jonesboro, Ark., state Democratic chairman, indicated he is not willing to accept Townsend's interpretation of the Democratic rule change, but said he will issue a statement on the subject tomorrow. Other Democratic leaders said there was no intention to relax party control over Democratic voting in national elections, and that if this has inadvertently been done by the new rule the committee can be called into special session to amend it.

"With the releasing of the Democratic party control over its members in the national election, this year's campaign has ceased to be perfunctory and has become a battle for the state's nine electoral votes," Townsend said in a statement.

Declaration Required.

He added that the change gives Arkansas a chance to elect a Republican congressman for the first time since reconstruction days. In the 3d district, where Rep. Fulbright vacated his seat to run for the senate, Tom Sullins of Fayetteville, an attorney, is the Republican nominee. He has been regarded as a strong candidate and has been putting up a brisk campaign against the Democratic choice, Circuit Judge J. W. Trimble of Berryville.

Discussing confusion regarding the effect of the rule change, political observers explained that the Democratic party in Arkansas has long had a rule requiring that persons wishing to vote in a Democratic primary make a declaration before election judges that they are Democrats and will support both the state and national tickets. The old rule provided for the barring from primaries for two years of voters who fail to vote for both the state and national nominees.

The new rule, it was said, adds more rigid qualifications for acceptance of prospective voters as Democrats and gives wide challenging power to election judges, a provision intended to increase the difficulty of Negroes in obtaining Democratic primary ballots.

The rule is so worded, however, according to Townsend, that no declaration for the support of nominees for national office is now required, emphasis being placed solely upon the support of nominees for state office. This, he contends, leaves Democrats free to vote for Republican Presidential electors and congressional candidates and still keep in good standing with the party.

"Yep, women have handled men's work O. K. on some jobs. But I'll be glad when I can get a man in the kitchen again!"

CENSUS CHIEF URGES NEW BIRTH RECORDS TO SPARE CHILDREN

An estimate that one out of every 12 children in the United States today is illegitimate is made by Dr. Halbert L. Dunn, chief of vital statistics for the bureau of census, in an article in the current issue of Hygeia, health magazine.

Illegitimate children can be spared embarrassment, he suggested, by revising birth certificate forms to prevent them from improperly disclosing facts of parentage. A short form of birth certification, Dr. Dunn claimed, would serve more than 95 per cent of the needs of the public.

"Nation-wide use of a short certificate containing name, date, place, sex, and birth certificate number might go far toward solving the crazy quilt of tragedy which has blanketed the intelligent use of birth certificate information," he wrote.

DELAYS BALLOT PRINTING

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 27 [Special].—State Secretary Sybil Pool said today she will delay the printing of ballots for the Nov. 7 national election until Judge Walter B. Jones of the Montgomery Circuit court has announced a ruling on a mandamus action by which the American Democratic party is attempting to force her to include its Presidential elector slate.

Her announcement was coupled with an assertion by officials of the party, an anti-Roosevelt group, that they will take the case to the state Supreme court in the event Judge Jones' decision is adverse to them.

Anti Slate Filed.

The American Democratic party was organized last month by Roosevelt opponents and held a state convention at Birmingham. A slate of electors was selected and filed with the state secretary for inclusion on the November ballot under the American Democratic party designation. These electors are pledged to vote for some Democrat other than President Roosevelt.

The mandamus suit was instituted last Saturday after Atty. Gen. William McQueen ruled that the Birmingham convention was illegally constituted and that its slate of electors could not be printed on the ballot.

In a hearing yesterday before Judge Jones, McQueen argued that party conventions must consist of delegates regularly elected from precincts, wards, or other election districts. He said delegates to the Birmingham convention were self-selected and that the meeting was technically only an assembly.

Bars New Parties.

Counsel for the American Democrats reported that a construction of election laws such as insisted upon by McQueen would bar a new party from ever getting a start in Alabama. It was insisted that all requirements of the law were observed by the Birmingham delegates. Judge Jones took the case under advisement.

The regular Democratic party organization in Alabama has named 11 electors, all pledged to Roosevelt and Truman.

SEEK TEXAS COALITION

Austin, Tex., Sept. 27 (AP).—R. B. Creager of Brownsville, Republican national committeeman from Texas, said today an effort was being made to bring about coalition of Texas forces opposed to the reelection of President Roosevelt.

Creager was asked if an effort had been made by leaders of the newly formed Texas regular party to persuade Republicans to withdraw their electors from the general election ballot in order to concentrate the anti-Roosevelt sentiment.

"I can say they would like to have that done," he replied. "It will not be done."

Plan Being Considered.

"A method of trying to combine the Texas forces opposed to the reelection of Roosevelt and the New Deal is under consideration," Creager added.

"It would be too bad if a common ground could not be found for a united front on the part of those opposed to Roosevelt.

"But it must be done realistically. The regulars are in a negative position, and I think the majority of them will come around to Dewey because of their position in regard to the New Deal."

"I think the Republican party alone will bring out a minimum of 250,000 votes for Dewey."

LIQUOR AND $115 STOLEN.

Mrs. Helen Yanahan reported to police yesterday that burglars broke into her Ideal tavern at 5706 Morgan st. and stole $115 in cash and $180 worth of liquor and tobacco.

BRICKER LEARNS TO ECONOMIZE AS A BOY ON FARM

[This is the second in a series of articles comparing the careers of Gov. John W. Bricker and Sen. Harry S. Truman, the candidates for Vice President.]

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Sept 27.—Slow, steady advancement, achieved without wealth or political "pull," has marked the career of John W. Bricker, the Republican candidate for Vice President. Like his Democratic rival, Harry S. Truman, Bricker was reared on a farm. There he learned a lesson that he applied when he became governor of Ohio.

"I was taught by my dad," he said, "that in cash crop years something had better be laid aside to tide over lean years. Every year could not be a corn-hog year."

Bricker went to high school in Mount Sterling, O., driving the six miles from home to school in a buggy drawn by the family's mare. Each evening he milked six or seven cows.

Works for College Funds.

After graduation from high school in 1911, young Bricker wanted to go to college, but that had to be deferred. He got a job teaching a rural school near his home, where he could also help with the farm work.

The school teaching job paid $45 a month. Bricker got an additional $5 a month for serving as janitor. The money Bricker put by during his year as a teacher, plus his previous savings, amounted to $450. This was sufficient to defray a good portion of his college expenses, and in 1912 he enrolled in Ohio State university.

The university doctors immediately discovered he had an unusually slow heartbeat, and barred him from football, track, basketball, and gymnasium classes. The doctors said nothing about baseball, so Bricker tried out for that sport and made the varsity in his sophomore year. This was a lucky break. There was a shortage of good catchers on the squad that year.

He Learns Debating.

As a junior, Bricker was a varsity debater, and in his senior year he was elected president of the university Y. M. C. A. When he got his diploma in 1916 the university offered him a job as an instructor in the English department. He declined the offer because he wanted to be a lawyer. He enrolled in the university's law school.

When war came in 1917, Bricker tried to enlist in the army, the marines, and the navy. All three services rejected him because of his slow heartbeat. Even his draft board turned him down.

Bricker's tenacity then showed itself. He enlisted for war work with the Y. M. C. A. and became athletic director of the 329th infantry, 82d division, at Camp Sherman, O. Fearing he would be left behind when the regiment went overseas, Bricker sought an appointment as a chaplain.

Minister, but Not Preacher.

He went to Washington, where he was told that a chaplain must be an ordained minister. Bricker told his troubles to the pastor of his home church. A special meeting of the Central Ohio Christian conference ordained him as a minister for one year for the purpose of becoming a chaplain. The conference stipulated he must do no preaching.

Bricker's regiment sailed for France while he was still waiting for his commission as a chaplain. It was a bitter disappointment.

Soon afterward he was commissioned a first lieutenant in the chaplain corps and assigned to Camp Eustis, Va. The influenza epidemic was raging at the time, causing more casualties than German guns. Bricker worked for three months in the camp hospital.

Bricker Gets Married.

After the war Bricker returned to law school and received the degree of bachelor of laws in 1920. In the same year he married Miss Harriet Day and they set up housekeeping in Grandview, a suburb of Columbus.

He found a position in a Columbus law office and also became solicitor for the town of Grandview. Three years later, when he was 30, he was appointed assistant attorney general and counsel for the state public utilities commission.

In this post Bricker tried cases in all the Ohio courts, in the federal district courts, the United States Supreme court, and before the interstate commerce commission. He had become an expert in many phases of public utilities law when in 1927 he left the office on the election of a new attorney general, and returned to private law practice.

Sacrifice for a Career.

Bricker's friends say he could have made himself a wealthy man if he had stayed in private practice. But he decided he wanted to be attorney general, and ran for the office in 1928, when he was 34. He was defeated in a close race. Soon afterward he was appointed a member of the public utilities commission, and in 1932 he was elected attorney general of Ohio. Bricker was then 39 years old.

At the same age, Harry Truman was holding his first public office, judge of the Jackson county [Mo.] court, an office that corresponds to member of the county board of commissioners in other states. Truman got his first elective post thru the Thomas J. Pendergast political machine.

No political machine made Bricker attorney general of Ohio in 1932. In that year Franklin D. Roosevelt carried the state by 74,376 and a Democratic governor was elected by a plurality of 204,585. Bricker, a Republican, won by a plurality of 10,008. That was a minor political miracle.

Bricker was one of the few Republicans holding high public office in the nation in 1932. It was a time of feasting for Democratic organizations, especially in Kansas City, where the Pendergast machine was the law and the government.

Harry Truman had become presiding judge of the county court, making $4,800 a year, and he wanted to run for county collector, a rich fee office. Boss Pendergast refused to let him be a collector, but sent him to Washington in 1934 as a United States senator.

[Tomorrow's article in this series will describe Bricker's service as attorney general of Ohio].

LUNDIN COMES TO GIVE VOTE TO G.O.P. CAUSE

Fred Lundin, "the poor Swede" who ruled the political destinies of Chicago and Illinois for many years, has come back to Illinois from California for a visit with relatives and to cast his vote for Dewey for President on Nov. 7.

Fred Lundin.

"The election of Dewey will be a guarantee to the American people that foreign intrigue and caprice will not be permitted to impair our sovereignty or force a tax burden on the American people for foreign countries so great that we shall be unable to recuperate our former influence and power," Lundin asserted yesterday.

Lundin said he was deeply interested in the election of Richard J. Lyons as United States senator, "for it is in the senate that this republic will be saved."

Same Familiar Figure.

As hale and hearty as when he was a power in Chicago and Illinois politics in the 1920's, Lundin looked many years younger than the 76 he admitted. He still wears the double breasted blue suit, flowing bow tie, shell rimmed glasses, and his gray hair awry over his forehead that were familiar to thousands of Illinois politicians.

Lundin denied he would take an active part in the campaign other than to cast his vote. He has maintained his voting residence at 1018 Austin blvd., while spending most of his time "in the sunshine" at Beverly Hills, Cal. He and Mrs. Lundin arrived in Chicago two weeks ago and will remain until after the election.

"I'm still an American interested in his country," he said. "We have the greatest leader any country ever had. I refer to the Constitution. If we'll just follow the Constitution, we'll be all right. Almost any man can be a good President if he'll be honest, appoint honest men to help him, and follow the Constitution."

Calls Roosevelt Warmonger.

No administration that has plunged the nation into such debt as that incurred by the New Deal should have the temerity to ask for reelection, the old political leader insisted. Not only has the New Deal mortgaged the future for generations to come, he declared, but it has injured the nation's independence and self-respect.

"We've got to restore self-respect in the White House," Lundin declared. "Roosevelt couldn't have self-respect after he told mothers and fathers their sons would never fight on foreign soil at a time when he had already been in the war two years. He declared war on Japan at the link bridge in Chicago [referring to Roosevelt's speech in 1937].

"He couldn't have self-respect when he let his wife become a director in the insurance company of their son, Jimmy, and carry on insurance business in the White House. That should have been enough for the American people.

"Dewey is a prosecutor and he has ahead of him the biggest job any prosecutor ever had: the indictment and conviction of a gang of boodlers that is attempting to destroy this country. I think he is the man for the job and I think he can do it."

ARIZONA G. O. P. DROPS RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Phoeniz Ariz., Sept. 27 (AP).—Arizona Republicans today abandoned the general election governorship contest but the party candidate's name will remain on the ballot.

C. V. Gulley, state party chairman, announced that the party would not sponsor a write-in campaign because of the withdrawal of Jerrie W. Lee. He explained that if Republicans sponsored such a campaign, many ballots might be wrongly marked, and thus many citizens would lose their votes. Absentee ballots and those for members of the armed forces have been printed and some have been voted, he added.

Science Discovers Vital Skin Secret

How Youthfulness Is Restored to the Skin as Age Takes Flight

Now the truth is out! Science has discovered a vitalizing substance which helps give that lovely youthful appearance to the skin. QUEENOL contains a duplicate of this amazing substance . . . called EXETOL. It is plentiful in youth but diminishes with the passing of time. As this substance decreases with age, the skin becomes dryer, thinner and less attractive. Women who have used QUEENOL find that the skin begins to look smoother, firmer and fresher again. The natural hormones in EXETOL are absorbed by the skin below the surface where their activity aids in building new tissue. Results once considered "impossible" are now a regular performance of EXETOL, which is the potent ingredient of Queenol. . . . Used according to directions, QUEENOL helps to restore that smooth, youthful texture so essential to a lovely skin. QUEENOL with its precious ingredient, EXETOL, costs only $5.00 (plus tax) for a 30 days' supply. Be sure to try QUEENOL. You can get it at our cosmetic counter today.

Now! Women Over 30 Find New Hope!

Remember how often you have yearned for a cream that would do the "impossible"?

Well, This Is It! That firm, youthful appearance that seems to forsake the face, neck and hands as age stealthily creeps in, may be restored by a glandular substance . . . a sort of "elixir of youth" which is absorbed into the skin so it helps revitalize and restore that firm, youthful texture.

Why not try QUEENOL and prove this to your own satisfaction?

TRIAL OF KIMMEL NOT 'JUSTIFIED,' BATES INFORMED

Warning Came After Raid Congressman Hears.

Salem, Mass., Sept. 27 [Special].—Rep. Bates [R., Mass.], a member of the house naval affairs committee, today said he had learned from a nigh authority that information so far developed by the war and navy departments regarding the Pearl Harbor attack "does not justify the court martial" of either Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short or Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel.

Military leaders and other high government officials in Washington were forewarned of the impending attack several hours before it occurred and "did nothing about it until it was too late," Rep. Bates declared.

"Even then they sent the message by a commercial company and not by direct military dispatch," he said. "This was only an hour before the attack took place.

"I have been given to understand that the commercial messenger carrying the advice was on his way thru the streets when the Japs attacked with all their force.

Warned After the Attack.

"Thus, the message was not actually delivered to the commanding officers at Pearl Harbor until the Japs had smashed our ships and facilities and had returned to their carriers."

Rep. Bates said the message of the impending attack was sent by a "high military authority" in Washington and that it was addressed to the "commanding officer of the army" at Pearl Harbor. He said his information came from "government officials who are in a position to know and do know" about the warning.

Bates said he had not planned a public statement on the Pearl Harbor investigations, but was forced to reply to accusations of "leading Democrats" that congress had refused to approve fortification of Guam.

Guam Issue "Camouflage."

"The navy department itself refused to recommend the fortification of Guam," he said, adding that the Democrats raised the Guam issue "solely to camouflage the real issue in which the people are interested."

He said the naval affairs committee, of which he has been a member for eight years, had been "frustrated in bringing out the true facts because of the administration influence controling the situation."

What the people want to know, he said, is whether Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short are guilty of laxity or whether those higher up in Washington are just "making them scrapegoats." There would be no harm to the war effort if all the facts were given at this time, he said, but the truth is that the "New Dealers don't want to come out in the open on Pearl Harbor at this time."

Bates called attention to statements made by Rep. Church [R., Ill.], in the house on Sept. 21 that Lt. Comdr. A. D. Kramer was on duty in the navy department the night of Dec. 6 and had delivered a message to the state department the morning of Dec. 7 [4:30 a. m. Pearl Harbor time.]

Rep. Church quoted Comdr. Kramer as telling a "group" at the state department that "this looks like a surprise attack at Pearl Harbor and a midnight attack at the Philippines." The navy officer then took the message to the White House, Rep. Church said.

"Mr. Church hit the nail right on the head," Bates asserted.

Australian Warning Told.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Rep. Church [R., Ill.], offering new evidence indicating the Australian government had advance warning of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, today urged an investigation of this possibility by army and navy boards inquiring into the disaster.

The Illinois congressman made public a new affidavit from Frank C. Hanighen, journalist and a resident of Washington. The affidavit said Owen Dixon, former Australian minister to the United States, told guests at a dinner last winter that the Australian intelligence service had warned before Dec. 7, 1941, that a Japanese task force "was headed for some American islands."

The statement by Hanighen, who said he attended the dinner, was similar to an affidavit, released by Church last week from Sidney C. Graves, another guest at the dinner. At that time Dixon denied having made the statement.

SEDITION TRIAL ATTORNEY ASKS ELECTION RECESS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—Citing a pledge of both major political parties to avoid racial and religious issues, a defense attorney moved today for a recess of the mass sedition trial until after the November elections.

The motion, filed by Ira Chase Koehne attorney for three of the 26 defendants, contended that much of the government's evidence involves accusations of anti-Semitism and said continued publication of such testimony in the press is placing religious animosities before the people.

Koehne asked government prosecutors to join in the motion, but there was no immediate indication they would do so.

GANNETT VOWS FIGHT TO END FOR RUMELY

Sees Great National Issue at Stake.

New York, Sept. 27 (AP).—Frank E. Gannett, trustee of the Committee for Constitutional Government, Inc., said tonight the committee intended to carry "to the highest court in the land" its fight against making public the names of persons who had contributed $100 or more to the committee.

The Rochester, N. Y., publisher said in a statement "to the press of America" that the committee's officers and trustees "stand behind" Edward A. Rumely, executive secretary, who was cited by the house campaign investigating committee at Washington, D. C., yesterday for "wilful and deliberate refusal" to produce subpenaed records.

"Great Issue at Stake."

"They know that a great constitutional issue is at stake," Gannett said. "If he [Rumely] should be indicted, I know that many of them also are ready to go to jail, if necessary, to bring this constitutional question to test in court."

The investigating committee, headed by Rep. Anderson [D., N. M.], also held that Rumely was "in contempt" of the house. Its finding was certified to House Speaker Rayburn for presentation to a grand jury.

"If this committee, dominated by a New Deal zealot, can force us to comply with its demands, then it can demand the names of every advertiser in any newspaper, the names of contributors to any organization, church or charitable institution," Gannett declared.

"If a group of citizens such as the committee for constitutional government urges no one to support or defeat any candidate or party and spends no funds for that purpose but confines its activities to the advocacy of a philosophy of government, or for or against any public measure, we contend that the government has no constitutional power to interfere," the statement said.

The statement added that efforts ascribed to Sidney Hillman [chairman of the CIO political action committee] and Earl Browder [American communist leader] to put congressional "inquisitors" at work on the committee, and "thus attempt to suppress its opposition to the growth of communism and fascism in this country, will not cause us to fold up and leave the field to them."

EX-GERMAN CHANCELLOR DIES.

BERN, Sept. 27 [AP].—The Basler Arbeiter Zeitung said Gustav Bauer, German reichschancellor in 1925, died today.

Details a Secret

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—American and British air forces, reporting progress in development of allied jet propelled airplanes, said today that the Germans probably will use more and more of that type of aircraft.

At present, the joint statement said, Nazi jet propelled craft possess high speed and unusual climbing ability but lack maneuverability.

"Our aircraft," the services said, "have had satisfactory exchanges with them. It must, however, be expected that increased numbers of German jet propelled aircraft will appear in service and that they will become more effective as greater experience is obtained."

They said details of the American and British jet planes still could not be disclosed altho the British have been used "with secrecy" against robot bombs.

GREEN ASSERTS NEW DEAL ISN'T SET FOR PEACE

Sterling, Ill., Sept. 27 [Special].—Gov. Green tonight said the Roosevelt administration is "just as woefully unprepared for peace as it was unprepared for war."

With Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for senator, the governor addressed mass meetings in Sterling and Morrison. Lyons also spoke in Dixon.

"The American people" Gov. Green said, "know that the New Deal administration is just as woefully unprepared for peace as it was unprepared for war. They know that the only definite New Deal post-war plan is to stay in office."

PLAN BOARDS TO CONTROL REICH'S ECONOMIC LIFE

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP).—A broad plan to govern the economic life of Germany for an indefinite period thru allied ontrol commissions has been formulated in the midst of a controversy within the European advisory commission on the question of the country's industrial demobilization, it was learned tonight.

Settlement of this issue — one which has been reflected in a similar split within President Roosevelt's cabinet—is understood to be predicated upon creation of an overall tri-power economic control commission which would have similar smaller groups working upon specific problems.

One of these groups would supervise post-war industry within Germany until a later determination between the victor nations on how far they should go in banning Germany from industrial production, particularly that of a type easily adaptable to war conversion.

Other Controls Mapped.

Similar commissions will be set up to control communications, supervise operations of financial institutions and perhaps to lay down educational policies in an effort to change the outlook of German youth.

It is understood that a method has been generally agreed upon to coördinate British, American, and Russian basic principles for occupation, and that they will be administered separately within the respective three zones of occupation.

The decision to put Germany's economic life under allied control commissions was believed to be a compromise between the wishes of those advocating turning the country into an agricultural state and those who believe that such a paralysis of German industry would disrupt Europe's economy.

Morgenthau's Idea Reported.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, according to Washington dispatches, has proposed the reduction of Germany to the status of an agricultural nation by dissolution of her heavy industries.

The compromise plan, which would be designed as a stop-gap measure, would be aimed at insuring continued production until the allies later worked out an ultimate economic plan for Germany.

GIRL FOUND UNCONSCIOUS.

Miss Shirley Schaff, 25, was taken in a stupor yesterday to Illinois Central hospital after she had been found in her hotel room at 5130 Dorchester av. with a note which police said hinted she had attempted suicide.

MORGENTHAU PLAN TO DEINDUSTRIALIZE REICH TOSSED OUT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau appeared today to have lost his fight with Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of State Hull for an American government decision in favor of reducing Germany to an agricultural status after the war.

President Roosevelt, it was said on excellent authority, has indicated to peace planners that while he originally supported certain Morgenthau criticisms of German military occupation policy as evolved by the war and state departments he does not subscribe to the whole German plan of his treasury secretary.

The President's cabinet committee on peace policy, which was composed of the three secretaries and was split wide open by Morgenthau's proposals, is slated to pass out of the picture as Hull and Stimson take the reins firmly in their own hands again.

The line which American planning followed prior to the time that Morgenthau sought to give it a new direction toward the de-industrialization of Germany, and to which it is now expected to return, calls for the existence of industries in post-war Germany but for rigid control under constant allied supervision.

1,800 SKY ARMY TROOPS ESCAPE ARNHEM TRAP

Cross Rhine; Germans Fall Back to Maas.

cargo gliders were destroyed or seized.

Paying tribute to the hapless band tonight, an allied spokesman told correspondents that "the gallant defense of the first airborne division went far to contribute to the exploitation desired. It enabled other elements to the south to hold the bridge at Nijmegen which prevented enemy forces in the north from moving south."

Roger Greene, Associated Press war correspondent with the British 2d army, said the British were steadily widening the corridors between Eindhoven and Nijmegen.

Three Miles from Germany.

"The battle of Holland is slowly but surely swinging against the Germans, and the enemy now apparently is resigned to defending the line of the river Maas as the next phase preluding the main battle of Germany," Greene's dispatch said.

"Heavy fighting blazed all around the British corridor to the Rhine, but repeated German attempts to forge a steel trap around the north end of the salient were beaten off with severe losses."

Greene reported that failure of the daring sky thrust was officially ascribed to bad weather, which day after day virtually grounded allied planes, preventing them from bringing supplies and reinforcements to the beleaguered troops, and to the unexpectedly strong German interference with the communications line on Gen. Dempsey's drive to make contact with the air borne forces.

1,000 Still Hide in Woods.

Aside from 1,200 wounded, Greene said, 1,000 air borne troops still are hiding in the woods on the German held north side of the Neder Rhine. The German commander was said to be treating the wounded "extremely well."

A staff officer said Montgomery had decided remnants of the division should be brought back when it became evident that no junction in strength could be made.

An allied announcement disclosed that British and Belgian troops had driven eastward to the Maas at several points along a 40 mile front, with spearheads only three miles from the German frontier.

Reach Maas at 2 Points.

Against only light resistance, British troops pushed eastward midway between Eindhoven and Nijmegen to reach the Maas both at Boxmeer, 13 miles southeast of Nijmegen, and at Groeningen, five miles southeast of Boxmeer. At both points the river is approximately three miles from the Dutch-German border.

Thirty miles south of Groeningen along the Maas, Belgian troops reached the west bank of the river along a 10 mile front between Wessem and Dilsen, about nine miles from the German frontier.

Join Canadian Army.

Widening their corridor to the west, British forces seized Oss, 16 miles southwest of Nijmegen, and linked with the right flank of the Canadian 1st army near Arendonck, southwest of Eindhoven, forming a solid line thru Turnhout to Antwerp.

In France Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army broke a comparative lull on the Moselle river front by storming and capturing a bridge leading into Fort Driant, a moated bastion in a chain of fortresses on the west bank of the Moselle guarding Metz.

The Yank assault, which followed a morning air attack and an all-day artillery bombardment, secured the only entrance to the mile and a half wide fort. Tonight doughboys were bringing up dynamite on long poles to silence pillboxes across the moat, a front dispatch reported.

7th Army Attacks.

While the assault against Fort Driant was in progress, American fighter-bombers attacked two other strong forts on the east side of the Moselle south of Metz. A cold rain which had fallen for two weeks let up during the morning and the sun took some of the chill off Patton's mud bound forces.

Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army, holding the southern front next to the Swiss border, was reported attacking both east and north of Epinal in the face of rain, sleet, and fog.

Canadian infantry captured Fort Lapin, within 1,000 yards of Calais harbor, and took more than 2,000 German prisoners. The big push toward the town was supported by heavy bombers and was making good progress, enveloping another group of forts a half mile from the built-up part of the town.

Face Winter of War.

Dispatches from Lt. Gen. Hodges' 1st army front between Aachen and Trier, just inside the German border, told of steadily worsening weather. Don Whitehead of the Associated Press said "allied armies faced the prospect today of having to fight a winter campaign before Hitler's forces finally are crushed."

1,700 Bombers Pound Nazis.

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP).—In a campaign of aerial destruction rising to its highest pitch in weeks, more than 1,700 allied heavy bombers and 2,500 fighters assaulted military and industrial targets in Germany and along the western front today. Savage sky battles marked the raids and 42 American bombers and seven fighters were lost.

Nearly 1,200 Fortresses and an escort of 700 fighters ripped apart railway yards and industrial plants at Kassel, Ludwigshafen, Cologne, and Mainz with 4,000 tons of bombs.

The day's heaviest opposition was encountered in this operation of the United States 8th air force, whose loss was the largest in weeks, but the Americans accounted for 41 enemy planes.

Tonight British bombers struck again at targets in Germany.

UNTIRING RUBBER WORKERS KEEP 1ST ARMY GOING

On Job Night and Day Salvaging Tires.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 1ST U. S. ARMY IN GERMANY, Sept. 27.—Only by 24 hour a day repair service and an extensive conservation program was Lt. Gen. Hodges' 1st army able to keep tires on its trucks and rubber tracks on its tanks during the critical days of its dash across France and Belgium.

Had it not been for these two factors, said an ordnance officer today, the army would have run out of tires and rubber. The supply of tires coming from the United States never has been what the army would call enough, but the actual tire shortage never was felt here because of the untiring efforts of the maintenance men.

Screaming for It.

The front line troops in recent weeks were screaming for gasoline and ammunition and every available truck was pressed into service, many of them making runs as far back as the Normandy beaches. Night and day truck convoys boiled along the roads. One outfit of huge gasoline tank cars wore out two complete sets of tires on these 550 mile round trip runs.

"God knows how we kept 'em rolling," said the ordnance officer. "Many times our vehicles have had to go without spares. But never have we let the fighters down. No vehicle has been withheld from combat for lack of repairs."

Major repairs are handled by repair units back in the communication zone but most of the work takes place within the army area.

Split Into Units.

Back when the army was being formed in the United Kingdom, ordnance officers split the repair outfit into small units of 26 men each which were mobile and could go forward easier. These are men who patch up the tires ripped by jagged shell fragments or fix bruised tires. By doing this work nearer the front they reduce the important time factor.

When you realize that this army must maintain something like 250,000 vehicles, the importance of tire conservation is readily seen. And the problem is even harder, said the ordnance officer, because tires of synthetic rubber do not stand up as well as those made of natural rubber and the army is getting more and more of the synthetic kind.

This problem of tires did not catch the army by surprise. Informed last January that rubber production in the United States was critical, the army at once started an educational program to make the soldiers conserve tires.

Maintenance Vital.

"We concentrated on maintenance," said the ordnance officer, "for maintenance can either make you or break you. If you can get every ounce of use out of your vehicles you will be able to weather any situation. Maintenance won for us."

Salvage and reclamation do not sound glamorous. But the dexterity of these ordnance crews in revamping wrecked vehicles has been an important item in the army's maintenance. The officer cited one base maintenance battalion which during a 50 day period drew only 5 per cent of its parts from the depot. All the rest they took from wrecks while making new vehicles out of old.

BRITAIN PROTESTS AGAIN ON NAZI SPIES IN SPANISH AREAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The British government has renewed its protests to the Spanish government against the presence of German agents in the Tangier zone and Spanish Morocco.

Despite the closing of the German consulate general in Tangier and the withdrawal of the staff as well as the expulsion of 19 German agents from Spanish Morocco and Tangier, Foreign Minister Anthony Eden indicated the Nazis still are active. He said information in possession of the British government showed there are at least four German agents in the Tangier zone and a greater number at large in Spanish Morocco. He assured members of parliament:

"The Spanish government is being left in no doubt that the British government does not regard this partial fulfillment of their undertaking as satisfactory and is insisting on a rapid and complete disposal of this question."

'NO PRIVILEGES FOR UNRRA!' CRY OF M. P.'S HEEDED

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—A chorus of protests from Conservative and Labor members of parliament in the house of commons compelled the government tonight to withdraw for reconsideration a bill already passed by the house of lords which would give high officials of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration [UNRRA] and other international organizations the privileges and immunities of ambassadors, and lower grade officials the status of consuls while in Britain.

The idea of "ordinary civil servants from other countries" having such privileges left Conservative Herbert Williams aghast. Geoffrey Hutchinson, also a Conservative, denounced the bill as a serious invasion of the rights of the British citizen.

Finally Foreign Minister Anthony Eden intervened to ask that the debate be postponed while the government considered the criticisms.

FRENCH PUSH ON WITHIN 10 MILES OF BELFORT GAP

Americans Blast Ahead in Hand to Hand Duel.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 7TH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 27.—Under heavy German fire, French infantry and armor today struck again at the Belfort gap approaches and advanced several miles to within 10 miles of that gateway to Germany. The Germans demanded toll for every yard surrendered.

The direction of the advance was east of Lure thru the Clairegouette village and from an artillery observation post French manned Sherman tanks and soldiers could be seen pressing forward under shelling by 150 mm. anti-tank and self-propelled guns.

Under Point Blank Fire.

When the French neared the woods surrounding Clairegouette they met point blank fire from Germans who waited in pits and underbrush until the tanks were almost upon them before leaping out with their equivalent of the bazooka.

Some of the tanks were halted, but others were driven over the brush and thru the pits, crushing the defenders to death.

One German self-propelled gun caused particular trouble. The enemy hid this weapon most of the time in a tunnel beyond Clairegouette, but ran it out every now and then to open fire. The French fire in the tunnel vicinity increased, however, and by late afternoon the self-propelled gun was sneaking out only infrequently.

Fight Hand to Hand.

The few Germans taken prisoner by the French were young and arrogant to a point of taunting their captors for not having killed them. At the point where the American 7th army right flank locks elbows with the French left some of the messiest hand to hand fighting of the day took place. The Americans were forced to ascend slopes that were almost vertical and blast their way forward with grenades and tommyguns while the enemy poured relentless mortar fire on their heads.

REDS CONFIDENT HITLER GOES ON CRIMINAL LIST

MOSCOW, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Russian press took note today of reports that the highest Nazis were not included yet in the allied list of war criminals drafted in London, but described this as a "misunderstanding."

Russian writers, led by Ilya Ehrenburg in Red Star, took the attitude that there was little or no reason to suppose that Hitler and his closest intimates would be excluded from the final list.

"Much more dangerous is the discussion of some humanitarians who say only Hitler and Himmler are guilty and that the rest merely obeyed orders," Ehrenburg wrote.

ROCKET LST'S FIRE EQUALS 30 CRUISERS

BY E. B. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Fire from one of Britain's tank landing craft fitted with rockets is roughly equivalent when falling in a small area to the fire of 30 regiments of artillery or 30 cruisers, each mounted with 12 6-inch guns, it was disclosed tonight. This rocket craft is said to have been developed by combined operations headquarters to aid in overcoming what is described as the "greatest difficulty in an assault landing"—that of giving close support to allied troops as they approach a beach.

The first craft was not ordered, according to details revealed, without months of argument and discussion, but one landing craft was ready for its first trial in April, 1943. After the trial six craft were sent to the Mediterranean to take part in the Sicily landing.

Here it was reported the impact so shook Italian garrisons that they surrendered at once.

Subsequently, many more craft were ordered for the invasion of northwest Europe. These were designed to carry an even greater number of rockets.

NAZIS' POWERFUL ALLY IN ITALY IS GEOGRAPHY

Po Valley Criss-Crossed by Many Rivers.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Sept. 27.—There is plenty of slow and bitter fighting ahead for allied forces in Italy despite the fact that the Germans 'heavily fortified Gothic defensive line now is broken in two places—by the American 5th army north of Florence and by the British army at Rimini on the Adriatic sea coast. The geography, which has aided Field Marshal Kesselring and his German divisions consistnely thruout the Italian campaign, still is fighting on the side of the Nazis.

Much confident talk has been going the rounds in recent weeks about the broad flat valley of the Po river into which units of the 5th army will debauch once they have threaded their way thru the Apennine mountains now that they have passed the Gothic line. The valley, which extends all the way north to the foothills of the Alps, has been described as ideal tank terrain and as country difficult to defend but highly suitable for operations of a superior attacking force.

Colonel Explains Difficulties.

But an American colonel, who puts more faith in what he finds in his maps than in what he hears over the officers' bar, explained to this writer today why it's not going to be that easy. It's because of a lot of wriggling blue lines on the map of the valley.

Those lines are a myriad of rivers and streams. If the reader will glance at his own map he will find that the southeast portion of the valley, up which allied forces will have to advance, is crossed every few miles by rivers. To make it more difficult, almost without exception these rivers, all emptying into the Adriatic, lie directly across the axis of the allied advance which, of course, will be north and northwest. With the November flood period approaching, they spell trouble for the attacking armies.

Largest of all these rivers is the Po itself, which winds like a snake from the Maritime Alps on the Franco-Italian border eastward across Italy to the Adriatic.

River Is Formidable.

Varying from 1,000 feet to a mile in width, this river will be a terrific obstacle to troops attempting to span it during combat. The Germans can be counted on to blow up the bridges and to fortify the north bank of the river heavily.

If forced back across the Po, Kesselring undoubtedly will draw in the divisions he now has on the Franco-Italian border to protect his right flank. Again rivers will aid him. North of the Po scores of small streams and a dozen or so large rivers, all tributaries of the Po, flow almost due south from the Alps to their junctures with the main river. It will be easy for Kesselring to establish a new protecting line for the right flank along any one of these rivers.

The picture then becomes something like this. Kesselring can establish his right flank along the Mincio river, which flows south from Lake Garda to join the Po southeast of the city of Mantua. Immediately he has a wide water barrier, virtually a moat of medieval times, along his front from the Alps to the Adriatic. And behind that shortened front will be massed guns and men of 28 divisions he now has extended thruout northern Italy.

Rivers and More Rivers.

The allies will crack that front in time just as they have broken every other attempt the Germans have made to hold, but it will be bloody. Even then, however, the rivers of Italy again will aid Kesselring. If he chooses he can retire into northeastern Italy behind the Adige river and again have a water barrier in front of him from deep in the Alps to the Adriatic. With flood seas so near and the Italian winter to follow, these rivers will slow up the allies. And wherever Kesselring chooses to make a river stand those crossings will have to be paid for with American and British blood.

Of course, rivers will give Kesselring's forces trouble in their retreat. For months bombers of the Mediterranean air force have been destroying bridges wherever they found them in northern Italy. Nevertheless, when the time comes for the Germans to move north they will be able to cross streams and temporary bridges under cover of night. It will be a far easier task than that of the allies who will have to make their crossing under artillery fire.

Americans Battle to Regain Lost Ground in Italy

(Story in adjoining column.)

Legends tell developments reported yesterday in the war in Italy.

See-Saw Battle

ROME, Sept. 27 (AP).—American troops, knocked from hard won positions on the western spur of Monte La Fine south of Bologna by a German counter-attack, fought tonight to regain the ground as other allied forces made slight gains on the Italian battle front.

On the Americans' eastern flank 5th army troops advanced to a point within 15 miles of Imola, whose capture would cut the lateral Rimini-Bologna highway and imperil the Nazis in the Adriatic sector.

Americans fighting northwest of Firenzuola seized Monte Beni, 22 airline miles due south of Bologna, and the south slopes of nearby Monte Freddi. The two hill masses command highway No. 65 to Bologna.

REPORTS PLANT 'LOAN' TO RUSSIA IS STILL PLANNED

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 27 (AP).—Sen. Robertson [R., Wyo.] asserted today he was convinced the government still is considering the dismantling of the 200 million dollar Geneva steel plant near Provo, Utah, and shipping it to Russia under the lend-lease program.

He said in an address to Utah Republican leaders that the government "has postponed such shipment only to permit production of steel for munitions badly needed on the European battlefields."

Robertson said a proposal to send the plant to Russia came before the senate committee of which he is a member.

REDS 22 MILES FROM RIGA; NEW E. PRUSSIA PERIL

Capture 200 Places in Latvia Drive.

LONDON, Sept. 28 [Thursday]—(AP).—Breaking thru lake and river barriers to Riga, the Russians drove within 22 miles north of the Latvian capital yesterday and tightened their ring to 35 and 31 miles east and southeast, capturing more than 200 communities. The German defenders were throwing in their last desperate reserves.

The Russians were silent on German accounts that credited them with a 10 mile penetration of Hungary from the Arad area of Romania, but early today, in a supplement to their regular war bulletin, supported German assertions that a new offensive was in the making against East Prussia.

Action in Suwalki Triangle.

Southwest of Mariampole, in the Suwalki triangle area that Hitler annexed to East Prussia in 1939, Russian detachments dislodged the Germans from a front line of trenches and seized two fortified heights, then beat off three counter-attacks with heavy losses to the enemy, the soviet statement said.

The German radio said a series of sharp attacks had been launched against the East Prussian fortifications from the east.

Cross Into Hungary.

The German radio said the Russians had crossed the Hungarian border from western Romania in strength and that the towns of Mako and Foldeak, three and 10 miles inside Hungary, "fell into enemy hands temporarily." These are but 15 and 16 miles east of Hungary's second city, Szeged.

The Russians dwelt on the advances in Latvia, which, among other large towns, took the settlement of Skulte, on the Gulf of Riga, 22 miles above the city of Riga, the railway station of Vatrane, 35 miles east of Riga, and the railway station of Kalbala, 31 miles southeast.

They announced also that an amphibious operation across five miles of sea resulted in capture of the Estonian island of Vormsi, which lies between the mainland and the bigger, more heavily fortified blockade island of Hiiu [Dago].

BELIEVE JAPS FLEE TIDDIM, RETREAT TO MOUNTAINS IN BURMA

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HDQ., Kandy, Celon, Sept. 27 (AP).—Japanese forces have broken off contact with the 5th Indian division, Adm. Mountbatten's headquarters announced today, and it was believed the enemy had abandoned their strategic base at Tiddim, withdrawing to a mountain fighting line on the Kennedy peak in the Fort White area. Troops of the 5th Indian division last were reported only a few miles from Tiddim, north Burma town which served as the Japanese supply base in their unsuccessful invasion of India last winter.

The allied bulletin said planes continued their attacks on strategic enemy bases in the Mandalay region southward as far as the Gulf of Martaban where seagoing junks were sunk.

Mitchells in "some force" bombed a motor transport pool at Wanling on the Burma-China frontier and the "targets were well covered and fires were left burning in Wanling" the bulletin said.

ALLIES INVADE ALBANIA TO TRAP FOE IN BALKANS

Put Squeeze on 200,000 Fleeing Nazis.

ROME, Sept. 27 (AP).—In a move to trap large German forces in the Balkans and eastern Mediterranean, allied sea borne and air borne troops have landed in Albania and on the islands off Yugoslavia, the allied command announced today.

The landings squeezed some 200,000 Germans in Hitler's crumbling Balkan flank between the Russians on the northeast and the allies on the coast. In the interior Partisan forces hacked away at enemy units attempting to flee to the reich over tortuous mountain passes.

At the same time allied warplanes and naval vessels continued their attacks against enemy transports attempting to evacuate German garrisons from the Aegean Islands.

Garrison Destroyed.

The allied bulletin gave no indication of the size of units involved. Generally, in the past, Adriatic land force activities have been of a commando type, involving relatively small groups of troops.

The allied command said the German garrison at Himara, in Albania, had been destroyed, forcing the Germans to abandon use of the Albanian coastal road and take to the sea to supply other garrisons.

A naval announcement said British navy landing craft, supported by destroyers and light coastal vessels, had been operating since Sept. 16 among the southern Dalmatian Islands carrying allied troops and partisans who are striking at the Germans.

Nazi Ship Driven Ashore.

Naval craft drove a small German ship ashore on the Island of Melos.

[A report from Istanbul said Greek patriots had taken over the Island of Samothrace, facing Kavala harbor, after the Bulgarians had evacuated it. The Turkish report also said the Germans had removed their garrisons from the Islands of Paros and Naxos in the Cyclades, and had begun clearing out of the Island of Lemnos, which was used as a submarine and air base.]

Five of the eight bridges carrying rail traffic across the Danube between Budapest and Belgrade have been made unserviceable by allied planes, the Mediterranean allied air force announced.

[A bulletin from the headquarters of Marshal Tito broadcast by the soviet news agency Tass said Yugoslav Partisans had captured the Adriatic islands of Solta and Drvenik, "thus completing the liberation of all central Dalmatian islands." The Partisans have captured Slatina, eight miles from the Hungarian border, and have reached the Drava river.]

ROMANIA KING'S AIM: TO PILOT A BIG U. S. BOMBER

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Romania, Sept. 26.—An enthusiastic devotee of flying, fast driving, and photography—all as American as possible—this was the picture of young King Michael gained today in a four hour informal visit with the Romanian monarch and Queen Mother Helen at his castle Pelesh in Sinaia.

King Michael.

Last Aug. 23 the handsome, boyish looking ruler exhibited the steel in his makeup when he directed the coup which brought his country to the side of the allies, but all that was forgotten as he chatted freely with correspondents on the castle's sun bathed terrace.

Prefer U. S. Planes.

As proudly as would any youth of 23, King Michael showed personal photographs from albums cataloged with meticulous care. He pointed out an American Lockheed and commented that he preferred American aircraft to German. He said it's his ambition to pilot a Flying Fortress or Liberator bomber.

"I like to swoop down on fields, see people duck, and then swoop up again," he said. "But German planes don't seem to have the extra power and I almost always stall."

Queen Helen interrupted to tell how the castle household always had gathered on the terrace when American bombers passed over "like big silver butterflies," and waved them good luck.

The king resumed his discussion of planes and revealed an intimate knowledge of all American aircraft types, both as to nicknames and official designations. He discussed technical differences between the various models of Flying Fortresses, A to G, and told us he had scale models of all.

Bodyguard a "German."

Queen Helen introduced us to the king's most faithful bodyguard—Atsul, a magnificent shepherd dog. She showed us the two lightning flashes tattoed on Atsul's ears, and said: "He's the only member of the SS [Nazi elite guard] around here."

The king himself drove us to luncheon at his mother's castle near-by, speeding his big La Salle around gravel drives, but first he took us to see his favorite car, a rakish special supercharged Alfaromeo in which he said he once covered 160 miles from Bucharest to Sinaia and return in two hours and five minutes.

"I was very bad," he said.

In the handsome drawing room in Castle Fashior, built by former King Carol as a de luxe hunting lodge, Michael continued his airplane talk until his mother warned: "If you let him get on that subject we'll never get to lunch."

Visited Wounded Flyers.

The luncheon party, besides the king, queen, correspondents, and an American officer, included two aides, naval and military, a lady-in-waiting, and the king's almost inseparable companion and private secretary, Mircea Ioanitsu, who was one of the five boys selected by Carol as his son's schoolmates.

King Michael and Queen Helen talked much at the luncheon table of young American aviators they had known as wounded prisoners in Romania. When a correspondent asked whether it was true the king visited the Americans and sent lists of their names to America to reassure their families, the queen answered with a smile, "Yes, and didn't it cause him a lot of trouble!"

When our party left for Bucharest with a palace driver, who drove with skill but terrifying speed, we discovered the king was driving just behind us. After a few miles the smiling king swooped by and led us a terrific chase all the way to the outskirts of Ploesti, while a carload of Sigurantza men—secret police charged with protecting him—tried vainly to keep up.

At one point our speedometer registered 84 miles an hour but the king was still drawing away. Finally, he drew up slowly at the side of the road, and with a grin, waved good-by.

3 POWER PARLEY ENDS TODAY IN DISAGREEMENT

Reds Against U. S. on Vital Issue.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—The world security talks which have been going on among the United States, Britain, and Russia for six weeks will end at Dumbarton Oaks tomorrow, altho agreement has not been reached on all issues.

Announcing the decision to conclude the present phase of the talks, Undersecretary of State Stettinius said delegates had reached agreement on many issues.

It was learned elsewhere that final word from Moscow was received this morning on the question of whether a great power should be in position to veto international action against itself.

Russians Holding Out.

The Russians are holding out for the veto, while the United States and Britain would eliminate it.

Involved is the question whether a great power; if accused of aggression, should withdraw from deliberations of a proposed world council. Failure to withdraw would mean the power would have veto over action against it since it is proposed that no action be taken without a unanimous decision by the great powers on the council.

It is understood that further discussion will have to be held on this point among the big three before a full allied nations conference can b called.

Little News Expected.

Stettinius, who is head of the American delegation, said a report can be expected on the first phase of the conference Friday morning, but there was little hope that it would go into much detail.

British and American discussions on the world security organization will be opened formally with China Friday afternoon, Stettinius said. He refused to speculate on how long the Chinese talks would last.

Stettinius said it was the American government's idea to publish the full text of the recommendations he will make to President Roosevelt at the conclusion of the Chinese phase of the conference. The report will be made jointly by each of the delegates to their respective governments.

7 FROM CHICAGO AREA WITH ACE ENGINEER UNIT

WITH U. S. FORCES APPROACHING THE GERMAN BORDER.—Seven men from the Chicago area are members of an engineers' unit that has performed some of the toughest and most hazardous jobs in the invasion of Europe.

The unit, commanded by Col. Ralph H. Cameron of San Antonio, Tex., has been in the thick of action since four hours after the initial landings in southern France. His men have been busy day and night removing mines, clearing road blocks, replacing blown out bridges, and even filling in as combat infantry men.

The Chicago area men in the unit are Pvt. Chester E. Smoczynoki, 3811 N. Central Park av., Chicago; Corp. Robert T. Jekl, 3502 N. Kildare av., Chicago; Pvt. Matthew A. Lorek, 715 N. Four Seized in Gambling Raid Are Fined $10 Each

Four men seized Tuesday by Commissioner Allman's police in a gambling raid at 4712 S. Ashland av., in which nine telephones and a loudspeaker were confiscated, yesterday were fined $10 and costs each by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in South State st. court. Defendants were James Murphy, 36; John Lutz, 36; J. J. Gonciarz, 37, and Francis J. Mooney, 45. They were charged with being keepers of a gaming establishment.

TAKES COMMONS SEAT AFTER FOUR YEARS IN PRISON

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Taking his seat in the house of commons for the first time in four years, Capt. A. H. M. Ramsay, released last night from Brixton jail where he had been detained under 18-B [British security measure] said he did not intend to raise his own case in parliament but would do all he could to win the freedom of others held without trial under the war time emergency regulations.

Ramsay strode thru the main gates of the parliament buildings about half an hour before the session started. He greeted policemen on duty, then made his unaccustomed way to the house of lords where commons has met since the lower house debating chamber was destroyed by bombs.

He took a seat on the second bench on the Conservative side of the house almost opposite the Communist, Willie Gallacher, who yesterday earned himself a one-day suspension for describing Ramsay as an "unspeakable blackguard."

U. S. Flyers Drop Bombs in Switzerland, Says Radio

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP).—American fighter bombers dropped bombs in the canton of Thurgau in Switzerland this morning in an effort to bomb a bridge over the river Thur, a Swiss broadcast said. It added there were no immediate reports of casualties.

RED CROSS GETS DIRECT RADIO TO YANKS IN FRANCE

Direct communication of emergency messages to service men in France has been arranged by the American Red Cross thru use of army radio facilities. Messages will be sent from the home service office in Washington, D. C., to field directors in France.

From the time of the invasion of France until completion of direct service yesterday, it was necessary to send messages by way of London for delivery by direct courier. The messages still will be relayed thru London for a check against locator files.

Telegraph facilities hereafter will be used to reach Red Cross directors in forward areas and when this transportation method is not available army mail pouches will be used. These are transported by air, ship, or motor vehicle, whichever means is fastest.

MARINES PRESS JAPS ON PELELIU INTO 2 POCKETS

Crush Last Attack on Angaur Island.

NEW COLOR MAP.

On the back page of today's Tribune appear color maps of the Southwest Pacific theater of war, Guam, Saipan, and the Palau Islands. Readers are advised to retain these maps for the purpose of following the progress of the war in the Pacific, particularly the American campaign in Peleliu Island, one of the Palau group.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Sept. 27 (AP).—American invaders of the Palaus, after killing 8,537 Japanese, have overwhelmed all but two pockets of resistance on Peleliu and crushed a last ditch infiltration effort on conquered Angaur, headquarters announced today.

The new figures on Japanese dead followed the announcement yesterday that American dead totalled 896—meaning the Yanks have killed better than 12 of the enemy for every invader lost.

The Anguar effort by enemy survivors was timed with a weak air attack of the Nipponese on that island Monday night.

Mountain Holds Out.

Adm. Nimitz said the marines and soldiers on Peleliu still have to take Umorbrogol mountain, which the leathernecks have named "Bloody Nose ridge" because of its formidable nature, and also must wipe out a small pocket of the enemy on the northeastern tip.

In contrast with recent bulletins reporting slow progress on Peleliu because of terrain, today's report said "rapid progress was made by the first marine division attacking in the northern sector and by army troops in the center of the western arm."

Two enemy planes attempted to bomb American positions on Anguar Island the privious night, Nimitz reported, but their missles fell harmlessly into the water east of the island.

Corsairs strafed northwestern Babelthuap, largest of the Palau group, Tuesday. Sunday, Liberators and a Ventura hit Paramushiro in the Kuriles, downing one of 12 enemy interceptors and damaging seven.

Many Islands Bombed.

The same day, Liberators bombed Iwo in the Volcano group, shooting down one of four interceptors. Three Liberators were damaged. A search plane strafed a small coastal cargo ship near Iwo the next day and saw the crew abandon ship.

Other raids were made on Wake, Marcus, Pagan, and Rota in the Marianas, Ponape, and Truk in the Carolines, and Jaluit, Wotje, and Mili in the Marshalls.

B-29 BASE RAIDED BY JAPS BUT NOT A BOMBER IS HIT

U. S. SUPER FORTRESS BASE, West China, Sept. 27 (AP).—A dozen Japanese medium bombers raided this Super Fortress base last night in retaliation for the attack on enemy industry yesterday at Anshan, Manchuria.

The raid was virtually harmless, altho the alert lasted two hours and a half and drove the exuberant American pilots into foxholes. No B-29 was destroyed; no runway was hit.

No plane was lost in the attack on Anshan. The target area was saturated by bombs, dropped by instrument. The great bombers carried larger loads of explosives than on the previous attack on Anshan because the planes have been improved and new techniques have been developed.

100 B-29s in Raid.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—More than 100 B-29 Super Fortresses participated in yesterday's raids on Anshan, the 20th air force disclosed tonight. A statement by Brig. Gen. Lauris Norstad, chief of staff of the 20th air force said:

"Altho more than 100 Super Fortresses participated in yesterday's mission against Manchuria and occupied China, there were no losses whatever. Every plane which left the ground returned safely.

"This would be a remarkable record on a bombing mission by planes of any type, and is all the more remarkable when applied to the B-29, which is still relatively experimental and is flying such vast distances. Yesterday's mission for example was about as far in miles as from Atlanta, Ga., to the arctic circle."

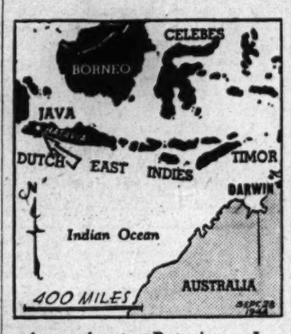
New Aerial Blow



Arrow locates Batavia on Java Island, attacked for the first time by Southwest Pacific flyers.

ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Sept. 28 [Thursday] (AP).—Batavia, capital of Java, fell under range of Gen. MacArthur's long range bombers when two Australian based planes strafed buildings for the first time in Southwest Pacific history, headquarters reported today.

The planes flew approximately 3,200 miles, round trip, to make the attack Sunday, one of the longest combat flights of the war. The assault caught the Japanese by surprise.

Liberators, escorted by Lightnings, again hit Dutch Celebes Monday, sinking a 1,000 ton freighter. Catalina flying boats staged another heavy raid on this important Japanese base, sinking two other merchantmen, one of them of 3,000 tons.

The Japanese attempted to intercept this thrust, and three of nine fighters were shot down.

Quebec Prelate Arrives in Vatican City by Plane

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 27 (AP).—Cardinal Villeneuve, archbishop of Quebec, arrived by plane in Rome today and will be received by Pope Pius XII. tomorrow.

[Cardinal Villeneuve left Quebec at the time of the meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, and the Montreal newspaper Le Canada under the heading "Peace Mission of the Cardinal," speculated that he was carrying a message from the two leaders to the pope.]

Illinoisan Drops in for 2d Visit with Holland Nazis

WITH AMERICAN AIR BORNE TROOPS AT NIJMEGEN, Holland, Sept. 27 (AP).—Maj. Augustin Hart Jr. considered it sweet revenge when he parachuted into Holland with American air borne troops. He was trapped in the Hague four years ago by a German parachute invasion. The Germans would not permit him to leave for two months because he had been a witness to a German air borne operation. Hart's wife lives in Lake Forest, Ill.

Merchant Marine Hailed on Victory Fleet Day

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt today said the men and management of the American merchant marine have written one of the war's "most brilliant" chapters. The President made the remark in a letter to Rear Adm. Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission, on the occasion of victory fleet day.

NOBLEMAN'S SON TELLS WHY HE QUIT FIGHTING

Says Soldiers 'Die for 2 Tired Old Men.'

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 27.—In a sharp letter made public today the 33 year old son of a British nobleman declared that he seeks to resign his captaincy in the royal armored corps because he objects to the united nations' unconditional surrender policy. He admitted refusing to lead an attack against Le Havre charging that allied soldiers were being asked to "die for the negative ideals of two very tired old men."

William Douglas-Home is the younger son of the 13th earl of Home, a peerage dating from 1604. Once a self proclaimed candidate for the house of commons on an anti-unconditional surrender platform, the young officer attracted wide notice a few weeks ago when he announced he had asked to resign his commission because he lacked faith in the allied war aims.

Asks for Reports.

Calling for reports regarding the letter, an official of the war office public relations department said:

"If it is established that the officer has written such a letter there is no doubt appropriate action will be taken."

In today's letter, published in the Maidenhead Advertiser, Douglas-Home wrote:

"Rightly or wrongly, I could not bring myself to take part in an operation against troops who admittedly did not want to fight but whose commander refused to accept unconditional surrender."

Would Be Honored.

During the battle for Boulogne, he said, he asked permission to parley under a flag of truce with the German commander "to avoid a second tragedy." The soldiers and officers of this nation would be honored for performing the same deeds German troops are being condemned for, he said, adding:

"Yet I am to charge forth for what I regard as a false reading of international politics by statesmen playing the old game of power politics."

Pope Pius Receives Taylor and Italian Relief Head

ROME, Sept. 27 (AP).—Pope Pius XII. today received Myron Taylor, President Roosevelt's envoy to the Vatican, and Judge Juvenal Marchisio of New York, president of the American Association for Italian relief. The audience lasted 40 minutes.

Druggist Is Sent to Jail for Owing $315 Alimony

Oreste P. Allegretti, 43, manager of a drug store at 800 Wilson av., was sentenced yesterday to 10 days in county jail for contempt of court on complaint of his estranged wife, Theodora-Lilah, 29, of 4615 Malden st. She charged before Judge William J. Lindsay in Superior court that Allegretti owed her $315 in temporary alimony. Allegretti accused his wife of taking $1,067 from their bank account and $275 from the drug store safe. She said she returned the money.

Money Problems Check Out WITH... CHECK-CREDIT

NEW Kind of Checking Account enables you to Write Yourself a Check when you need a loan

IMAGINE having a personal checking account that allows you to write and cash a check for as much as $25 more than you have in the bank. Without having to ask anyone, or tell anyone—not even us.

Then, next pay day, repay what you "loaned yourself"—plus only $1 service fee. Check-Credit is that quick and simple.

With Check-Credit, you're never "caught short" in emergencies. You don't have the embarrassment of borrowing from friends or employer.

You save money, too. For Check-Credit gives you your own personal checking account at a cost of only 5c per check or item of deposit. No minimum balance is required—keep as little in the bank as you like. Each time you write a check you save 5 to 32 cents of the cost of money orders.

PREDICTS 2 YEAR JAP WAR AFTER GERMANY FALLS

OWI Says Nippon Will Not Collapse Internally.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—American military plans are based on the assumption that it will take one and a half to two years to defeat Japan after the surrender of Germany, the office of war information said today in a report on the status of the war in the Pacific. It said no internal collapse of Japan is expected.

The psychological effect of the end of the German war might favor the Japanese, rather than the allies, the report asserted. It said that for the United States, the defeat of Germany will mean the reaching of a half-way mark in the war and extensive changes in war economy, which might cause slackening of effort and morale. On the contrary, Germany's collapse "might well heighten Japan's determination and fighting spirit," the report said.

Factors Favoring Allies.

The OWI analysis listed net strategic advantages of the allies, and those factors favoring Japan. Those for the allies were:

1. Huge war production. The United States alone produces 8,000 combat planes a month, compared with estimated Japanese output of 1,400 to 1,500.

2. Japan has lost the power for a strategic offensive beyond the range of her land based planes because of American aircraft carrier supremacy and the sinking of many Japanese fleet units.

3. Japan's merchant shipping has been reduced steadily by sinkings at a rate larger by half than her ability to replace ships.

4. Japanese industries have been bombed by B-29 Super-Fortresses operating from China.

5. "Island skipping" by allied forces has neutralized about 50 major bases on the fringes of Japan's outer defense zone, and the Guam, Saipan and Tinian victories have brought allied forces within striking distance of the inner defense zone.

Cut Supply Routes.

6. Allied forces now are established where another stride of the west, such as the recapture of the Philippines, would cut off north-south supply routes and begin a blockade of the Japanese home islands.

7. Altho the quality of the rank and file of Japanese troops is high, according to Gen. MacArthur, leadership is weak.

8. The Japanese have been outfought and defeated at sea, in the air, and on the ground in every test of strength since the allies took the offensive.

Factors favorable to the Japanese side included:

1. Japan is capable of increasing her production of almost every type of war supplies.

2. Japan has an advantageous geographical position, and the allies must solve tremendous shipping problems before launching major invasions.

3. The course of the China war has favored Japan.

Bases Near Japan.

4. Japanese industries are beyond the range of allied air attack, except that of Super Fortresses, and will remain so until the allies establish bases near Japan.

5. Despite heavy losses, Japan has not yet had to muster its full army strength. The Japanese army is estimated at 4 million men; 2 million more are available for service, but haven't been called, and another 1½ million between 17 and 20 are not subject to the draft.

6. Japan has many strategic supplies in the home islands and in near-by Korea and Manchuria and operates on interior lines of supply.

7. Japan still has a powerful fleet, including 10 to 13 battleships and 10 to 12 large aircraft carriers.

8. Despite heavy losses, it is estimated that the Japanese currently are able to produce planes as rapidly as the allies destroy them.

GEN. CHENNAULT MINIMIZES JAP DRIVE IN CHINA

KUNMING, China, Sept. 26 [Delayed]—(AP). — Despite the Japanese successes in southeastern China, Maj. Gen. Clare L. Chennault, commander of the United States 14th air force, asserted today the enemy never would be permitted to derive much benefit from north-south communications thru China.

"We have developed a very effective technique for preventing traffic on railways, highways, and rivers," the general said in an interview.

The Japanese, he declared, "are tying up large forces and consuming great quantities of supplies.

Jap Column Advances.

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 27 (AP). —One of two Japanese columns attempting to by-pass the vital city of Kwellin in southern China today neared Kungcheng, 47 miles southeast of the Kwangsi capital.

LT. PEYTON'S AWARDS FOR VALOR IN WAR GIVEN TO HIS WIDOW

Lt. John B. Peyton.

The silver star and the air medal awarded posthumously to Lt. John B. Peyton, bomber pilot killed in action in the European theater of war last February, have been presented to his widow, Mrs. Frances Peyton of 5634 Dakin st. Lt. Peyton was cited for his heroism in bringing back his plane, riddled with flak, to its base in England after a mission over enemy territory. Lt. Peyton also is survived by a son, John, 11 months old, whom he had never seen, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Conforti of 3912 Paris av. He attended Schurz High school, and prior to his enlistment was studying to be a commercial artist.

Posthumous award of the Legion of Merit to Lt. Col. Harry R. Kadlec, corps of engineers, will be accepted today by Mrs. Kadlec in the office of Brig. Gen. William E. Guthner, commander of the Illinois district, 6th service command.

Col. Kadlec, a reserve officer called to active duty in September, 1940, died last July 2. The Legion of Merit was given to him for outstanding service as construction quartermaster and area engineer.

REVOLUTION IN EUROPE.

Larry Rue of THE TRIBUNE agrees with other observers in Paris that France is going left. The radicals contemplate the nationalization of heavy industry, finance, and utilities. The state will make a beginning by expropriating properties which the Germans themselves had expropriated and by declaring forfeit the possessions of Frenchmen accused of collaboration. There is an intricate snarl of property rights due to the occupation and the usurpations of the Nazis in French economic life. There also is a desire for revenge on the industrialists and the propertied class accused of treason.

In spite of soviet disavowal of world revolution the Communists are active in France, Italy, Yugoslavia, and Greece, if not in other countries which have suffered from one or another of the brands of totalitarianism. Bulgaria already has gone red. Among the inconsistencies and contradictions of the distracted continent is this one of desiring to continue some form of the original curse.

There is a terrific—altho delayed—backwash of the Russian revolution. It brought about the conditions which made the war by creating intolerable systems of government and filling the continent with fears and hatreds operating on a decadent economy. Europe made the French revolution the signal for war which started in 1792 and continued until the career of Napoleon was ended. Europe started to repeat history in 1918-'19 with the coalition against Lenin's Russia, but faltered and withdrew. The Russians for their part were too exhausted by conflict, defeat, terror, and destitution to make a counter-attack similar to that of the French revolutionaries, altho they were of world revolutionary mind.

Nevertheless Russia gave Europe two things which were to determine its destiny in a manner not yet fully disclosed. They were fear and example. The other war temporarily stopped the development of representative government in central Europe. In Germany, for instance, before 1914, the governing class had been losing seats in the reichstag to the popular groups. Political evolution was at work. With the end of the war the first impetus was again toward republican government. Monarchies toppled. Popular governments were established. But in Russia something else had arisen out of the soil of repression, war, defeat, disorder, and confusion. It was a government the like of which had never been seen before.

This Russian government was an absolute despotism unlike any other despotism in Europe. It was built on hatreds. It was schematically brutal in a fashion no other despotism had ever been. Lenin, the Marxist, had schooled himself to the extermination of entire classes of people. Without compunction he could kill people whose only offense was their condition in life. Terror reduced all Russia to submission. An all-embracing system of secret police and informers kept it there.

Altho Russia could not attack with armies it did export revolution and began to do so immediately. Bavaria had a communistic movement. Bela Kun rose in Hungary. German Communists formed one of the strongest parties and gained strength in spite of assassination and street fighting.

The promising growth of popular government in Europe was stopped. The republics were killed by a reactionary movement swifter and more complete than anything the continent ever had experienced. In fear of communism the classes who had the most to lose sought protection in a variant of the despotic form of government Lenin had nurtured and brought to power. Mussolini was supported to fight the Socialists in Italy. Hitler was cultivated and given money to fight the Reds in Germany. An imitation of Russian dictatorship was adopted not only against communism but also against moderate upholders of republican institutions.

In Germany the junkers were afraid for their land holdings. The military caste wanted to hold and extend its privileges. The industrialists feared expropriation and liquidation. Hitler with his demagogic oratory and his bands of street fighters and thugs seemed just the man to suppress the Reds. When he was about to fail for lack of money he was given means of supporting his private army. Some of the men who undertook to insure their possessions by subsidizing the Nazis soon regretted it, as Fritz Thyssen did, but most of them got something for their money. Russia was changing methods of life in Europe by the fears it engendered and by the form of government it had made supreme. That was its triumph, altho it was nearly engulfed in the consequent disasters.

In 1939, 22 years after the October revolution in which Lenin seized power, the backwash hit Europe and shattered it. The degeneration inherent in dictatorship and its deadly retroaction was manifest in brutality which would have been incomprehensible in any other generation. There is no satisfactory assurance that the era is coming to its end with the end of the war in Europe. The revolution has not extinguished its torch. Controls are passing into other hands, but the idea that it is profitable to manage a dictatorial state is not dead. Men who suffered from Hitler and fought him on the continent have not rejected the governmental system under which they led tortured lives.

This may seem strange. Peoples which suffered from dictatorship might be expected to regard totalitarianism as the greatest of evils. But these same peoples thirst for revenge upon some of their own countrymen and for purposes of revenge there is no form of government so useful as the dictatorship, freed as it is of all restraints. That is why the liberation of Europe may be accompanied by the rise of new dictatorships with all the usual paraphernalia of concentration camps and gallows.

CANDIDATE FOR A FOXHOLE.

▲ Mr. Charles Moser, aged 29, of 5139 Foster avenue, was dissatisfied with the terms of his employment at one of the plants of the Revere Copper and Brass company in Chicago. He didn't want to pour 11 inch castings to which he was assigned. He preferred to pour 14 inch castings. The management said his complaint should be handled thru the usual grievance procedure set up for adjusting such disputes. He quit and when he walked out some 2,500 other employes, members of the A. F. of L.'s Automobile Workers' union, went with him. The result has been an interruption of production. The delivery of vast quantities of cartridge cases has been delayed. We may hope that the strike did not result in the loss of American lives and the prolonging of the war.

Incidents of this kind have been rare in Chicago, a fact which reflects much credit upon the patriotism and the sense of responsibility prevailing in this community. Unfortunately the record is not perfect. When Mr. Moser is asked by his grandchildren what he did for his country in the war he will have to answer, if he is honest with them, that he interrupted the flow of ammunition to the fighting fronts. The members of his union who walked out with him will have the same shameful story to tell.

Mr. Moser is 29 years old. He was 26 when the war began. He's had a relatively easy time of it, working in an ammunition factory. Perhaps his draft board can arrange to accommodate him with a foxhole at the front. To be sure, the wages of soldiers are none too good and the working conditions are something less than ideal, but a lot of better men than he is have accepted them gladly and gallantly. The experience might be good for him, too, provided he survived it.

CLEARING WITH SIDNEY.

Sidney Hillman and Earl Browder had an idea, but not a new one, when Hillman formed and Browder supported the political action committee of the CIO. Browder knew it well as the boring from within tactic. The immediate predecessor of the PAC in American political action was the Anti-Saloon league. If Hillman and Browder think it succeeded they should take a second thought of its finish.

The founders of the Anti-Saloon league were prohibitionists who broke away from the old methods and traditions. With a single measurement of fitness for public life they went into political action for men who would vote yes on their bills and against men who would not. Wayne B. Wheeler, Scott McBride, and William Anderson were able organizers with able associates, and soon politicians in small towns and rural districts were afraid to oppose them. In the south they found the Democratic party amenable as a matter of state policy. In the north the Republican party in the agricultural states gave way.

The dry dictatorship became a fact. People who had thought it could not happen had a rough awakening. The 18th amendment was submitted and adopted. War prohibition was passed by congress to take effect, cynically enough, after the war had ended, to conserve grains for war uses. Even then President Wilson could not get a repeal of the war act. The country passed from the jurisdiction of war time prohibition in peace time to constitutional prohibition under the Volstead act, with the dry dictators sitting in the legislative galleries and guiding their congressional floor managers.

It was a most astonishing performance in political power suddenly and completely acquired by single minded zealots who asked only one question of public men. Altho the Wilson regime saw the rise of the thing, it helped to wreck the unfortunate Hoover administration. The country, nonplused for the first moment, went into its wild bootleg ride and scandalized itself before the world by its methods of law infraction and equally by its methods of law enforcement.

The fall of the Anti-Saloon league was as rapid as its rise. It had begun with a solid support of respectable citizens who objected to the liquor control of their local governments and state legislatures or who had a utopian idea of the elimination of the use of intoxicating beverages. What became intolerable was the existence of a special interest group that had acquired control of the American government for its special purposes and its downfall dated from the moment that became quite apparent.

Sidney Hillman might learn something from the experiences of Wayne B. Wheeler. Once things were cleared with Mr. Wheeler.

TIP-OFF ON CAROL.

A story from Mexico City reports that conversations are being held between Constantine Oumanski, soviet ambassador, and ex-King Carol of Romania there, leading to the belief that the soviet government may decide to put him back on the throne if the people will stand for it. Anybody who recalls the shotgun plebiscites in the Baltic states a few years ago will not expect the Romanians to put up much resistance if Moscow wants Carol to have his old job back.

Romanians will have advanced notice of Carol's prospects if they watch the passport office in Washington. The New Dealers have kept Carol out of this country so far. If Moscow decides to make Carol a king again the Communists in Washington will be alerted, records will be expunged, and the border gates on the Rio Grande will swing open. Carol's royal party will be hustled up to our capital to take its place alongside the rest of the emigre nobility holding lend-lease court there.

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. The "coffin corner" is associated with which type of geometric figure?
   Rectangle Circle Diamond Triangle
2. The only one of the following creatures which can become a parent, is the Steer Heifer Gelding Wether
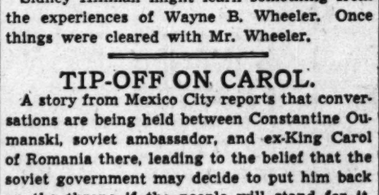
3. The standard filing cabinet normally has how many drawers? Two Three Four Five
4. If you were buying wire fence which gauge would indicate the thickest wire?
   9 gauge 10 gauge 12½ gauge 14½ gauge
5. A trellis would normally be associated with which one of these?
   Sweet Potatoes Apricots Cherries Grapes
6. If you were to drive a large nail into each of the five trees sketched herewith and at the stipulated heights, and were then to examine them seven years later, how would the nails compare in height if the tree at "A" grew 17 inches per year, "B" grew 11½ inches per year, "C" grew 10 inches, "D" grew 8¼, and "E" grew 7½ inches per year?



Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

[Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.: Copyright: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ANSWERS.

1. Rectangle [gridiron]. 2. Heifer. 3. Four drawers. 4. 9 gauge. 5. Grapes. 6. Since trees grow out from the top the nails would not rise any higher above the ground, so "A" would still be the lowest and "E" the highest.

A PRESS VETERAN.

The late William K. McKay has gone to join the class of 1893 in the Valhalla of Chicago newspaper men—the men who wore out their pens, but not their talents, in describing the Columbian exposition. Among them were George Ade, Finley Peter Dunne, James O'Donnell Bennett, and others upon whose careers Bill McKay was a frequently consulted authority. He will give them a full account of their successors thru several generations, spiced with anecdote and humor, for his 50 years of journalism never took him out of touch with the new recruits.

• • •

Whenever anybody came to town to dig up material for a book on Chicago's newspaper history [such researchers have been fairly frequent of late], he was always told, "See Bill McKay." When seen, in his office on the editorial floor of Tribune Tower at a desk which has no counterpart in design, McKay would prove to be a gold mine of stuff that these recapturers of the past could never find in books or newspapers. He was as good as Ulysses on the Trojan war.

• • •

When Elmer Ellis of the University of Missouri arrived, some four years ago, on the trail of Finley Peter Dunne's Chicago period as creator of Mr. Dooley, McKay took the young scholar under his wing, like a managing editor coaching a promising reporter. You will find recognition of this in Ellis' "Mr. Dooley's America," published in 1941. When Ellis wanted to interview George Ade, McKay made the journey into Indiana with him.

• • •

McKay's years of newspaper life were partly spent as a managing editor, and in this capacity he had a keen eye for new talent. He put Franklin P. Adams [F. P. A.] into the columnist business on the Journal in 1903. William Phelon, chiefly a sports writer but one of the most fantastic humorists of the town, was also fostered by McKay. There have been many others whose careers bloomed and became fruitful under his adroit and genial encouragement.

• • •

He died with one of his pet projects unfulfilled—the book publication of "Forty Years of Newspaper Nights," memoirs of the late John Kelley, police reporter and troubadour for Bath House John Coughlin. But never mind, Bill; we'll get that manuscript published yet. It's an assignment.

NOW THE NETHERLANDS.

These are my people, the patient and proud,
Unvanquished tho conquered, silent, withdrawn;
Stubbornly waiting, in spirit unbowed,
Sure of deliverance, sure of the dawn.
The ceaseless centuries against the sea
Have bred forbearance fearful in its strength;
Always the tyrants have their day, then flee
As freedom's purpose works its will at length.
It must have seemed fit answer to long prayer
When armies from the sky, in motley bloom,
Fell softly on their soil, to fight and share
In cleansing Holland from the conquest's doom,
And in this last crusade build high and free
Strong dikes against the seas of tyranny!

Boy in Watermelon Patch.

Here is a little feller, and you know what he is doin'? He is sittin' in the watermelon patch.

Let's watch to see what he does. Well, blow me down, he got up and is going around pressing on the melons to see if they crack, a sure sign they are ripe. Now what's he doin'? He is looking at the curly tails on the ends of the watermelons to see if they are dry, which is another sign the melons are ripe. Well, now he has one that he is sure is ripe, but to make certain, he takes a knife from his pocket, and cuts a plug from it. Yes, it is ripe, and fit to eat.

So he tries to lift it into his little wagon, but it is no use. The watermelon is too heavy, or perhaps he is too small. What does he do? He takes a big knife and cuts it in halves. He tries to lift one half of the melon, but it is still too heavy. He has another smaller knife with him, and he is preparing to eat the melon, which is as cool as the night just gone.

Why, the little dickens! He is eating only the core of the melon. He should know better. His mother has told him never to waste food. O, he is going after the part with the seeds at last, and the inside of the melon is gone inside the little boy, and seeds are scattered all around him.

Now he can lift what is left of the melon. He puts the rind in his little wagon and totes it up to his mother, who greets him in her calico gown of blue, twinkles her eyes at him and says, "What a good boy. Never waste food. Now we can have watermelon rind pickles."

O, boy, watermelon rind pickles! Remember?

[Draft, military, and veterans' questions are answered here or by mail if a stamped envelope is sent. Personal advice and assistance are given veterans by appointment.]

G. F. S. asks: "Are the army officer candidate schools completely closed for the duration of the war?"

No. Applications are being accepted for the following schools irrespective of whether or not a quota was set for them earlier: Army air forces administrative, armored force, chemical warfare service, field artillery, engineer, finance, infantry, judge advocate general, medical administrative, military police, ordnance, quartermaster, signal, transportation, and women's army corps. Details are in AR 625-5 REV.

I. V. S. writes: "Before I went into service I was a licensed engineer. If I have my license renewed, it will take all the money I have and I'll need a loan to make up the difference. Where can I borrow the money?"

You won't need to borrow to have your license renewed. If you'll send an affidavit to your state department of education and registration, stating that you were in military or naval service, your license will be renewed without additional charges.

NOTE: There is still time to send for our gift list and send that Yank overseas his or her gift. A stamped envelope is all that is required.

CHECK RECTAL ITCHING.

ITCHING about the bowel exit [pruritus ani] is all too common. We seem to forget that this region of the body deserves special attention. The discharges are never clean and the slightest bit of soil may plant bacteria on the adjacent skin, resulting in a severe type of irritation.

The best hygienic remedy is cleanliness. This means that the parts should be washed with soap and water daily. Furthermore, we must not employ toilet tissue as we would sandpaper. It should function instead as a blotter.

More often than not, inflammation in this vicinity will become complicated with eczemalike eruptions. This is nearly always the aftermath of scratching and the sowing of germs. Not only will cocci be allowed to establish themselves but plant fungi as well. Thus it is that frequently we encounter ringworm along with pus producing invaders. The ensuing symptoms are so distressing that the victim can think of nothing but his troubles.

While good sanitation may be able to prevent the disorder, some stronger remedy may be necessary to exterminate the causative elements. First, we must think of X-ray exposures. Light doses of this powerful force will produce a slight quieting reaction. As a rule, symptoms will be relieved—at least temporarily. This will permit the sufferer to achieve a comfortable interval, wherein the attack can be made upon the primary cause. Then it is that careful examination of the bowel outlet will need to be made, with treatment of all abnormalities including fissures, hemorrhoids, and infections.

It goes without saying that a thorough study of the general physical status should be made, as diabetes [indicated by the presence of sugar in the urine] may be the culprit. Another factor that must be checked carefully is the presence of parasites. Thread or pinworms lay their eggs in the anal area and thus set up depots of inflammation.

The diet likewise should be managed cautiously. We can avoid coarse vegetables such as onions, cabbage, cauliflower, and Brussels sprouts. If vitamin C is deficient, it can be supplied in the form of ascorbic acid. We can eliminate mustard, strong flavorings in gravies, pepper, and the like. These patients do best when restricted to a moderate amount of fluid rather than flooding the tissues.

Local applications are of value and, if ringworm is suspected or identified, Whitfield's paste can be applied lightly. A mild dilute solution of gentian violet or potassium permanganate will allay most skin infections. A recent report pointed out that a 5 per cent sulfathiazole ointment was helpful. This remedy is particularly beneficial when bacteria are present.

[Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this condition.]

NASAL TREATMENT.

H. S. M. writes: In one of your articles on allergy, you stated that membranes could be shrunk to allow for breathing. May I ask how this is done?

REPLY.

Nose and throat specialists advocate certain drugs, notably adrenalin and ephedrine.

CONTAMINATED FOOD.

G. S. writes: What germ is involved in food poisoning?

REPLY.

Many types, including members of the Salmonella group, staphylococci, streptococci, etc. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this disorder.

SKIN MARKS.

R. P. writes: Is there a difference between a wart and a blood wart?

REPLY.

The ordinary wart, which is the color of the surrounding skin, is due to a virus infection. Those that are reddish pink are nevi [birthmarks].

HIDING PLACE.

W. T. writes: What can be done for a person who is a typhoid carrier?

REPLY.

The usual procedure is to remove the gall bladder. More often than not, this sac harbors the infection.

PARTLY DETACHED.

M. O. writes: What is a false rib?

REPLY.

The five lower ribs on either side are called "false." They are not connected directly with the breastbone but are attached by means of strips of cartilage.

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

The Equinox—Six Days Late.

And so the long summer of the invasion has come to an end. When, if ever, was a summer so long and the thoughts of so many so far from home? But autumn came, and a note in the mail says that in the Indiana dunes the milkweed now is scattering its silky, flosslike seeds to the wind. But not even the note on wild life is free from the war: the parachuting seeds, our nature authority says, are forerunners of the parachutes used in Holland today, and the milkweed floss now is used to replace Java's kapok in life jackets for men at sea.

So autumn has come, quickly, buoyantly, with a hurricane in the east and silence in the midwest. The air is tinged with a slight hysteria, that fleeting tang in early morning which marks the final fruition and exultation of the earth before the death that is no death. The shagbark hickory, its leaves drooping and yellow, looks like the scarecrow of Oz, and grackles feast in the wild cherry trees. The leaves of the corn, deep green two weeks ago, are yellow parchment rustling in the wind, and 50 miles from the heart of Chicago the wild cactus is in bloom. The mountain ash is covered with scarlet berries, tractors chug over a drouth-hardened soil as farmers sow their winter wheat, and the timeless haze of autumn hangs over the hills.

And back the mind slips over the summer that led to this, the summer of Normandy and Paris and Rome, of Saipan and Guam and Manila, with every day D-day, a day as close as yesterday, as remote as tomorrow, when you went around choked up with a choking that remained for weeks until the letter came—or did not come, when that disease known as invasion jitters lingered after the fact and became part of you, and you realized that if each year put a ring of growth around that battered tree, the human mind, this summer had surely added six.

So the summer is gone, and stray bits from a summer's reading or conversation drift back into the mind. The chaplain from the battleship who said: "All I know is that as long as I live I will never make another Memorial day address." The marine on Saipan who saw a single flower blooming in that utter devastation, started to pick it up, and said, "No. All else is dead. Let this live." The naval officer who protested, when cited, "But all we did was our duty." The lieutenant in France who cried out in his sleep, "If it's more than a company, we'll attack. If it's more than an army, we'll call out our reserves." The men of the signal corps whom the general praised for carrying on "in the face of difficult odds without food, favor, or affection." The very young soldier in France who wrote, a model of Caesarian understatement, "This thing no longer is like a camping trip at night." The marine, fatally wounded, who looked up at the doctor who could do nothing for him, smiled, said, "Thanks, doc," and died, and the doctor's tortured reply, "He thanks me!" The woman who, reminded of the difficulties attending the search for a just peace, quoted Edison who, when told that the 2,000th experiment to find a filament for his incandescent lamp had failed, replied, "That means there are 2,000 things we do not need to try again."

So the summer is gone, and the winter wheat will grow in the hardened soil; the birds fattening on the ripening sunflower seeds will come again; the sows preparing to have their fall litters will have litters again in the spring; the wild grape, now hanging in purple clusters between leaves mottled with red, will lose no tendril under the snows; and the haze on the hills will lift and go and a year from now be back again.

So the third summer of the war is at an end. It brought a Scottie and a mustache into the Presidential campaign, incredible sorrow into the world, a haze into the sky to match the mind, and the reassurance that all passes, even war.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE PRESIDENT'S CAMPAIGN SPEECH.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—I am a member of the American Federation of Labor and I listened to Candidate Roosevelt speak last night. I must say union people don't fall for such bunk as he handed out to the dictators of certain union organizations, who are 90 per cent on the political pay rolls.

Just because they had to come to Tobin's mass meeting last night from almost every town in the United States doesn't mean we, the rank and file of the AFL, will vote for Roosevelt. Real, honest union men are so disgusted about being misled by men such as those who had to deliver for Roosevelt last night, that I say 85 per cent of the union members will vote for Dewey. John Lewis and his miners, after taxing themselves to elect Roosevelt, got a big double crossing they will never forget, and all will vote for Dewey this time.

In his speech last night, Mr. Roosevelt cried down with fascism and nazism, but never mentioned down with communism and Browder. Why? Is he afraid? Since he was elected he never gave work to the mass of the people. All I ever got was WPA.

AL B. MORRISON.

Oak Park, Ill., Sept. 24.—This morning I made a study of Roosevelt's speech as reported in your paper and found the following:

	Number	Per Cent
1 syllable words	2,000	70.17
2 syllable words	487	17.08
3 syllable words	212	7.43
4 syllable words	119	4.17
5 syllables or more	32	1.12
Totals	2,850	99.97

The American people are the best educated people in the world. They can understand words of more than one syllable.

READER.

Elgin, Ill., Sept. 25.—I felt sick with shame at our President's speech. He sounded like he was trying to compete with a radio comedian. It's dignity and truth we want. It must have been agony for my son in New Guinea to listen to a speech like that.

MRS. E. K.

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 24.—President Roosevelt made the statement in his speech on Saturday night that the Republicans were trying to steal credit for the New Deal. God forbid! If any Republican was that crazy he would be shot at sunrise by the Republican National committee.

E. C. BURKE.

Rutland, Ill., Sept. 25.—The little respect I had for President Roosevelt vanished last Saturday, when I heard him joking and laughing, while the world burned. The fate of the human race hangs in dreadful balance; it could easily go the wrong way, yet he is so happy about the whole thing! May God help us! We certainly do need a change!

J. DUNNE.

Freeport, Ill., Sept. 24.—It was all very funny, but we cannot help wondering what those 10 million workers who were on a dole during the Roosevelt depression from 1933 to 1941, thought of it all.

BYSTANDER.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Roosevelt makes my blood boil when he goes back to talk about the depression and bread lines. I guess there's many a mother who wishes she was in the bread lines sharing her crust with her little ones, instead of reading and hearing about them being murdered in foreign lands.

A MOTHER.

THE WILL TO BE INFORMED.

Somewhere in the Deep South, Sept. 22.—Please find inclosed a check for $5 for the Chicago Daily Tribune. I don't know the price of the subscription, but will send the balance as soon as I find out how much it is. I want the paper sent to my next door neighbor.

May God bless you and your paper and give us victory over the Communist forces on Nov. 7. I wrote you last May and sent a check for $10 for your paper, but never heard from you or got a paper. Neither did I get my check receipt. I know you did not receive it, altho I put the letter in the mailbox myself. My husband could have taken it out as he opposes me taking anything anti-F. D. R. That is why I'm sending it next door with her permission. She is as anxious as I am to see your paper which we have seen quoted from so many sources. If you should write to me, address it to my neighbor.

A PHASE OF THE WAR SHE'LL MISS.

Park Ridge, Ill., Sept. 21.—When the war is over, I am wondering who will haul away all our newspapers and magazines, and the loose papers which we in Park Ridge deposit in onion bags for the OCD? Also, what will I do with my bacon grease?

I remember the days when we invariably missed the Salvation Army man, the grease either stopped the kitchen drain or ran out of the garbage package, and somebody in our house had to burn the trash every day. Here, indeed, is a post-war problem for the boys in Washington to solve.

PRISCILLA TOTTENHOFF.

"THE ROOSEVELT TERMS TO FINLAND."

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Your editorial entitled "The Roosevelt Terms to Finland" in today's TRIBUNE was a masterpiece. I am sure the vast majority of Americans are in complete accord with the sentiments so ably expressed in your editorial. I hope that the future will hold brighter and happier days for the heroic and honest Finns, and that God will place a restraining hand upon Red Russia.

EDWIN CARSON.

HARDING ISN'T RUNNING.

Plainfield, Ill., Sept. 23.—You like to point out the faults of the Democratic Presidents but you don't say anything about the faults of Republican Presidents. If there ever was a peanut politician it was President Harding, and the only way that Coolidge was any better was that he was at least a decent man. When I think back that I voted for them it makes me boil.

HOW MARAUDERS FOUGHT WAY OUT OF JUNGLE TRAP

Outnumbered, Isolated, They Order Attack!

Merrill's Marauders find themselves in one of the most perilous spots of their career, in three isolated pockets, menaced by Jap infantry and pounded by Jap guns. They had called themselves "America's Toughest." Now they were having to prove it.

BY S/SGT. W. J. ANDERSON.
Composite Unit 5307 [Merrill's Marauders], United States Army.
As Told to CHARLES LEAVELLE.
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

It was the third day after our arrival that we of C battalion discovered the Nhpum Ga hill trail between our air strip camp and B battalion, four and one-half miles up the slope, had been cut by the Japanese. My friend, Sgt. Stanley Subanski of Grand Rapids, Mich., was sent with 15 other men to find out how B battalion was faring.

Not knowing Col. McGee had been ordered to hold the hill 48 hours, we all were pretty sore because they had made no move to come down. We knew what would inevitably happen if B didn't get out of the hot box it was in. Our patrol had covered about two and one-half miles without seeing anything when they walked right into an ambush. Jap light and heavy machine guns opened up on both sides of the trail. How they failed to hit anybody I'll never know. The patrol ducked and one man was sent back to notify our command.

When he had gone about a mile Jap machine guns pointing up the trail opened fire on him. They had been there all the time and had let the patrol pass, apparently hoping to ambush B battalion if it should start down. The scout went back with the news and the patrol headed for the air strip, cutting around the Jap guns.

Battalion in Trap.

B battalion now was in one hell of a fix. Jap ground forces closed in on three sides and their artillery methodically began lobbing in 70 mm. shells with disastrous effect. The next morning we were ordered out to clear the trail of Japs and rescue the survivors of the other battalion.

This was slow and dangerous work. Tho the trail led steadily upward, it had a number of high points or humps and the Japs had dug in atop each of these. A brisk fight was necessary to take them. We were in touch with B by radio again and we urged that they start down, pushing the Japs from above while we took them below.

They were forced to reply that casualties had run so high they could not do so and bring out their wounded. They wouldn't, of course, leave the wounded behind.

Needed Own Artillery.

Early in April our officers concluded that without artillery of our own we were stymied. They asked by radio if the air force could get field pieces to us.

The reply was that two 75 mm. pack howitzers would be dropped in pieces the next day. The news raced thru the camp. For the first time since we had known them, our mule drivers brightened up and looked happy. Away back in 1942 in the United States they had been pack artillery men and had fired guns. Their mule driving had been incidental to getting places with their ordnance.

Shipped to the Southwest Pacific, they had expected action in New Guinea, but there they had served only as mule skinners. When the call for volunteers to unit 5307 came thru they jumped at it, still hoping for some boom-boom. Again they became lowly mule drivers. But now! They beamed when they were called before Maj. Edwin J. Briggs. Ere the day ended they had reorganized as gun crews.

Howitzers Float Down.

The next day a cloud of red parachutes drifted down over our air strip. In two hours the howitzers had been assembled and were ready. After a final inspection they opened fire up the trail, over the heads of our infantry men, who at first thought the Japs had gotten behind them.

The gunners' eager leader, Staff Sgt. John A. [Red] Acker, Bessemer, Ala., was put out of action the second day when he went up in a Piper Cub to direct their shots from the air. The plane crashed in dense jungle about a mile from camp, killing the pilot. Sgt. Acker was injured seriously.

On the third day the artillery men mounted their guns on mules and went a couple of miles up the trail and set up anew. Directed by infantry walkie-talkie, they opened up on the main Jap position and blasted it out of existence.

Our company now was ordered to relieve the other C battalion boys. We marched up the trail two miles, then headed off to the north until we came abreast a small stream, which we followed westward a distance. Then we headed back south to bisect the trail. Nearing it with Maj. Briggs, we ran into a pocket of Japs. We took a heavy toll of them at first, then they started getting some of us. Four of our boys were killed outright and several more were wounded.

Japs' Nervousness Grows.

But our thrust had served its purpose. The Japs recognized they were being flanked. Our foray had broken their forces in the middle temporarily and added to their nervousness. At about the same time a patrol captured one of their messages stating a fresh American division had moved in and suggesting that the Jap force holding the trail move out. They had suspected a division because of our artillery, which generally doesn't move except with a division.

After returning our wounded to the air strip, we moved straight up the trail for a frontal attack to take full advantage of the Japs' indecision.

FEDERAL UNION, INC., MEETS HERE TODAY TO PLAN END OF U. S.

Plans for a post-war action program aimed at developing a union of democratic nations under a common world government will be discussed at the fourth annual convention of Federal Union, Inc., which convenes today in the Stevens hotel.

The meetings, to continue thru Sunday, are expected to be attended by approximately 200 members and delegates representing the union and the Student Federalists, a subsidiary group holding its own convention with that of the parent organization.

Here to attend the gathering is Clarence K. Streit, president of Federal Union and founder and principal promoter of its predecessor cult, Union Now, which Streit conceived as a former Rhodes scholar from Montana at Oxford university, in England.

Under the global merger of nations as urged by Streit and Federal Union, the American Union, and the United States Constitution would be submerged in a world government.

WHAT TO EXPECT IN PEACE RADIOS TOLD BY MAKERS

Seeking to dispel what it terms "basic misconceptions" about postwar radio sets, the Radio Manufacturers association yesterday estimated that only 25 to 35 per cent of the total output of receivers will go to nonmilitary purposes after Germany's fall. The remainder must go for war purposes until Japan is defeated.

The manufacturers cautioned against expecting "miracle" radios, based on radar and other secret war time radio developments. Most frequency modulation sets, it was said, will be combined with standard radio receivers. Television units will be separate or in combination with regular radio receiving sets.

Prices will be higher than before the war because of increases in costs of material and labor. The manufacturers envision a pent-up demand for 25 million sets, but they expect "no difficulty in meeting the demands once full civilian production has begun."

3 BOYS ORDERED HELD TO JURY IN SHOOTING OF 4TH

Judge N. J. Bonelli in Boys court yesterday held to the grand jury three boys accused of being concerned in the shooting Sept. 9 of Alfred Gorski, 18, of 1756 North av., a junior at Lane Technical High school.

The three are William Blackburn, 17, of 1934 Irving Park rd., charged with assault to kill; Edward Nega, 17, of 1501 Augusta blvd., and Clifford Januzewski, 17, of 1144 N. Wood st., charged with being accessories after the fact. Bond was set at $1,000 each.

Judge Bonelli dismissed accessory charges against Miss Sylvia Zakowski, 19, of 1166 Milwaukee av., but ordered her to move from the hotel where she has been living and take a room with a private family. The only explanation for the shooting was that a gang of youths with Gorski had been giving the three others "the razzberries."

'GET ON RELIEF' WAS ADVICE TO POLYGAMY CULT

'Celestial Wife' Testifies in Trial of 32.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 27 (AP).—A woman who lived 22 months as the "celestial wife" of a member of the "Fundamentalist" cult said today she was told that persons instructed in plural marriage laws who failed to observe those laws "would be damned."

Mrs. Mary Ford Petty.

Testifying at the District court trial of 32 cult members charged with conspiring to preach and practice polygamy, Mrs. Cathryn Cosgrove of San Diego, Cal., said cult members used the book of Mormon and the doctrine and covenants of the Latter-Day Saints [Mormon] church but were "taught not to follow the manifesto" of 1890 in which Mormon leaders outlawed polygamy.

"Get on Relief," Is Advice.

Mrs. Mary Ford Petty, who also identified herself as the former wife of a cult member, testified she heard John Yates Barlow, cult president and also a defendant, "tell us to live polygamously, bring up our children and teach them polygamy. He said for us to get on relief and stay on relief to support our children because that was given by the Lord for polygamous people."

Mrs. Petty said she went thru a "Fundamentalist" marriage rite with Follis Gardner Petty of Pocatello, Idaho, in Salt Lake City, July 7, 1934. Petty was convicted in federal District court of a Mann act charge based on his association with Mrs. Petty but is not a defendant in the present trial.

Tried to Enroll Others.

Mrs. Cosgrove told of efforts of herself and her "sister" wives to persuade others to join. She said she talked to three girl friends about it, introduced them to her husband and said the latter attempted to add them to his household.

She testified that a child was born to her as a result of her "marriage" to Heber Kimball Cleveland, a defendant.

WORKER'S INQUEST DELAYED.

An inquest over Miss Genevieve Nitch, 23, of 6950 Jarvis av., who died while at work in a plant at 7000 McCormick blvd., Tuesday was continued yesterday until Oct. 18 to permit a post-mortem examination.

4 MILLION JOBS TO END AT NAZI DEFEAT—M'NUTT

New York, Sept. 27 (AP).—With the defeat of Germany, 4 million workers will be released from their present jobs, the munitions program will be cut back 40 per cent, and man power controls as a national requirement will not be necessary, Chairman McNutt of the war man power commission said today.

McNutt's statement was read before an industrial relations conference of the American Management association by Lawrence Appley, former deputy man power commissioner.

Calling for "more man power for the must plants," McNutt said 68,000 new employes are needed for explosive and loading plants, 50,000 for ship production and ship repairs, 4,500 for radar production, and 8,700 to make cotton duck.

AIMEE SEMPLE M'PHERSON, 53, DIES IN HOTEL

Evangelist Is Stricken in California.

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 27 [Special].—Aimee Semple McPherson, 53, whose six week disappearance after an ocean swim at Venice, Cal., in 1926 turned the national spotlight on her evangelistic work at her $1,500,000 Angelus temple in Los Angeles, died of heart attack here today after being found unconscious by her maid in her Leamington hotel apartment.

Aimee McPherson.

Mrs. McPherson came here Monday with her son, the Rev. Rolf McPherson, to dedicate a new Foursquare church, where she conducted the first of a series of revival meetings last night.

The attractive Sister Aimee, as she was known by her followers, drew large crowds to her fiery sermons. She was a striking figure standing on the platform with hand upraised, a cross of brilliants on her breast.

Reared in Poverty.

Born Aimee Elizabeth Kennedy on Oct. 9, 1890, near Ingersoll, Ont., she was reared in poverty and a strong religious atmosphere by her mother, the Rev. "Ma" Kennedy, from whom she became estranged in later years. Thrice married and twice divorced, Sister Aimee started her evangelistic work as a missionary in China with her first husband, Robert Semple, who died there.

After returning to Canada with her infant daughter, Roberta, she married Harold McPherson, a grocery employe, in 1913. She divorced him because he disliked life on the revival trail on which she led him. Her son, Rolf, was born on Easter Sunday, 1914.

Two Drowned in Search.

During her disappearance in 1926 more than 20,000 of her followers searched a 100 miles of beach for her body. Two were drowned in the search. Six weeks later, Mrs. McPherson strode out of the Mexican desert near Douglas, Ariz., and startled the nation with a story that she had been kidnaped by a mysterious "Rose" and "Steve" and held prisoner in a desert shack.

She swore to her kidnaping story at a grand jury hearing in Los Angeles, but other witnesses said they had seen her and a man resembling Kenneth G. Ormiston, a radio technician at the temple, in a cottage near Carmel, Cal. She was bound over to the grand jury on charges of perjury, but the case was dropped because the district attorney said some state witnesses were unreliable.

Son to Direct Temple.

Joseph L. Fainer, her lawyer, said her will directs that her son, Rolf, will head the temple. Fainer said, "Mrs. McPherson was not a wealthy woman and probably had less than $4,000 in personal property" altho her fortune had been estimated at a million dollars.

Pending funeral services, Mrs. McPherson's body will lie in state at the temple where hundreds of her followers prayed for her tonight. A temple spokesman said a burial plot has been provided in Forest Lawn Memorial park, Glendale.

GOVERNOR ASKS OPA OFFICIAL FOR APOLOGY TO WIFE

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 27 [Special].—Gov. Simeon Willis declared today in a signed statement that George H. Goodman, OPA director of Louisville, "should apologize to Mrs. Willis for the misleading assertion attributed to him" concerning her use of rationed gasoline.

Goodman, a Democrat, said Monday he believed the wife of the Republican governor had violated gasoline rationing regulations by using the governor's official car for a political campaign tour in western Kentucky last week. She is a national committeewoman.

Gov. Willis said Mrs. Willis did not violate any rule or regulation. He said Goodman himself had officially advised him that rationed gasoline supplied the governor's car does not prevent its use to attend public meetings anywhere in the state and that the governor's family may use the car. The governor alone is responsible for use of the state car, Willis said, and added that "the attempt to involve the name of Mrs. Willis indicates a political move."

Woman Dies in Studio During Radio Program

Mrs. Anna Rensburg, 70, of Prairie City, Ia., died of a heart attack last night in the studio of W-G-N while attending a presentation of "The First Nighter." Dr. Edith B. Farnsworth, 700 N. 'LUCKY' KENYON PROVES IT THRU CRASH AT PARIS

When men of the 8th air force Liberator station in England speak of Lt. Arthur F. Kenyon, 6339 Harper av., Chicago, these days, they call him Lucky Kenyon. Early this month he bought a share in a $1,000 war bond and won it. The next day he won a $500 bond. The third day, Kenyon's bomber was reported missing over France, but in 24 hours the crew was safely back in England.

Almost out of gasoline, Lt. Kenyon had landed on a bomb scarred air strip near Paris. His bomber hit a 500 pound bomb the Germans had rigged as a booby trap. Only the detonating charge exploded, but this threw the plane into a ground loop and cracked the fuselage in three places. As the crew piled out, the plane burst into flames and in a few moments the fuel tanks blew up.

Lt. Kenyon arranged transportation into Paris, where all spent the night sightseeing. In the morning, he hitched a ride for the crew on board a Britain bound transport plane.

1 KILLED, 7 HURT BY EXPLOSION IN INDIANA PIT

Sullivan, Ind., Sept. 27 [Special].—A gas explosion in the New Harmony mine, seven miles east of here, killed one miner tonight, injured seven others, and temporarily trapped some 50 more.

The blast, believed to have been set off by a spark from a motor, occurred shortly after 9 p. m. and was heard several miles away. Rescue crews immediately went to work and brought out the dead, injured, and trapped within an hour and a half. A dozen men, not otherwise injured, became ill from after-gas.

Vincent Barlick,, 46, Linton, was killed. The seven burned and hospitalized were Clifford Woodruff and Earl Frederick, both of Jasonville; Bernard Harrell, Bicknell; James Carty, James Goodwin, and Nolan Reeves, all of Sullivan, and Fred Ford, Shelburn.

French Film Star Dies from Gestapo Torture

PARIS, Sept. 27 (AP).—Harry Bauer, noted French film actor who told the Gestapo "I would rather die standing up than live on my knees," is dead from tortures suffered in 1942, the newspaper Resistance reported today. Bauer, a resistance group leader, was questioned constantly for four months, and his wife was kept for 115 days with her hands tied behind her, the newspaper said. Three other French film figures have reappeared with liberation forces—Producer Raymond Bernard, his brother, Etienne, and Henry Ulmann, Paramount's executive secretary in Paris—after living in foxholes, the paper said.

CITY, AIR LINES READY TO START NEW TERMINAL

Agreed on Finances; to Scan Plans.

Air lines and the city were committed yesterday to an agreement to construct a $1,750,000 terminal at Chicago airport as part of a broad program adequately to prepare the city to take a post-war position as the hub of world air travel.

Mayor Kelly announced, after a conference with Philip M. Willcox, executive vice president of United Air Lines, and Public Works Commissioner Hewitt, that the air lines will lend $1,250,000 without interest to finance the terminal proper, and that the city will contribute $500,000 for accessory improvements.

Will Be City Owned.

Willcox represented the eight major air lines using Chicago airport. The terminal will be owned by the city, and the lines' loan will be repaid in remitted hangar rentals and landing fees. In 1943 these fees amounted to $134,000. They will be greater with increased traffic at the airport after the war.

When original plans for the new terminal were prepared, the Chicago plan commission estimated runways and accessory improvements would cost $500,000. The air lines, which had offered to lend the city $1,250,000, insisted all of their money be spent in terminal construction.

Mayor Kelly said yesterday the city will furnish the additional $500,000, which, he said, will be appropriated in the 1945 budget.

Ready Early in 1946.

Construction of the terminal will be started in the next few months, he said, and it will be in use by early 1946.

Aviation experts predict that the new terminal, which will have facilities for handling a fair weather peak load of 60 landings and 60 take-offs an hour, will suffice for not more than five years after the war.

Gov. Green and the Illinois post-war planning commission's aviation committee are preparing for a large scale expansion of air terminal facilities in Chicago and other cities of the state. Gov. Green has instructed the committee to take every necessary step to develop Chicago as an air center.

An air lines' engineering committee has selected the 1,038 acre Douglas airport near Park Ridge, now owned by the army, as the most practical site for a post-war Chicago air terminal. Favored by many experts as another site would be an island airport on the lake front, contiguous to the loop. The northwest superhighway, first on the list for post-war construction, would serve the Douglas airport.

X-RAY EFFECTIVE IN ENCEPHALITIS, CONFEREES TOLD

An effective treatment of inflammation of the brain—encephalitis—by the use of X-rays was announced yesterday by Dr. U. V. Portmann of Cleveland, O., in a paper prepared for delivery before the joint conference of the American Roentgen Ray society and the Radiological Society of North America.

Recent experiments, Dr. Portmann said, indicate that X-ray therapy produces "immediate and dramatic relief of symptoms" in nearly all the patients tested.

In the Cleveland clinic, Dr. Portmann said, 49 patients were treated by X-ray therapy and all but one showed improvement. Twenty-nine of the patients recovered rapidly.

ANNUAL MALADY COMES BACK TO PLAGUE CHICAGO

A slight, seasonal epidemic of upper respiratory infections, caused by a virus and characterized by coughing, is prevalent in Chicago, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said yesterday.

The malady is accompanied with slight, if any fever, but there is danger that it may become more serious if patients permit themselves to become physically exhausted, Dr. Bundesen said. The infection customarily appears about Oct. 1 and again in January.

Patients should go to bed for at least a day, eat lightly, drink plenty of fruit juices, rest, and relax, Dr. Bundesen advised.

AARON KLINE, NOTED AS CHICAGO PRINCIPAL, IS DEAD IN WISCONSIN

Services for Aaron Kline, 69, former president of the Chicago Principals club, who died unexpectedly Monday night at his farm home near Sturtevant, Wis., will be held today in Fulton, Ind., where he was born. Mr. Kline came to Chicago in 1915, after receiving his A. B. degree from Indiana university and his A. M. degree from the University of Wisconsin, as a teacher of science in the Hyde Park High school. He served as principal of Drake school from 1919 to 1926, and of Pullman school from 1926 to November, 1940, when he retired to farming. He became one of the best known elementary principals in America after his election in 1936 as president of the department of elementary principals, National Education association. He was president of the Chicago Principals club from 1932 to 1934. Surviving are his widow and five sons.

INDICT CHICAGO MAN IN $150,000 LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Paul Morton, 6200 Kenmore av., prohibition era bootlegger and owner of a wholesale liquor concern bearing his name at 612 N. Michigan av., was named in two indictments returned yesterday by the federal grand jury charging sale of liquor at over ceiling prices, at estimated $150,000 profits.

One indictment names Morton alone, while the other includes five other persons in a conspiracy charge. They are Frank Gans, 515 Briar pl.; Joseph M. Harrington, Keokuk, Ia.; Ellis A. Monsour, Vicksburg, Miss.; Francis Pendraud, Detroit, and Russell Trilck of Lincoln Park, Mich.

Assistant United States Atty. Francis J. McGreal said the alleged black market operations covered by the indictments involve 8,920 cases of whisky which brought $150,000 in excess profits.

RETURN NEGRO IN 'SCOTTSBORO CASE' TO PRISON

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 27 (AP).—Clarence Norris, 32 year old Negro and a principal in the "Scottsboro case" of 1931, has been declared "delinquent" and returned to prison after nearly nine months on parole, Alex Smith, chairman of the Alabama pardon-parole board, announced today.

Judge Smith said the board had tried to get him to work, but that when the Negro left his job with a Montgomery lumber firm today he was picked up and returned to prison. He said parole authorities of several states had declined to accept Norris for "residence, employment, and supervision."

Norris originally received a death sentence, which was commuted to life imprisonment. The case grew out of the arrest of nine Negroes accused of raping two white women near Scottsboro in 1931.

PRICE CHARTS ON CLOTHES FOR WOMEN ASKED

All retailers of women's and children's outer garments were ordered yesterday to file price charts in duplicate of their clothing lines with the office of price administration, said Marion W. Isbell, area director. He added the OPA would conduct a school for retailers on the evening of Oct. 4 to each them how to price their goods.

Garment sellers, he said, set their own retail prices by means of percentage markup over their buying costs and on prices prevailing in the fall of 1941. Ceiling prices must be attached to all garments offered for sale.

Isbell said neighborhood meetings will be held after the general meeting if enough stores ask for them.

CONVICT 2 MORE OF MUTINY AT SOUTHERN CAMP

Alexandria, La., Sept. 27 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Louis F. Guerre, commanding officer of Camp Claiborne, announced today that two additional Negro soldiers had been convicted of mutiny charges in connection with a riot on Aug. 17 at the camp, in which a white officer and two Negro enlisted men were wounded. A third Negro, Pvt. William Smith Jr., 29, was acquitted.

Two court-martial convictions were announced yesterday, one defendant receiving the death penalty and the other a life sentence.

Gen. Guerre said T/5 Phillip Davis, 19, Montgomery, Ala., was sentenced to life imprisonment yesterday on a charge of mutinous conduct, and Sgt. Conway Price, 30, Brooklyn, N. Y., was sentenced to nine years at hard labor for failing to attempt to suppress mutiny. Davis was accused of holding two officers prisoner during the outbreak.

COUNCIL BACKS $3,000,000 BONDS FOR LIGHTING

An ordinance authorizing the issuance of three million dollars in bonds for new street lights was approved by unanimous vote of 38 aldermen present at a special meeting of the city council yesterday. It will be submitted to the voters at the election Nov. 7.

"We want to light up every corner in Chicago," Mayor Kelly said in urging passage. There will be less crime with more light, he said, but there will be no politics in their distribution among the wards.

Ald. Bowler [25th], chairman of the city council finance committee, said there is a possibility that the federal government may contribute funds in equal amounts with the city's share for the street lights. He suggested that each alderman make a survey of his ward needs.

CHARGES CIO FORCES BUTTER OFF U.S. TABLES

O'Konski Cites Deal to Aid Oleo Group.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—New Dealers, under pressure from the CIO, are working to take butter off American tables and substitute oleomargarine. This charge was made in a documented speech inserted in the Congressional Record by Rep. O'Konski [R., Wis.].

The Wisconsin representative declared the New Deal, under domination of Sidney Hillman, has controled milk and milk product prices and at the same time manipulated ration points to force people to replace butter with oleo.

"Yes, the evidence in Washington is piled high on how the CIO and the New Dealers are fighting for oleo and destroying the Wisconsin butter industry," he said. "The OPA and the WFA are filled with CIOleo friends. They were all cleared thru Sidney by President Roosevelt.

Only Four Points on Oleo.

"These CIOleo boys and girls put 20 points on butter and only four on oleo. How many people can give up 20 points for a pound of butter? They are forced to buy oleo. That is the scheme and plot to destroy the butter industry."

O'Konski cited testimony of CIO leaders before congressional committees in which they urged the stopping of production of butter all together and that butter be made for 13 and 25 cents a pound.

From the record of hearings of the house small business committee, O'Konski quoted these statements made last June by H. S. Haddock, CIO representative:

"Butter should be rolled back to 25 cents a pound.

Wouldn't Make Any Butter.

"I think this country would be better off if they stopped producing butter all together and I will make this as a positive statement."

Mrs. Eleanor Fowler, secretary and treasurer of the congress of women, CIO auxiliary, testified before a house committee, holding hearings on a bill to regulate production and distribution of margarine, as follows:

"In our convention in September, 1943, we passed a resolution urging the repeal of all taxes on margarine. We had delegates from all over the coun.ry and we were unanimous in the opinion that those taxes should be repealed."

Tax Rather Small.

The federal tax on uncolored oleo is one-quarter of a cent a pound, which is not as backbreaking and outrageous as the New Dealers would have the public believe, O'Konski said. The federal tax on yellow-colored margarine is 10 cents a pound.

Other testimony of CIO spokesmen before the small business committee quoted by O'Konski included:

"Butter should be made for 13 cents a pound.

"The production of butter causes the greatest waste of milk.

"Oleomargarine has a greater food value than butter today."

O'Konski said while the WFA and OPA strictly enforce ceiling prices on butter, the New Dealers refused to place any ceiling price on oleo. Oleo has jumped in price from 12 to 29 cents and the required ration points have been cut from four to two.

"None of the CIO witnesses had any idea how much the farmer would get if butter were made for 13 cents a pound," O'Konski said. "But any person with any amount of brains knows the CIO does not want the Wisconsin dairy farmer to get anything at all. In fact the CIO states that butter should not be produced at all. What they propose to do with the Wisconsin dairy farmers and their families they do not say, but I will bet the Wisconsin dairy farmer will know what to do with the CIOleoers when November comes.

"As long as we have a President who says, 'Clear everything with CIOleo Sidney,' the Wisconsin dairy interests are in danger of losing everything they have. The very fact that Sidney Hillman runs the White House today should make every Wisconsin dairy farmer shake with fright and madness. He has become the New Deal chief adviser. He has become the New Deal chief means of financial support. If he runs the White House now, can any one imagine what will happen if he succeeds in buying this election as he has set out to do?"

DAY by DAY on the FARM

By BEN MARKLAND

Sept. 27, 1944.

THE person who would become a mushroom gatherer automatically assumes the task of learning to identify the mushrooms that are poisonous. This isn't a difficult task, because few mushrooms have poisonous qualities.

Dr. Verne O. Graham, mushroom authority who recently surveyed the fungus growth in two of the woodlots on the Wheaton farm, says that only 1 per cent of all mushroom species in the Great Lakes area are poisonous. The other 99 per cent are nonpoisonous, but many, of course, have a woody or shell-like texture that renders them nonpalatable.

The deadly amanita, more often called the "death cup."

Two common mushrooms in the Chicago area that are poisonous are the Jack o' Lantern and the deadly amanita [sometimes called death cup mushroom].

Two Poisonous Species.

The Jack o'Lantern is easily identified, because it is a brilliantly colored orange-yellow mushroom that grows in clusters around old tree stumps from July to November. This species is large, reaching a diameter of eight inches on 10 inch stems.

The amanita is an attractive mushroom, but is poisonous. It grows in oak and hickory woodlots in this area from May to October, and can be identified by the wide "skirt" around its stem and the round cup from which the stem emerges at ground level. It always grows singly, not in clusters, and always on the ground. The height of the stem is five to 10 inches. The cap usually is white, but may be smoky, olive, or dull yellow, and the fragile gills on the underside of the cap always are white.

Remember This Rule.

An easily remembered rule about mushroom edibility is that any mushroom growing on deciduous trees or tree stumps [not evergreen trees] is nonpoisonous, the only exception in this area being the Jack o' Lantern. Not all tree growing mushrooms are palatable, however.

One of the most delicious tree growing mushrooms is the sulphur bracket, which develops from the bark of oak trees or oak stumps. It is easily identified by its brilliant sulphur-yellow color. When cut into cubes, breaded, and fried in bacon grease, this mushroom tastes much like breast of chicken.

★The GARDEN★

THE difficulty that city gardeners meet in getting animal manure for use in conditioning clay soils makes it necessary to turn to manure substitutes to break up heavy clay.

Horse or cow manure is the best material for lightening and fertilizing clay soils, but, if they are not available, such substances as sand, wood ashes, compost material, or finely screened coal ashes may be used. Fine sawdust also breaks up heavy clay, but should be used on a limited scale.

Sand and wood ashes are the two most common manure substitutes. Sand, of course, has no value for fertilization, whereas fine wood ashes contain enough potash to be valuable. Using either material, apply to a depth of about an inch before fall spading, then incorporate into the topsoil.

FOUR NEW POLIO CASES IN CITY, ONE IN COUNTY

Four new cases of infantile paralysis, bringing the total for this year to 121, were reported in Chicago yesterday for the 24 hour period ending at 9 a. m. Last year, 786 cases had been reported in the city to Sept. 27, with 78 deaths, compared with six deaths this year. A 3 year old girl in Oak Lawn also was reported to be an infantile paralysis patient yesterday. There have been 66 cases and three deaths this year in the county outside the city.

COURT ENJOINS WAR PLANT IN NLRB ELECTION

Servel, Inc., refrigerator manufacturer at Evansville, Ind., now converted to production of airplane wings and other war material, was enjoined yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals from interfering with a national labor relations board election today to determine a bargaining agent for company employes. The CIO Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers are seeking a closed shop.

Sept. 12, a previously ordered election was stopped by an NLRB agent in midday after 4,100 of Servel's 5,500 eligibles had voted. The CIO then charged the company distributed printed matter urging employes to vote against the union and used coercion. Another charge of the CIO was that the company permitted workers to vote on company time.

Arguing the case Tuesday, Isador Kahn, counsel for Servel, said the CIO contended employes should have been permitted to vote only before or after working hours. Kahn said the company was interested in seeing that all workers were permitted to vote and that the CIO did not jam the polls and permit only union members to cast ballots.

Statesman . . . orator . . . defender of the Union . . . Daniel Webster profoundly influenced the youthful Lincoln; and through him the whole future history of America.

READING powered his Fight to save the NATION!

He was a big man, was Daniel Webster! When he stood up to speak, the Stars and Stripes came right out in the heavens. Why, even after he was buried—they'll tell you—you could still hear the deep boom of his voice rolling out the immortal question: "How stands the Union?"

Yet, as a lad on the New Hampshire farm where he was born, Daniel was the delicate member of his rugged family. His footsteps lagged in the furrowed fields. His mind lay fallow, thirsting for knowledge. He had a passion for books. And with his wise father guiding his footsteps, Daniel read and read far into the night . . . reading by candlelight . . . beginning with the Bible . . . remembering it word for word.

"I cannot recollect a time I could not read," he said. "We had so few books that to read them once or twice was nothing. We thought they were all to be got by heart."

Thus, his great fount of knowledge sprang from books. His eyes, poring over the printed page, etched ideas and information forever upon his mind.

This information, these ideas, were the rich soil from which sprang his great orations in defense of the Union . . . orations which had a lasting influence upon the youthful Lincoln, and through him upon the whole future history of America.

READING has been a dominant factor in the growth of most of the leading figures of history. Knowledge is power . . . and reading is the richest and most fertile source of knowledge.

Only through the unhurried eye of the reader can ideas and information be absorbed completely, in detail. When you read, you can set your own pace . . . go back and read again . . . make notes . . . mark passages . . . stop and think. Reading is not yours for a fleeting instant only. It is yours for all time.

This richly-rewarding experience is provided by The American Weekly. For in its pages, life as we live it is vividly portrayed . . . a moving panorama of human struggle and achievement, love and sacrifice, heartbreak, and triumph . . . the march of science . . . the hopeful advances of medicine . . . the power and beauty of literature, art, religion.

The articles in The American Weekly are read in more than 7,750,000 homes from coast to coast. And because they are so clear, authoritative, and stimulating, they also are used widely in the classrooms of schools and colleges throughout the United States.

The American Weekly is a constant companion and inspiration to millions of Americans . . . Who can doubt that the manufacturer who associates his product or his company with such an influence is tying in with the greatest force known in advertising?

K. of C. Urged to Aid World Peace Program

The Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, appealed last night to Knights of Columbus councils of the archdiocese to dedicate themselves to popularizing the postwar world peace plan of his holiness, Pope Pius XII.

Speaking before 300 council leaders and chaplains in the Hotel Sherman, Archbishop Stritch asserted that it may be impossible to stamp out war entirely, but he expressed the belief that there may be perfected a device that can prevent another world war; that such wars as do flame up may be localized and shortened.

"Why can't we make laws among nations?" he asked. "Why can't we see that a pirate nation is restrained before it can begin its piracy?"

We are not entirely at peace, even in our civil life, the archbishop continued. There were times when a state of anarchy was common and each man was called upon to defend himself. This state now largely has passed and the "wars" of civil life are confined to clashes between the police and outlaws, he said.

He asked that each K. of C. council resolve itself into a popular university to acquaint its members with the provisions of the pope's plan.

The archbishop advocated lectures and discussions in all councils, so that the members may be equipped to acquaint the general public with the principal points of the plan. In this work, he said, the council chaplains have a special responsibility.

"The Knights of Columbus always have maintained the stand for the preservation of Christian civilization," said the Most Rev. Stritch. "Christian civilization now stands at the crossroads. Now is the time the Knights of Columbus may do something toward its perpetuation.

"I ask that you think and work and fret about what you can do toward creating a right public opinion in the reconstruction period that will follow the war."

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Capt. Dorothy C. Stratton, national director of the Coast Guard women's reserve, announced yesterday in Washington, D. C., that under present plans SPAR recruiting will be completed, except for replacements and special needs, when the reserve observes its second anniversary on Nov. 23. Recruiting will continue for women qualified to train as radio technicians, pharmacists' mates, and cooks and bakers. Coast Guardsmen needed for overseas duty still are filling such billets ashore because not enough SPARS have been recruited for replacements.

Capt. Stratton.

Capt. Stratton said that as soon as the President has signed the bill authorizing women in naval reserve units to serve in the American area, Hawaii, and Alaska, consideration will be given to necessary housing needed in Hawaii. Housing already is available for 300 SPARS in Alaska. The bill provides that only SPARS, WAVES, and marine corps women reservists who volunteer may be assigned to such stations outside the continental United States.

Eight Chicago SPARS were in the class of 90 pharmacists' mates which was graduated on Sept. 23 from the college of pharmacy of Columbia university. The women were the only pharmacy students in uniform at the school.

Now rated as pharmacist's mate 3d class are Ruth A. Hume, 1235 Chestnut st.; Mary M. Meegan, 7727 Loomis blvd.; Mary L. Pulliam, 5833 Trumbull av.; Faye E. Rivkin, 904 Gunnison st.; Margaret Woodruff, 6329 S. Ashland av.; Beatrice Zivin, 1809 E. 71st st., and Claire U. Drury, 6972 Wayne av.

Thirty new WAC recruits, several of whom will be assigned to duty in the medical corps, a branch of the army now conducting a concerted WAC procurement campaign, left Chicago yesterday to take basic training at Fort Des Moines, Ia.

Mrs. Hilda Runyan, 1063 North Shore dr., expects to be assigned as a laboratory technician in an army hospital when she leaves Fort Des Moines. "I always have liked laboratory work," she said, "and when I learned that the WAC needed technicians I joined."

Another Chicagoan who will report to a medical technician school is Mrs. Marie Antoinette Aller, 7526 Seeley av., whose son is in the army.

Others in the contingent who have specified medical assignments are Rose Piampiano, 2418 Wentworth av.; Barbara Wigell, 5124 Cornell av.; Clara F. Gadberry, 1111 Grant st., Danville; Elfred A. Ransome, 5130 Dorchester av., and Catherine E. Roth, 7850 Jeffrey av.

WAC Pvt. Clarice Sorenson of Chicago and Roslyn, S. D., whose brother, Sgt. Henry Sorenson, was killed in action in Italy and received the Purple Heart posthumously, now is in basic training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. It was to replace him in service, she said, that she enlisted. She has not stated a preference for any one of the 239 different jobs the WACs are trained to do.

Before enlisting, Pvt. Sorenson was employed as a stenographer by the signal corps price adjustment section in Chicago, and at one time she was a booking clerk for Burton Holmes Films, Inc., here.

Film 'Casanova Brown' Will Be Talked About

"CASANOVA BROWN."

An International picture, directed by Sam Wood, starring Gary Cooper and Teresa Wright, with Frank Morgan, Anita Louise, Patricia Collinge, Edmond Breon, and Jill Esmond, and presented at the Woods.

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

About two-thirds of the way, "Casanova Brown" is capricious comedy, highly engaging even at the preposterous hour of the morning when, as I find to my dismay, movie critics do their chores. The other third bogs down from the droll to the dubious and needs authentic pixilation to recapture the master touch. But it's a picture people are going to talk about, with an essentially beguiling story, some deft direction, and a hand picked cast.

Unless my memory has gone back on me completely, the Thomas Mitchell-Floyd Dell play adapted by Nunnally Johnson was "Little Accident," a charmer a dozen or more years ago. In its screen guise it concerns Gary Cooper, lanky professor of literature forced by circumstances quite beyond his control to emulate his namesake ancestor, tho often on a more domestic plane. Mr. Cooper finds himself involved not only in an astrological elopement and the threat of what I can only describe as trigamy, but also in arson, kidnaping, and baby formulas, and takes them all in his long stride, tho the formulas really cause him quite a lot of trouble.

Men with deep creases in their faces find it easy to look whimsical, and Mr. Cooper practically has the expression copyrighted. Most of the time he is expert in the best Cooper tradition, but when he stands before the hospital baby cage and realizes that that waggling mite actually is his daughter, he isn't a tradition at all, but an actor. A good one.

Speaking of actors, and enchanting personalities to boot, I can't ignore Frank Morgan another second. As a dastard who robs babies' banks and cheats at cards [his scenes with Edmond Breon rival memories of the cricket fans in "The Lady Vanishes"], he is an old smoothie, but as a burnt man who tries to keep Casanova Cooper from marrying his daughter because he knows her mother, he deserves a public monument.

Teresa Wright does a cleancut job as the girl Casanova marries in haste, and Anita Louise is one of those firm females as the one he almost marries at leisure. If you saw Patricia Collinge in "The Little Foxes" you know exactly how she plays the mother whose addiction to the stars upsets a wedding.

The best of Sam Wood's direction is its casual, expert approach to the cream of the story. Too bad it lacks the imaginative skill to fool you about the skimmed milk.

Miss Carol Dale Lundquist.

Miss Carol Dale Lundquist's marriage to Pvt. George P. Allendorph Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Allendorph of Chicago, will take place Saturday. Miss Lundquist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence P. Lundquist of Edgebrook, was graduated from North Park academy and attended Northwestern university. Her fiance, a graduate of Howe Military school, was a junior in the engineering school of Purdue university when he entered service.

'Golden Gate in '48' Is Motto of Pacific Yanks, Nurse Says

Lt. Mildred Schuler is visiting friends in Chicago while on sick leave from Winter General hospital at Topeka, Kas., after serving 15 months in the Southwest Pacific as an army nurse.

Lt. Mildred Schuler.

Lt. Schuler entered the army nursing corps two years ago, leaving the staff of Chicago State hospital. Most of her time overseas was in a hospital for psycho-neurotic patients in New Guinea. She reported 60 per cent of the patients in the New Guinea area were mental and that the army expects to make a record of 90 per cent recoveries.

Soldiers in the South and Southwest Pacific have no illusions about an early ending of their task, Lt. Schuler said. The motto there is "The Golden Gate in '48," and few expect the Pacific war to end in less than two years. Heat and rain are the two great discomforts, but a daily letter from home will go far to overcome both, she said.

Lt. Schuler discounted reports that dehydrated food will be popular in post-war days. While it has saved much shipping space, it has defied every effort to make it palatable, she said.

Try to Guard the Energy of Spirited Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

(Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

I have a thoughtful letter from a reader whose two children play happily together and who present no real problem at all in their behavior. The older little girl of 7 is "active, interesting, brilliant, and original." The younger one is much calmer and more easy going.

Now this older child is so full of energy and spirits, so full of ideas and the desire to put them into action that she never lets herself give up. In fact, she is probably like many children of this sort, in that she doesn't even sense that she is tired. This mother is a little disturbed because of the great activity of her little girl and doesn't find it easy to get her to take a nap.

At 7 the daily nap, as a routine thing, is usually discontinued. But a child of this temperament almost always needs to have her energy safeguarded, and it frequently taxes the ingenuity of a mother to accomplish this.

To begin with, I think ordinarily it's best not to struggle to get them to actually go to sleep. They usually can't do so and the effort sometimes produces tension all around. Instead, the mother might try two short rest periods during the day. She will have to space them to fit her child's daily activities. I myself found that a before-supper bath was so relaxing that often a child would be willing to lie down for a half hour after bathing.

When it isn't possible to accomplish two actual rest periods, a time of quiet occupation that doesn't involve much physical effort often will serve as a rest period.

Another suggestion is to try to lengthen the night's sleep at one end or the other. At the age of about 7 our children are, alas! always up bright and early in the morning, so it would be necessary to tack on the extra hour or half hour at the beginning of the night's sleep.

Even tho additional rest for the child who is active mentally and physically takes a lot of doing, a mother will feel herself amply repaid when she sees the increased poise of her child, and frequently a slight gain in weight.

Six U. of C. Faculty Members to Retire, Hutchins Announces

President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago yesterday announced the retirement of six faculty members, effective Oct. 1, all with emeritus rank. Harry O. Gillet, elementary school principal whose association with the laboratory schools dates back to his appointment 44 years ago by John Dewey, has the oldest service record.

Other faculty members retiring include Chester W. Wright, professor of economics, after 37 years' service; Edson S. Bastin, chairman of the department of geology and paleontology, 24 years; C. A. Shull, professor of plant physiology, 23 years; Miss Josette E. Spink of the laboratory schools, 37 years; and O. D. Frank of the laboratory schools, 23 years.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 27.—Bob Benchley gets the best comedy role of his life in "Week End at the Waldorf." He'll play a sort of male Elsa Maxwell, who lives at the hotel with his scotty dog, and wonders what's going to happen when her pups arrive, and whether Mrs. Boomer will be put out if they're born on her best bedspread. Metro brought Bob to the screen in shorts, the first one being "Treasurer's Report." I'm happy to say I was in the old Majestic hotel in New York, sitting between Alex Woollcott and Heywood Broun, when Bob first did that monolog. It wowed us then, and has every time he's repeated it. . . . Mona Maris is off to do her winter shopping in Dallas, Tex. Seems there's a new romance down there. . . . Dan Duryea will heckle Gregory Peck in "Valley of Decision." And when it comes to heckling, Duryea's one of the best in the all-time low variety. . . . Natalie Visart is designing a fall wardrobe for Myrna Loy. Could it be another trousseau? . . . Producer Everett Riskin, after seeing Myrna in a preview of "Thin Man Goes Home," has nicknamed her "flirty."

We'll Find Out for Sure.

I'm wondering if John Hodiak, dressed in uniform, will have the same sex appeal in "Bell for Adano" as he had in "Lifeboat" undressed. He sure has it bad for Anne Baxter, and vice versa. . . . Hedy Lamarr's going to be operated on, but her neck has nothing to do with it. . . . Ernest Lubitsch will try his hand at straight drama with nary a light comedy touch, when he does "Typhoon." He's signed a father-son writing team to do the script—Melchoir and Thomas Lengyel. It's too bad the late Walker Whiteside, who did "Typhoon" on the stage, can't do the picture. He was pretty wonderful. . . . Sonny Dunham was here with his orchestra for eight weeks and wanted to do a picture so badly. Now he's in St. Louis starting a six months' tour, and Columbia wants him for two pictures. . . . Judy Canova's family trouble is all ironed out. She goes back on the air, her brother does not go on with her, nor will he be paid a huge sum to manage her. Judy is on her own. . . . Stephen Laird from Time magazine joins RKO as producer. He's a personable Swarthmore graduate. . . . Lou Smith's doctors report his hearing will be perfect. As a matter of fact, Lou is doing a story about Dr. Julius Lempert for a leading magazine.

What Do You Think About It?

Hoagy Carmichael takes issue with those who think this war hasn't produced any great songs, as the last one did. Hoagy claims our boys know what they're fighting for and don't need to be told. In their songs they want to be reminded of home and sweethearts. He thinks "White Cliffs of Dover," "White Christmas," "Praise the Lord" and the air corps song will live as long as George M. Cohan's "Over There." Sorry, Hoagy, I won't be here to check up on you in the next war. . . . Letters are still coming to my desk from irate church members, claiming too many pictures are being made about Catholics. Well, Jim McGuinness of Metro tells me his studio will pay $125,000 for any good story based on any other religion. . . . Lt. Bob Taylor and Louis de Rochemont did the cutting and narrating on shots taken in the South Pacific called "Fighting Lady." I'm told it's one of the best. . . . Billy Gilbert asked a G. I. how he liked his top sergeant. "Well," said the lad, "he's so hard, I'm sure he wasn't born—he was quarried." . . . Ben Blue, home from a USO trip overseas with Ann Sheridan, reports the absentee problem in Berlin is acute. Every day more factories fail to show up for work.

It Would Be Confusing.

The Alan Ladds took their 17 months' old Alana into a projection room to see Alan on the screen. She looked at him on the screen, then turned her head and saw him beside her, put out her hand to touch him, and said, "Daddy here!" She has such a passion for earrings her mother lets her wear white enameled pansy ones. . . . The Leigh Battsons give out with a cocktail party Saturday for Mr. Jouett Todd, young Republican national treasurer. . . . Mervyn LeRoy got a scroll sent by Bengal film journalists from Calcutta, India, picking him as the director of the year. They have just caught up with "Random Harvest." . . . Peggy Ann Garner's father, Lt. William Garner, of army intelligence, is here visiting her for 10 days. He asked Peggy what she'd like most to do. She said, "see horror pictures." And that's what they're doing. . . . So they can "remain friends" as she put it in a personal note to me, Constance Bennett and Gilbert Roland have decided to make their separation permanent.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 heart	2 diamonds	2 hearts
2 spades	3 hearts	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

That an opening lead cannot be well selected by merely examining your 13 cards has been pointed out before. Hands have many times been submitted to me with the question, "What do you lead against a final contract of four hearts?" I always feel obliged to answer, "I don't know, unless you tell me how the bidding progressed. What might be the best lead under some circumstances could easily be the worst under others."

In today's hand, had the bidding indicated that East was probably short in hearts, then the lead of the ace and another would be sound with the hope of giving partner a ruff, if not immediately, then at a subsequent time when West regains the lead with the ace of trumps.

With the bidding as it actually took place, one player elected to lead the singleton club, expecting to put partner in by underleading the ace of hearts in order to obtain a club ruff. This did not succeed because declarer took the ace of clubs and immediately started on the trumps.

All things considered the best lead is the diamond because partner almost surely has no more than a singleton in that suit. South has opened with a Diamond, indicating that he has at least four of the suit. North has given an immediate free raise, showing very probable four trumps, which leaves East with only one if any.

Against a diamond lead declarer won the opening lead and immediately drove out the ace of spades. West continued with a diamond and East ruffed. He then put partner in with the ace of hearts and obtained another ruff. There was no way to prevent his scoring with the king of clubs for a two trick set.

Notice that the diamond opening permits West to change his mind subsequently and try for a club ruff, if from the appearance of the dummy he concludes that East may have the ace of clubs.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

Two Chicago Societies Plan New Exhibits to Open Season

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE CHICAGO HISTORICAL SOCIETY and the Renaissance society are opening the season with new exhibits. Replacing the bridal gowns which have been on view all summer at the Historical society is a costume exhibit of fall suits worn during the early 1900s by prominent women, and supplemented by two cases of contemporary accessories, plumed hats, fancy hose, gloves, hankies, purses, shoes, etc., and a case of unusually lovely old jewelry.

The first indication of the present popular jumper is seen in a black satin girdle with cross shoulder straps that was worn with a Parisian suit of black broadcloth by the late Miss Marie Rozet in 1906. Two suits from the trousseau of Mrs. Howard Linn, and others from the wardrobes of the late Mrs. E. F. Lawrence and the late Mrs. Charles H. Starkweather are included among the costumes, which will go on display Sunday.

"New Names in American Art," an exhibition of paintings and sculpture by American Negro artists, will open the Renaissance season Friday evening next week in the galleries of Goodspeed hall, 1010 E. 59th st. Members and guests have been invited to a reception at 8 p. m., during which Daniel Catton Rich, director of fine arts of the Art institute of Chicago, will discuss the exhibition.

Mrs. Ralph A. Beals, secretary and chairman of the social committee of the society, is in charge of the reception, assisted by Mrs. Dallas B. Phemister, Mrs. Henry Gordon Gale, Mrs. Ralph B. Bettman, Mrs. Robert Redfield, Mrs. John U. Nef, and Mrs. Ulrich Middledorf. The exhibit will be open to the public without charge from Oct. 7 thru Oct. 30.

Here and There.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Boal [Susan Ballard] are being congratulated on the birth of their second son, Ellis Ballard, yesterday at the Evanston hospital. The baby and his little brother, Stewart Jr., are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Boal and of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard. Tiny Ellis was named for his uncle, Lt. [j. g.] Ellis A. Ballard, who is serving in the Pacific.

Mrs. Boal's sisters, Mrs. Frank F. Fowle Jr. and Mrs. John H. Hobart, also have become mothers recently. Mrs. Fowle is in Washington, D. C., now with Lt. Fowle of the navy, looking for a house which will accommodate them and their three daughters, Lisa, and the twins, Susan and Margaret, who were born July 10. Lt. and Mrs. Hobart's son, Ralph, arrived Aug. 6 in Bronxville, N. Y.

The hat fashion show party that the board of the North Avenue Day nursery gave recently to raise funds netted $2,400, it has been announced. Mrs. John Q. Adams is president of the nursery board.

Chicago's ballet enthusiasts will be out in force for the opening of the Ballet Russe in a limited engagement tonight at the Civic Opera house. Mrs. Wentworth Field has taken tickets for virtually every performance, as is her custom. Mrs. Moise Dreyfus also will be among the first night guests, and Mrs. Howard Willett is entertaining at the ballet tomorrow night.

On the Calendar.

North Shore residents are looking forward to the evening of Oct. 10 when Louis Bromfield, author-farmer, will speak at the New Trier High school auditorium under the auspices of the Woman's Republican Club of New Trier. While here Mr. Bromfield will be staying with some old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Stark, in their attractive Winnetka home. Mrs. William A. Osgood is president of the club, whose directors include among others Mrs. Roland D. Wood, program chairman; Mrs. Arch Shaw, Mrs. Howard Phillips, and Mrs. Bruce MacLeish.

"The Consequences of Dumbarton Oaks" will be discussed by Sen. Joseph H. Ball, Republican senator from Minnesota, before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at 12:15 p. m. today in the mural room of the Morrison hotel. At the speakers' table with Sen. and Mrs. Ball and Walter T. Fisher, new president of the council, and Mrs. Fisher, will be Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Stein Jr., the Frederick A. Prestons, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mr. and Mrs. Armin Elmendorf, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Englund, the Warren Shoemakers, the William McCormick Blairs, and Mr. and Mrs. William Boyden.

Members of the council will meet again at 12:15 p. m. Monday in the Grand ballroom of the La Salle hotel to hear David Nichol, foreign correspondent, give a luncheon address on "Where Russia Stands."

Wedding.

Mrs. Jane Sailer of New York became the bride of Mr. R. Miles Warner, formerly of Chicago and Winnetka and now of New York, in a colorful ceremony in Taxco, Mexico, Monday. The event was done in the Mexican tradition. Mrs. Warner was attired in a Mexican peasant skirt and blouse and wore white jasmine flowers in her hair. The room where the marriage was solemnized was lighted with tall, white tapers and decorated in white jasmine and red bougainvillea.

The wedding was the culmination of a romance that began in the west. Following the wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Warner will reside in Connecticut.

From Washington, D. C., comes news of the marriage Sept. 14 of Henry Louis Dollard Jr. of the naval reserve, son of Mrs. Bocock Dollard of Tucson, Ariz., and of Capt. Henry L. Dollard, medical corps, U. S. N., of Lake Forest, and Miss Dawn-Louise Irving. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. George Washington Irving and the late state senator from Massachusetts. The ceremony took place at 11 a. m. in the Bethlehem chapel of the National cathedral in Washington, the Rev. Raymond L. Wolden officiating.

Miss Beth Louise Drake of Washington attended the bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Irving Jr. Another brother, Irving D. Irving, was best man. The bride, a graduate of George Washington university, had been an editorial assistant in the state department. Mr. Dollard, who attended Lake Forest college, and his bride are at home in Massachusetts, where he is in training. He has a brother, Lt. John Dollard, of the navy.

Engagements.

Mr. and Mrs. Moe Goldstein of Winnetka announce the engagement of their daughter, Dulcy, to Ensign Malcolm Paul Steinlauf of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steinlauf of Beverly Hills, Cal. Miss Goldstein attended Grinnell college and Northwestern university. Her fiancé, who studied at the University of California in Los Angeles, is stationed in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund R. Goldberg of Hyde Park blvd. announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie, to Corp. Ralph Loewenstein of the army air forces, son of Milton Loewenstein of St. Louis, Mo., and of Mrs. Jean Fritchman of Springfield, Ill. Miss Goldberg and her fiancé both attended the University of Illinois, and she will receive her degree from the University of Chicago in December. Corp. Loewenstein is stationed in Tallahassee, Fla.

Black and White Combined in Stunning Costume

New black with white costume consists of a slim, dull black suit, topped with one of the newest shorter length black coats. The stunning lining of the coat is of white moire patterned caracul fur, as are the wide cuffs and collar. High hat is of black satin. The complete costume is available in a Chicago shop. Use of Black and White Puts Zip in Fashion

BY REA SEEGER.

With lavish use of color getting the fashion spotlight, black and white combinations make impressive showings just by contrast. This classic team of black with white is still one of the smartest ensemble ideas designed for sophisticated women, women who always have worn such costumes with marked distinction. Such costumes usually consist of a dull black suit or a dress and companion coat of dull black wool.

White accents are managed with skill and control this year. The combinations are remarkably smooth. The white contrasts are executed with artistic and pleasing restraint.

White fur is the favored white accent, in demure little round turnover collars and in narrow cuffs. Of course the smartest and most effective furs are snowy white ermine and the moire patterned white caracul. Fluffy white fox gets a break occasionally, but only for gala evening ensembles.

Short and long coats are lined with white caracul, a fur as supple as heavy satin, as beautifully marked as moire, and almost as thin as crepe. Coat or jacket linings of this fur assure slender looking coats, seemingly all fabric and minus the bulk of thick fur.

Black short jacket suits designed for afternoon and informal dinner and theater wear boast cuffs and collars of ermine or caracul. Among the suits in this dramatic contrast are the new "little princess" models for the junior miss or deb. Completed with a black hat trimmed with white fur, a dink or small beret of white fur, they are the traditional outfits for parties. Gloves with white ermine tails, white fur ascots to tuck into the neckline and small round ermine or white caracul muffs, complete the perfect details of the new flawless black and white costumes.

Thru the Looking Glass

NEW YORK.—In fashions and its inseparable handmaiden, the cosmetic industry, there is a definite and a new 1944-1945 trend. It's toward the lush and the opulent.

"War time simplicity," the keynote for the last couple of years, is a phrase fashion and beauty copy writers apparently won't be using any more. What looms ahead, what in fact is present on the fashion horizon is its exact opposite. Opulent evening clothes are sneaking back and all other types lean frankly toward the fabulous. Beading and sequins give glitter to gowns; hats are lavish and hard to wear, furs are scrumptious.

Where the money comes from or whether this violent swerve to the costly and the fussy is in good taste we wouldn't know. All we know is that things in the fashion world are looking awfully lush.

The beauty world reflects it, too. Coiffures, with an exception for very young girls, are highly stylized. Pompadours, despite the fact that pictures reveal they are widely worn in Paris, are anathema to the chic stylists. [Some of the stylists are pretty annoyed at Paris on this score, but put it down to that center's isolation from the rest of the world for the last several years!] The small, neat headline, usually with a chignon arrangement in back, is a high style of complex simplicity.

Eye makeup, perhaps because the clear brow and smooth crown lines give eyes a new importance as a facial focal point, is more widely and more artfully used than ever before. Then, too, there are many chic European and South American women in New York who appear to have considerable influence on fashion. They use eye makeup automatically as the average American woman uses lipstick. In our opinion, their presence has done much to give an impetus to the more extensive use of eye makeup evident here and that will, undoubtedly, be reflected everywhere in a short time.

Added Fashion Show Arouses Great Interest

The announcement that a fifth presentation of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's 1944 American Fashions show had been scheduled for 8:30 p. m. next Wednesday, Oct. 4, brought a flood of telephone calls yesterday to the office of the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., where tickets are handled.

The fifth showing was added to accommodate hundreds who failed to obtain seats when the four presentations originally planned for the afternoons and evenings of Oct. 5 and 6 proved early sellouts. Like the Thursday and Friday matinee and evening showings, the fifth presentation will be in the W-G-N studio theater. The tickets are $2.

Since the time is short and the demand heavy, persons wishing to see the fashions modeled are advised to telephone the ticket office, Superior 0100, extension 530, to make reservations and mail their money orders later. Checks should be made out to American Fashions, Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., 435 N. Michigan av., Chicago, 11, Ill.

The Wednesday night audience will see the same show given on Thursday and Friday and will participate in the voting for the grand prizes. There will be 37 creations worn by 11 top ranking models. The costumes, selections from drawings submitted by scores of fashion artists from all over the country, include coats, suits, and dresses for day time wear along with floor length evening gowns. There will be one wedding ensemble.

The 37 designs in the show won their entrants a selections prize of $50. The audience will choose winners of the grand prizes, $2,000 for first place, $1,000 for second, and $500 for third.

Before the added presentation of the fashion event was planned several hundred money orders for tickets were returned to senders. Those who had checks returned should mention that fact when asking for new tickets. Their orders will be given attention first.

G. I. Bill Pays Way at Northwestern for 150 Veterans of War

Northwestern university officials announced yesterday that 150 discharged veterans had enrolled in classes under the service men's readjustment act of 1944, which defrays expenses of education.

Among the enrollees are two women, Miss Ethel England, 6132 Paulina st., a discharged WAVE, and Miss Wilberta Wyant, 4331 Drexel blvd., discharged from the WAC. Another student enrolled under the "G. I. bill or rights" is former Lt. Calhoun Vestal, 23, of Whitewright, Tex., a wounded marine veteran of Guadalcanal who wore six campaign ribbons and holds the Presidential unit citation.

Registration figures indicated that enrollment at the university is approaching peace time levels and has soared 9 per cent over last fall's enrollment. Civilian registration this year was 5,152. There also are 1,050 navy V-12 students.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Wolves.

The business world seems full of guys
Forever making soulful eyes
At every girl they chance to meet!
They pat her hand and call her sweet,
They fill her ears with a smoothie line
And coax her out to dance and dine,
It's such a shame; it's such a bore
To fend advances by the score
From charming wolves who flirt—O, gee,
I wish that one would howl at me!

IDEE.

Initiative.

Apropos of the suggestion that older WCGs tell younger ones of valuable experience:

One of our junior executives was ill for about seven weeks and he specifically asked that his stenographer take over his job during his absence. As the stenographer had been with the firm only three months at that time it was rather surprising. The other day, when he returned, he found his work almost altogether up to date and in good condition. I made a point of asking him why he had chosen the new stenographer when there were at least a dozen available who have been with the firm more than five years. His answer was: "Another girl would have done just so much and not tried to do more; she would have done just the amount she was paid to do. I knew this beginner would do all she could, regardless of pay." Further conversation revealed that the girl who took over his work volunteered to take OPA forms home to work on, in order to help the boss catch up with his work.

That's one youngster who is in line for promotion—and soon—because she has initiative and ability, and the good sense to use it.

WANDA, THE OFFICE MANAGER.

Help Wanted.

How can you cure the WCG in an office who talks of nothing but "Junior's" doings and sayings of the most trivial nature? We all have—and love—children, but somehow, no matter what the subject, Junior comes up the winner. Is there any office remedy for the children's hour? MEAN PEOPLE.

Word Study.

Considering changed-by-time words, how about let? Chaucer used it synonymously with delay. Shakespeare makes Hamlet exclaim: "Unhand me, gentlemen; by heaven, I'll make a ghost out of him who lets me." Today the meaning of let is antithetical. For example: "We hope that fate lets the Cubs retain fourth place," or "THE TRIBUNE lets us air our views in the White Collar Girl column." ELOISE R.

Party Leaders Ask Women to Exercise Voting Right Nov. 7

New York, Sept. 27 (AP).—Women leaders of the two major parties today called on American women to exercise their franchise Nov. 7 when their potential voting strength will exceed that of men by an estimated 600,000 ballots.

In an address prepared for broadcast over the Mutual Broadcasting system, Mrs. Charles W. Tillett, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Miss Marion F. Martin, assistant chairman of the Republican national committee, charged women with the responsibility to exercise their voting right.

Commenting that in the last Presidential election approximately 15,000,000 eligible women failed to vote, Mrs. Tillett said: "This year that just must not happen. This year, with our men fighting on waters and lands whose names most of us had not even heard four years ago, we must prove that we believe in the fundamental processes they are fighting to preserve. This year, we, the women of America, must vote."

Miss Martin asserted that in the forthcoming election women face "their most challenging test since they won their battle for suffrage over a quarter of a century ago."

'The Key'

By Patricia Wentworth

(Copyright: 1944: By Patricia Wentworth Trumbull.)

INSTALMENT X.

FOUR KEYS.

Garth became aware that Bush was giving his evidence, for it was Janice's name that had caught Garth's attention.

"Miss Janice, she came knocking at the door. I come down, and she said she was afraid of Mr. Harsch being taken ill in the church, and would I bring my key and come along over. So I come. And there he was, poor gentleman, fallen down and dead, and the pistol lying a matter of six inches from his hand like as if it had dropped when he fell. And Miss Janice, she said, 'O, Mr. Harsch!' and took him by the hand. And I took hold of the torch and held it up, and I said, 'It's no good, miss—he's dead.'"

"You did not touch the pistol or move it in any way?"

"There wasn't anything touched, sir, except that Miss Janice she had hold of his hand and she put her other hand on his wrist to feel for his pulse."

"You are sure that the pistol wasn't moved at all?"

"Yes, sir."

"You have a key to the church?"

"Yes, sir. I'm sexton and verger."

"What other keys are there?"

"The old rector, he had three. The one I've got is the one my father had before me."

"That would be one of the three?"

"No, sir. There were four keys in all. The rector had three of them—the old rector that was. Miss Fell, she kept one of them after the rector died—she used to go in and do the flowers. Miss Brown that lives with her and plays the organ for the services, that's the key she uses. Mr. Harsch's key, that was the one that did belong to the organist, but when he was called up the rector had it back, and loaned it out to Mr. Harsch."

"I'd just like to be sure I've got that right. There were four keys. The rector has one, you have one, Miss Fell has one which is used by Miss Brown, and Mr. Harsch had one. Is that correct?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where do you keep your key, Mr. Bush?"

"Hanging on the dresser, sir."

"It was in its place when Miss Meade came for you?"

"Yes, sir."

"When had you last seen it before that?"

"At a quarter after ten o'clock, when I locked up for the night."

"The church door was locked when you went there with Miss Meade?"

"Yes, sir."

"Do you know whether Mr. Harsch was in the habit of locking the door?"

"O no, sir—he wasn't."

"You know this for a fact?"

"Yes, sir."

He was dismissed.

The police inspector was then called to testify that Mr. Harsch's key had been found in his left hand jacket pocket. There was a very much smudged fingerprint on it. This print closely resembled the forefinger print on the pistol, which was similarly blurred, the print of the thumb and of the other three fingers being clearly those of the deceased.

"You mean that there was only the one blurred print on the key and one blurred but four clear prints on the pistol?"

The inspector said, "Yes, sir," and gave place to the spare, ascetic figure of the rector.

"I would just like to ask you about your key to the church, Mr. Cavendish. It was in your possession on the evening of Mr. Harsch's death?"

"Certainly."

"May I ask where you keep it?"

The rector delved into a trouser pocket and separated an ordinary looking door key and held it out.

The coroner observed it.

"This is the key?"

"Yes."

"The church is an old one. The original keys were found too cumbrous to be convenient, and my predecessor had a new lock fitted to this side door. The two main doors are bolted on the inside. The old keys are no longer used."

"So that access to the church must be by means of one of the four keys of which the sexton spoke?"

"Yes."

"Did you down to the church on Tuesday evening?"

"No."

"But have you on other occasions visited the church whilst Mr. Harsch was playing the organ?"

"O yes. He played very well. I have gone in to listen to him."

"Did you ever find the door locked?"

The rector paused.

"I cannot recall any such occasion."

Thank you, Mr. Cavendish, that will be all."

As the rector returned to his seat, the coroner inclined his head in Miss Fell's direction and spoke her name.

Garth took her up to the platform. She was first asked about the key.

The coroner wrote down that Miss Fell kept her key in the unlocked left hand top drawer of the bureau in the drawing room, and that Miss Brown, who had very kindly been acting as organist, took it whenever she had occasion.

"Are you sure that your key was in the drawer on the night in question?"

Miss Fell was understood to say that it was always there unless Miss Brown had taken it.

"When had you actually last seen it?"

Miss Fell had no idea.

"Now, Miss Fell—you have made a statement to the effect that you heard a shot fired on this Tuesday evening. Your house is next to the church? It is, in fact, the rectory?"

"Yes."

"Where were you when you heard this shot?"

"Well, I was in the drawing room, but I had opened the glass door into the garden and gone down the steps."

"Why did you do this?"

"I wanted to smell the night flowering stock, and I wanted to know whether Mr. Harsch was still playing the organ."

"How did you know it was Mr. Harsch who was playing?"

"Miss Brown is the only other person who plays the organ, and she was in the drawing room with me."

"And was she with you when you heard the shot?"

"No—I don't think so—I think she had gone to bed . . . O, yes, I know she had, because I remember putting out the light in the hall."

WILSON'S WEEKLY

Bulletin

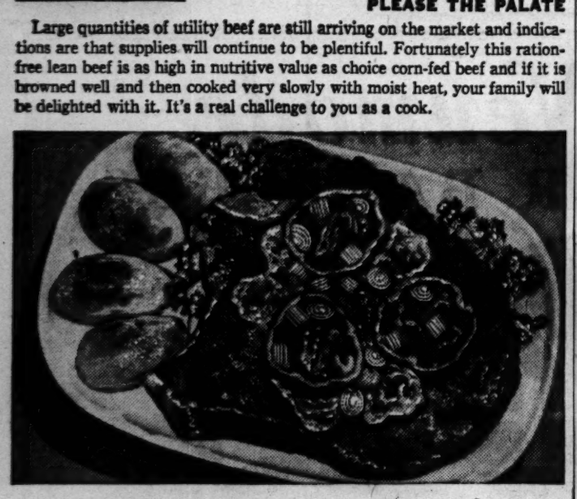
Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

PAMPER THE BEEF . . .

PLEASE THE PALATE

Large quantities of utility beef are still arriving on the market and indications are that supplies will continue to be plentiful. Fortunately this ration-free lean beef is as high in nutritive value as choice corn-fed beef and if it is browned well and then cooked very slowly with moist heat, your family will be delighted with it. It's a real challenge to you as a cook.



Tasty Swiss Steak—a Culinary Triumph

1½ lb. round steak or shoulder steak, cut ¾ to 1 in. thick
Salt, pepper, flour
4 tbsp. Bake-Rite
1 onion, chopped
2 tsp. Wilson's B-V
½ cup celery
1 green pepper
1½ cups cooked tomatoes

Season both sides of meat with salt and pepper and dredge with flour, pounding it in well with a mallet or edge of a heavy saucer. Brown well on both sides in Wilson's Bake-Rite or bacon drippings. Add the onion (while browning meat on the second side) and brown it lightly. Spread both sides of browned meat with a thin coating of Wilson's B-V (to add a good rich meat flavor). Place onion, celery and diced green pepper on meat (save several green pepper rings to add the last half-hour of cooking as a garnish) and pour tomatoes over all. Cover tightly and simmer (never boil) over low heat or put in a slow oven, 300° F., and cook until meat is tender, adding hot water or tomato juice in small amounts as liquid evaporates. Cooking time will be about 1½ to 2 hours. Serve the tomato sauce over the meat. Six servings.

Clip Recipe Here

CUT STEAK THINNER

Ordinarily we would be likely to have a Swiss steak cut 1½ to 2 inches thick, but when buying lean, utility beef, I suggest you have it cut from ¾ to 1 inch thick. That gives you a running start on achieving tenderness

The acid of the tomatoes also does its bit to make the meat tender, as does the slow cooking with moist heat.

• • •

Flavor Important

Browning the onions and meat, adding the B-V and the tomatoes, all contribute to making this a pot roast any man would be willing to yodel for. Complete the menu with browned potatoes, kidney bean salad, baking powder biscuits with assorted fruit for dessert and he'll come on the run.

For a new way to make delicious browned potatoes, try this: Dissolve 2 tsp. Wilson's B-V in 1 tbsp. hot water and mix with 1 tbsp. melted bacon drippings, (drippings from Wilson's Certified Bacon have a deliciously sweet, smoked flavor), and roll the potatoes in this mixture. Place in a shallow baking pan in which 2 tbsp. bacon drippings have been melted and bake in a 300° F. oven for 1¼ to 1½ hours. They're super!

Sincerely,

George Rector

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Fish, as well as onions and utility beef, is a plentiful food which homemakers are urged to serve more often within the next few weeks, because of a storage problem. Most of the frozen fish is in the form of fillets, easy to cook and popular with most families.

Rosefish, in the moderate priced class, was almost unknown a few years ago, but now is New England's largest catch, and one of the midwest's favorite fish dinners. The meat is white, flaky, and tender.

Cabbage, squash, and apples are other plentiful foods which are reasonably priced now, and happen to be extremely valuable from a nutritional angle. How about a dinner featuring nonrationed swiss steak with plenty of onions and gravy, baked potatoes, mashed squash, cole slaw, and baked apples? That meal has pretty nearly everything! Or we might start with baked rosefish fillets and scalloped potatoes, cole slaw with onion, a green vegetable this time to add color, and apple cobbler or pie for dessert.

Here's a recipe for that swiss steak which is a little different from the usual ones, in that individual cuts of meat are used.

Individual Swiss Steaks.
[Serves four.]

4 steaks cut from round or chuck of nonrationed beef
Flour
Bacon fat for browning
Salt, pepper, mixed herbs
2 large onions
2 cups tomatoes or sour cream

Have steaks cut 1 inch thick and pound flour into them with mallet or edge of a saucer. Brown on both sides in hot bacon drippings, and season with salt, pepper, and ½ teaspoon of a mixed dried herb blend. Slice onions over meat, add tomatoes or sour cream and cover closely. Bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees, about 3 hours, or until tender.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE.

Scalloped Parsnips.
[Serves four.]

4 large parsnips
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 egg, beaten
¾ cup milk
6 soda crackers, crumbled

Cook parsnips until tender; mash. Add butter, beaten egg, and milk, mixed together. Arrange in greased casserole in alternate layers with cracker crumbs. Bake in hot [400 degrees] oven until lightly browned, about 20 minutes.

Child's Coat

Princess lines make this little coat flattering to juvenile figures. A minimum of woolen material is required for this model, which has a "little girl" collar and simple sleeves. Style No. 3878 is designed for sizes 2 to 12. Size 4 requires 1⅝ yards of 54 inch fabric with 1⅛ yards of 35 inch lining.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Central Eleanor Club.

The Central Eleanor club will hold its annual athletic dinner at 6 o'clock tonight in the clubrooms at 16 N. Wabash av.

Crocheted Hat

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Every woman is ready for a new, smart, and comfortable crocheted wool hat which hugs the head in cold weather. This model, trimmed with five pompons answers such a need. It is quickly and easily crocheted, fits every headsize, and is suitable for all ages.

For instructions in crocheting the wool hat, No. 1280, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Dad Injured, Couple Seek Crib for Baby

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A case worker has requested our assistance for a young couple who are the parents of an infant. Shortly after the birth of the baby the father suffered a serious accident and had to have extensive medical care. Due to these expenses, they were unable to provide for all the baby's needs, the most important of which is a crib. The address is on the northwest side of the city, and the agency will arrange transportation.

If any south side reader has clothing for girls, 12 and 14 years old, Mrs. G. would be happy to have them. Her husband died recently, and since that time she has been endeavoring to support the children by part time work. However, she is not physically strong, and her income is very small. Since it is the beginning of the school season, she is anxious to obtain suitable clothing for her daughters.

Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen Will Lecture Tonight

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen, instructor at the Catholic university of Washington, D. C., will lecture at 8:30 o'clock tonight in Orchestra hall on "The Bulwark of a Nation." Proceeds will aid establishment of a new pediatric ward in Cuneo Memorial hospital.

Judge Arnold to Give 4 Public Talks at U. of C.

Arrangements have been completed by the Walgreen foundation of the University of Chicago to present Thurman Arnold, associate justice of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, in a series of four free public lectures next month at the university. Speaking at 4:30 p. m. in the social science research building, Judge Arnold will give his lectures Oct. 9 to 12. His general subject will be "An Economic Ideal for 20th Century America." Judge Arnold formerly was assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust suits.

KENT'S MOTHER BEGS AID OF A CONGRESSMAN

Wants Mundt, in Britain, to Probe Son's Case.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 [Special]. — Renewing her four year campaign to clear her son, Tyler Kent, former American embassy clerk imprisoned in 1940 by the British government on charges of revealing embassy secrets, Mrs. A. H. P. Kent said today she had cabled Rep. Mundt [R., S. D.], now abroad, asking that he investigate "the whole matter while he is on the ground."

Kent was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment on Nov. 7, 1940, by a British court. The judge told Kent that he was convicted of five offenses of obtaining and communicating documents of use to Germany "for a purpose prejudicial to safety and interest of the state."

A Star Chamber Trial.

Altho an American citizen, Kent was turned over to the British by the American embassy for secret trial. The British government earlier this month declined to permit the Associated Press to interview Kent because "it is not the practice with prisoners in custody."

Mrs. Kent declared today two recent cables from her son "appear to confirm that the British government fears to have Tyler interviewed before the Roosevelt-Dewey election, in spite of desires of the American state department to make my son the goat of the secret Roosevelt-Churchill cables of 1939-'40."

Her mention of the "secret Roosevelt-Churchill cables" referred to her previous charges that her son was railroaded into prison to conceal behind the scenes dickering between Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt before Churchill became prime minister of Great Britain. She said her son had handled a coded Churchill cable to Mr. Roosevelt in October, 1939, which said in part: "Were I to become prime minister, we would control the world."

Cables Deny Kennedy Story.

Mrs. Kent said both cables sent by her son denied charges made against him by Joseph P. Kennedy, who was American ambassador to Great Britain in 1940 when Kent was turned over to the British. Kennedy recently declared that Kent had copied 1,500 documents covering vital war plans of England while a member of the American embassy.

Kent's mother brought a new element into the case with her disclosure that a statement which her son cabled her he was sending to "a United States senator" had failed to reach that senator, who was unidentified.

Mrs. Kent said the senator told her he "is going to learn the reason" why the message has not arrived.

Prison officials and British censors cleared the two cables her son sent her on Sept. 14 and Sept. 24, Mrs. Kent said.

PRISONER UNIT OF ITALIANS TO HELP HOSPITAL

Because Vaughan General hospital, near Maywood, can't get enough civilian labor, an Italian quartermaster service unit of 110 enlisted men and three officers has been brought here from Pine Camp, N. Y., for general work. Brig. Gen. P. J. Carroll, commander of the army hospital, said the Italians will be used wherever needed, but will not replace civilians.

Their first task is construction of barracks for their own use. They also will have a separate mess hall, post exchange, and recreational facilities. The unit is commanded by a United States army captain. He is assisted by two noncommissioned officers and four other enlisted men, who are interpreters.

To be accepted for work that pays 80 cents a day, the prisoner must agree to be bound by the United States articles of war.

COL. J. C. MECHEM DIVORCED; SAYS WIFE LEFT HIM

Col. John C. Mechem, former senior vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago, whose home is at 945 Maplewood rd., Lake Forest, obtained a divorce in the Lake county Circuit court in Waukegan yesterday on his charge that his wife, Barbara, deserted him Jan. 10, 1943. Col. Mechem has been attached to the staff of the secretary of war in Washington, D. C., since 1940. Col. and Mrs. Mechem were married in 1914. He was in court with Atty. Thomas I. Underwood, and Mrs. Mechem, living in Boston, was represented by Atty. Henry F. Tenney. The lawyers told Judge Ralph J. Dady that a property settlement has been arranged in lieu of alimony.

OPEN GAMBLING HELD TO BLAME IN DELINQUENCY

Children may be influenced for evil by the carelessness of their elders in permitting crime to flourish thru tie-ups between politics, the police, and criminal elements, Virgil W. Peterson, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, told the Bond Club of Chicago luncheon yesterday in the Hotel Sherman.

"When open and notorious violation of law is permitted," he said, "it is idle to blame juvenile delinquency on home influences alone."

Asserting that gambling is one of the twin financial props of criminal elements—the other, he said, is prostitution—Peterson deplored the tolerance with which many citizens regarded the open operation of race books and games of chance. Not only are the revenues which the underworld derives from gambling tremendous, he said, but also the existence of gambling in defiance of law tends to corrupt the very agencies—such as the police—on which society depends for its protection.

N. U. PREPARES FOR WISCONSIN AERIAL ATTACK

Yungwirth, Girard Passing Duel Seen.

Coach Lynn Waldorf sent Northwestern's varsity thru another stiff drill on forward pass defense yesterday in preparation for the strong aerial attack which Wisconsin is expected to unveil in Saturday's Big Ten opener in Dyche stadium.

Reports that the Badgers possess a real forward passing threat in Earl [Jug] Girard, freshman half back from Marinette, Wis., have caused the Wildcat coaches to devote much time to defensive measures this week. Girard is reported to be the finest passer to represent the Badgers in recent seasons.

Wildcats Count on Yungwirth.

Off their performance against DePauw last week, the Wildcats also will be air minded in Saturday's encounter. The Purple boasts a fine young passer in Johnny Yungwirth of Fond du Lac, Wis., who completed five out of nine tosses against De Pauw, two of them for touchdowns. Yungwirth, who is a freshman, will be stationed at left half, the position so ably occupied by Otto Graham the last three years.

BADGERS IMPROVE.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27 [Special].—The University of Wisconsin eleven, with Allen Shafer, regular quarter back, again directing the team, showed improvement in its defensive work against Northwestern plays in a long scrimmage today against the Badger second team.

The drill was the last strenuous one of the week before the Badgers meet the Wildcats Saturday in Evanston. The game will mark the start of Coach Harry Stuhldreher's ninth season at Wisconsin.

Wisconsin's first string line in today's scrimmage included Don Cusack at center, John Davey and Nick Collias at guards, Clarence Esser and John Schwartz at tackles and Acting Captain Pat Weber and Ed Bahlow at the ends. In the back field, Shafer teamed with Jerry Thompson at full back and Earl Girard and Joe Campbell as the half backs.

MICHIGAN MAPS ATTACK.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 27 [Special].—Coach H. O. [Fritz] Crisler indicated today that he may let Indiana do most of the passing in Saturday's Western conference football contest here.

The Michigan coach, who is devoting this week's drills to defense measures generally, spent considerable time today on the Wolverines' running attack with Bob Nussbaumer, Gene Derricotte, and Capt. Bob Wiese doing most of the ball carrying. Michigan's ground game came back to normal against Marquette last Saturday night and drew the comment from Crisler today that yardage gained by running still is the most important in football.

If the Wolverines' running offense holds up against the Hoosiers, it will enable Michigan to use the aerial combination of Bill Culligan and Dick Rifenburg as a constant threat rather than the main line of attack.

INDIANA ENDS HEAVY WORK.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 27 [Special].—In their final heavy workout before Saturday's Michigan game, Indiana today rehearsed for the third straight day on ways to stop the Wolverine T and single wing type of attack. Coach Bo McMillin also drilled the squad on its own plays.

McMillin said he will count on Bob Meyer and Mike Modak, both freshmen, to give veteran John Cannady relief as blocking back Saturdy. Cannady, injured in last week's Illinois game, has been taking light exercise.

BOSS MAY KEEP HAGG AT HOME SELLING SHIRTS!

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 27 (AP).—Gunder Hagg, Sweden's noted distance runner, said today he doubted if he would be able to accept an invitation to go to America for a series of races to aid in the sale of war bonds, in view of his employer's refusal to grant him permission to leave.

Hagg's employer, operator of a haberdashery, said "Hagg has been running for nine months and it is time now for him to sell ties, suits, and shirts."

The question of whether Hagg and Arne Andersson are going to America rapidly is becoming a major topic here and ranks beside the war news in the Swedish press.

A Change of Tune.

When I was young and full of joy
I sang of loss and hopeless love,
Sighing with sentimental tears
For sorrows that I knew naught of,
But now I am older grown and wise,
So of happiness and faith I sing,
Having found sorrow all too real,
But joy a rare and fleeting thing.

IRISH TEAM SET FOR CAMPAIGN START AT PITT

Notre Dame Heads East Tonight.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 27.—The Notre Dame football squad, 35 of whose members will represent the university Saturday afternoon in the University of Pittsburgh stadium in the first defense of the 1943 national collegiate championship, will conclude preparations for that opening contest tomorrow. Today's drill was concentrated on defense against Pitt's T formation forward passes and means of checking the Panther line, which averages nearly 210 pounds from tackle to tackle.

Twenty-five civilian members of the Irish squad will leave South Bend tomorrow night and will drill Friday afternoon in Pittsburgh. Ten navy trainees will arrive on the morning of the game. The entire group will start the return trip Sunday noon.

Stewart Earns Starting Spot.

In Pitt's victory over West Virginia last week, the Panthers were not at all pressed, Notre Dame's scouts reported to Head Coach Ed McKeever. Moreover the Panthers' formations, while used almost entirely for running, offer a number of pass combinations against which Notre Dame must be prepared. Hence the lessons this week. Pitt attempted only six forward passes against West Virginia and completed three of them.

Notre Dame's starting lineup, which will not now be altered except for injury, has been changed in three positions since the squad reported for fall practice. Most recent change has assigned Ralph Stewart, 20, a navy trainee who weighs 186 pounds, to center. Two weeks ago Stewart was not mentioned on the roster of the first three elevens.

Stewart attended McKinley High school in St. Louis and won a letter as a substitute last year at the University of Missouri. His showing the last week has been sufficient not only to win a starting assignment but to make possible the shift of Fred Rovai of Hammond, Ind., from center to right guard.

Capt. Filley Will Not Start.

John Mastrangelo, freshman from Vandergrift, Pa., has been moved from right to left guard where currently he has been given precedence over Capt. Pat Filley. Tho the latter will not start, he will play Saturday for the first time since operations were performed on his knees to remedy injuries which earlier had caused his discharge from the service.

Another change since practice opened has sent Peter Berezney, 215 pounder from Jersey City, N. J., from left to right tackle on the second varsity. Notre Dame's starting lineup against Pittsburgh will be:

CENTER—Ralph Stewart, St. Louis, Mo.
RIGHT GUARD—Fred Roval, Hammond, Ind.
RIGHT TACKLE—John Adams, Charleston, Ark.
RIGHT END—Robert Skoglund, Chicago.
QUARTER BACK—Frank Dancewicz, Lynn, Mass.
LEFT HALF BACK—Achille Maggiolo, Mishawaka, Ind.
RIGHT HALF BACK—Bob Kelly, Chicago.
FULL BACK—Elmer Angsman, Chicago.

McKeever is concerned over the possibility of defeat by Pittsburgh. "If our squad had played one game," he said this afternoon, "we would have a definite idea of what to expect. This is the first test and inexperienced players may lose merely thru their own mistakes. We also have a high regard for Pitt's heavy line and individual abilities of several of the Pitt backs."

PITT GETS TWO VETERANS.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 27 [Special].—Unexpected help came to the University of Pittsburgh Panthers today when it was announced that Angelo Carlaccini, half back, and Larry Braner, center, members of the 1942 squad, had been given honorable discharges from the army and will be available for Saturday's game here with Notre Dame.

Pitt had another long session today in preparation for the Notre Dame visit The Panthers will finish hard work tomorrow, then go to the stadium on Friday for a dress rehearsal after the Irish finish their final tuneup.

TIGERS EVEN WIN IN PLAYOFF PLANS

Edward Burns (left), Chicago Tribune baseball writer, serving as a telephone courier to advise Don Barnes, president of the St. Louis Browns, that if there is a playoff for the American league title his team will play the Tigers in Detroit next Monday. Charles Dunkley (right) of the Associated Press flipped a coin to determine the site and at the other end of the wire—in St. Louis—Barnes called heads. It came down tails. Will Harridge, president of the American league, was a witness, too, in yesterday's unique ceremony. [Associated Press Photo.]

YANKEES TAKE FOURTH IN ROW OVER SOX, 7-2

[The Cubs defeated the Phillies in Philadelphia yesterday, 5 to 3 in 11 innings. Story on next page.]

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The New York Yankees yesterday made it a sweep of their final series with the White Sox when they beat Bill Dietrich and our poor boys, 7 to 2.

By making it four straight over Jimmy Dykes' proteges, the vanishing champions remained in the American league pennant race but had to produce their arithmetic to prove it. They were three games off the pace with only four to play, all four with the St. Louis Browns. The Detroit Tigers also have four more games to play, all with the tail end Senators. If the Tigers split their series with the Senators, the Yanks will be mathematically eliminated.

Yesterday's game in Comiskey park gave the Yankees 12 victories against 10 defeats in 1944 competition with the formerly sprightly Sox—the same ratio that prevailed at the end of last season when the Yanks were champs and the Sox in the money set—fourth.

Things Happen in 7th.

Yesterday the New Yorkers scored two in the first inning on a triple by Hershel Martin and Johnny Lindell's No. 18 homer.

The Sox tied the score with one run in the second inning, another in the fifth. Then, in the seventh, much happened.

Snuffy Stirnweiss opened with his second double of the match, his 200th hit of the season, and Bud Metheny sacrificed. Martin singled to center, scoring Stirnweiss. Lindell tripled, his 16th triple, and he got credit for his 100th run driven in when Martin stepped on home plate. Nick Etten singled to center, scoring Lindell and singles by Oscar Grimes and Mike Garbark got Etten home. Mike Milosevich then grounded into a double play.

Red Sox Here Today.

New York made one run in the ninth on Martin's double and a couple of infield outs.

The Red Sox, who are no longer very good either, will play the Sox this afternoon, tomorrow night, Saturday, and Sunday.

Playoff Game, If Necessary, Goes to Detroit

If the St. Louis Browns and the Detroit Tigers end the American league season in a tie for the pennant, the title wil be decided in a playoff game in Detroit on Monday, Oct. 2.

The arrangement was made yesterday in the Chicago office of the league president, Will Harridge. The game site was determined by the flip of a coin. Don Barnes, president of the Browns, called heads over the telephone from St. Louis, but tails came up.

If the race should finish in a three-way tie, with the New York Yanks sharing the top berth, playoff games will be conducted in Detroit and St. Louis.

The coin was tossed by Charles Dunkley, Associated Press sports editor in Chicago. Barnes was given the right to call heads or tails by Jack Zeller, general manager of the Tigers.

8 to Play in Public Links Meet Oct. 8

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The first annual All-Star Public Links championship tournament, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and the Chicago park district, will be decided on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 8, over the old Jackson park course at 63d street and Stony Island avenue. It will be an 18 hole medal play competition, beginning at noon, with the winners and runners-up of four outstanding 1944 public links tournaments constituting the field. Trophies will be awarded to the first and second low scorers for the 18 hole route.

George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the park district, and Sam Pecoraro, in charge of operations for the district's beach and golf section, said yesterday that they plan to make the event an annual fixture at the end of each season for the champions and runners-up in events conducted over park and daily fee courses.

Limit Field to Eight.

The field for the inaugural will be restricted to the eight men who ran one-two in the Chicago City Amateur, the Cook County Amateur, the Midwest Amateur, and the Illinois Public Links association event.

Heading the two foursomes will be Charles Evans Jr. of Edgewater, who won the city championship over the same Jackson park course on Aug. 5 by defeating Harold Mathisen in one of the great sports comebacks of this year. Chick, now 54 years old, had won his last city crown in 1911. Mathisen, himself a four-time city titleholder, also will compete in the All-Star tourney on Oct. 8.

Champions to Compete.

The other three champions who will play at Jackson park are Hymie Judelson of Old Orchard, winner of the county championship; Lou Esposito, the Franklin Park railroad clerk, who won the Midwest title, and Chuck Boywid of Mid-City, victor in the Illinois public links inaugural.

Joining them will be the respective runners-up in the three tourneys—Harry Wils of Waveland, Bob Dougherty of Columbus park, and Mike Polacci of Bunker Hill.

Lello-Zurita Mexico City Bout Postponed to Oct. 6

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 27 (AP).—An international boxing card featuring Juan Zurita, world lightweight champion, against Pete Lello of Chicago was postponed today from Oct. 3 to 6. The site was changed to the Mexico City bull ring.

TIGERS DEFEAT A'S, 4-0; IT'S 28TH FOR NEWHOUSER

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 27 (AP).—Hal Newhouser, achieving his 28th victory for the Detroit Tigers today, shut out the Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 0, on five hits as Detroit took a half game lead over the St. Louis Browns, which was increased to a full game when the Boston Red Sox beat the Browns, 4 to 1, tonight.

Newhouser, notching his sixth shutout of the year, pitched one of his best games, walking none and fanning nine. From the second inning thru the eighth Philadelphia's only hit was Roberto Estalella's infield scratch in the fourth.

Tigers Pound Newsom.

Large Louis [Buck] Newsom, who helped pitch Detroit to its 1940 pennant, was unsuccessful in his bid to halt the Tigers' flag drive. He was assaulted for 11 hits, three of them singles by Dick Wakefield.

Pinky Higgins and Rudy York walked after two were out in the first inning, Higgins scoring the first Tiger run on Wakefield's single to center. York walked to lead off the sixth, took third on Wakefield's single and scored after Paul Richards' fly to center.

Detroit's last two runs came in the ninth when Richards singled and scored on Roger Cramer's triple. Eddie Mayo then singled to center to score Cramer.

18,998 Watch Game.

Newhouser, hurling Detroit's 20th shutout victory this season, retired 15 men in order after Estalella's scratch single in the fourth. Detroit's 177th double play of the year rubbed out a Philadelphia threat in the ninth after Irv Hall and Ford Garrison had singled with nobody out.

A crowd of 18,998 paying fans watched the contest, Philadelphia's last of the season with Detroit.

BOSTON DIMS PENNANT HOPES FOR ST. LOUIS

Red Sox Halt Rally of Losers in 8th.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 27 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox dealt a powerful blow to the American league pennant hopes of the St. Louis Browns tonight by defeating the Browns, 4 to 1, behind the four hit pitching of George Woods and Red Barrett.

The loss put the St. Louis club one full game behind the league leading Detroit Tigers with four games remaining in the season for both teams.

End 10 Game Losing Streak.

Boston, breaking a 10 game losing streak, scored a run in the first inning on two hits, a passed ball, and an error, added two more on a pair of hits in the sixth and picked up one in the ninth on a hit, a wild pitch, and an error.

Played on a muddy field, soaked by almost five hours of continuous rain, the game was the first loss for the Browns in their three game series with Boston and was also their first defeat in eight games.

Caster Replaces Galehouse.

Denny Galehouse worked the first five innings for the Browns and was the losing pitcher. He left the game with the score 1 to 0 against him after striking out seven and walking one.

George Caster replaced Galehouse and yielded two runs in the sixth. He retired for a pinch hitter in the seventh and Newman Shirley, who worked the last two innings, gave up the final Boston run in the ninth.

The Browns got only three hits off Woods who was replaced during a streak of wildness in the eighth when St. Louis scored its only run.

CUBS TRIUMPH OVER PHILS, 5-3, IN 11 INNINGS

Dallessandro, Nicholson Supply Finishing Touch.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 27.—The Cubs tried to enjoy a nice quiet time for themselves today in their season's final exercises hereabouts, but the tail end Phillies didn't want it that way. The latter forced the Chicagoans to accept the tying runs in the eighth inning and just for that the Charley Grimm boys got tough in the 11th and slapped down their old associate, Bill Lee, before a vast ladies day crowd of 1,033. The score was 5 to 3, giving the Cubs their 13th victory in 22 games with the locals.

Nicholson's Parents Present.

The finishing touch was expertly engineered by Bill Nicholson and Dom Dallessandro. The former, whose ma and pa were watching, opened the 11th with a single to right for his first hit and Dallessandro, who packed up his extra shirt this evening and headed for his winter hideout, promptly scored him with a triple into the right field corner. He crossed the plate on Andy Pafko's fly to deep center.

The Cubs got into the 3 to 0 deficit because the Phils, encouraged by errors, took liberties with Paul Erickson. Granville Hammer, Bill Lee, Buster Adams, and Tony Lupien nicked him for singles in the fifth and along with all this was a wild pitch, as well as a wild throw by Paul Gillespie, two scoring. The Phils hung up their other run in the seventh on another single by Lee and errors by Charles Brewster and Pafko on the same play.

Lynn Yields One Hit.

Erickson was excused at the start of the eighth so that he could catch a train for Chicago and Roy Hughes batted for him. He singled and the tie became possible when Adams dropped Brewster's fly and Lee walked Bill Schuster to fill the bags with none out. One run scored while Nicholson was forcing Schuster, another on a wild pitch, and the tying item on Dallessandro's single. Then Red Lynn began throwing at the Phillies and they annoyed him with only one hit in four innings.

BANKERS ORDER FULL STUDY OF MONEY SCHEME

Elect Rathje A.B.A. Vice President.

W. Randolph Burgess, president elect of the American Bankers association, yesterday described the Bretton Woods monetary conference proposals as "complex" and "unclear," and announced the association had adopted a resolution directing its special activities committee to make a thoro study of the proposals.

W. Randolph Burgess.

The object of the study would be a "simplification" of the conference project or "alternative constructive proposals," Burgess told the closing session of the A. B. A. annual convention in the Stevens hotel.

Open Office in Chicago.

Other major last day developments included election as vice president of Frank C. Rathje, president of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company and the Mutual National bank, as predicted. The opening of association offices in Chicago also was announced, and a special committee appointed to handle veterans' financial rehabilitation problems.

Burgess said the A. B. A. economic policy commission had studied the problem of post-war international finance thoroly and had recommended creation of an international agency for the twin function of conferring among nations on monetary problems and extension of moderate credits under favorable circumstances.

"But the Bretton Woods proposals go far beyond the suggestions of the economic policy commission," he said. "They would call for commitment by the United States of as much as 6 billion dollars [in an international currency stabilization fund and bank for reconstruction and development].

Interested in "Good Loans."

"The plans are elaborate and complex," said Burgess. "It is not clear, particularly in the monetary fund, that only good loans are contemplated. They are, however, proposals arising from an important international conference at a time when the nations must find means for international coöperation. We have therefore asked the association's advisory committee on special activities to make a thoro study.

"It may be that the American Bankers association, after further study, will be able to suggest means of simplification of the Bretton Woods proposals or alternative constructive proposals which will make sure that funds which we may provide for world recovery are wisely and prudently used. There is no more virtue in making bad international loans than bad domestic loans. Both make trouble."

Congress' Delay Offers Time.

Burgess said congress' delay of action until after election provided full time for the consideration required because the "proposals are complicated and difficult to understand."

"These proposals for mechanisms for currency stabilization and for longer term foreign loans came to us in advance of other necessary parts of an international economic program," he said, "and we are handicapped in judging them before we know the rest of the program with respect to security, reciprocal trade arrangements, and the internal, political, and economic stability of the countries concerned."

Because Britain's substance was drained off in the war, Burgess said, the "first step in world recovery is a plan for Britain. We ought to know that, and to know what help is required from this country before making other commitments."

Call for Balanced Budget.

Other resolutions adopted called for a balanced federal budget, a tax structure which encourages private enterprise and provides employment, and a vigorous and independent private banking system.

Besides Burgess and Rathje, the association elected Wilmer J. Waller, president of the Hamilton National bank, Washington, D. C., treasurer. Burgess is vice chairman of the National City Bank of New York.

Rathje, who was put in line for the presidency next year, was born in 1882 in Bloomingdale, Ill.

In 1910 he became counsel of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company and in 1926 became its president. In 1916 he became president of the Mutual National Bank of Chicago which was organized that year. He owns and operates a modern farm of 333 acres and has held numerous offices in Chicago and Illinois banks.

Price and Pay Controls Must Stay—Byrnes

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—War Mobilization Director Byrnes declared today the government must keep controls on prices, wages, and rationing after the defeat of Germany and until total victory in the Pacific.

"While we are prosecuting the war against Japan," he said in a speech to the National Press club, "price control must continue just as wage control must continue, and the relationship between wages and prices must be stabilized."

Raps "Rear Guard Actions."

The war labor board is considering a host of wage cases all aimed at breaking the little steel formula, keystone of the government wage policy, which limits wages to 15 per cent above the level of January, 1941.

Byrnes expressed pride in the "hold-the-line order" stabilizing wages and prices and said:

"Rear guard actions have been fought against the attacks of groups that are powerful while we are fighting a war, but on the whole the line has been held and government should continue to hold it until the dangers of inflation are passed."

Byrnes said bureau of labor statistics figures show the cost of living has gone up 25.3 per cent since January, 1941, but said farm income has gone up 81 per cent and the average weekly pay of workers 51.3 per cent in the same period.

Won't Accept New Job.

"The stabilization program has hurt neither the farmer nor the worker," he said. "The white collar workers and people with small fixed incomes have fared less well during the war, but the only way to help them is to continue to hold the line against inflation."

Asked about reports he intended to resign soon, Byrnes said his office would be abolished by legislation, not yet signed by the President, to establish an office of demobilization and reconversion. He said he did not think he should be asked to serve another three years—the period he estimated the reconversion office would be functioning—and if offered the job, he would have to say no.

People and Events

The United Air Lines' bomber modification center at Cheyenne, Wyo., where thousands of Flying Fortresses have been prepared for combat duty, will receive the army-navy "E" award, officials of the line were informed yesterday by Undersecretary of War Patterson.

National Carbon company yesterday announced that H. A. Stewart will head the new Chicago sales division of the company. Assistant division managers will be C. H. Christensen and W. L. Julian.

Albert W. Sherer, advertising manager of National Biscuit company, has become associated with McCann-Erickson, Inc., advertising agency, as vice president, H. K. McCann, agency president, announced. Sherer will have headquarters in Chicago.

C. Norman Kirschner, advertising manager of Independent Pneumatic Tool company, and Walter M. Yogerst, advertising manager of Bodine Electric company, were elected vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the National Industrial Advertisers' association.

Mrs. Mary Roebling, chairman of the board for the Trenton Trust company, Trenton, N. J., will address members of the Central Lions club tomorrow in the Hotel Sherman.

Joseph P. Ripley, chairman of Harriman Ripley & Co., Inc., announced that Nathan D. McClure had been elected a director of the company.

STOCK PRICES CREEP HIGHER ON SALES OF ONLY 484,020 SHARES

New York, Sept. 27 (AP).—The stock market today had numerous firm groups, but closing changes mostly were in small fractions. Turnover of 484,020 shares against yesterday's 601,952 made it one of the slowest full sessions in the last year.

Speculative apathy persisted in the face of the office of war information forecast of a long war against Japan after Germany is defeated and European front reports discouraging to hopes for an early peace.

A few key groups advanced after an irregular opening, but certain higher priced industrial specialties lost fractions to about 2 points.

The Associated Press 60 stock index was unchanged at 54.3.

BOND MARKET QUIET.

New York, Sept. 27 (AP).—The bond market shuffled aimlessly today over a narrow course that left prices little changed.

Far more attention was paid to an assortment of new offerings than to listed bonds, as evidenced by the small sales of $4,034,000, compared with $5,424,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED.

Prices were irregular yesterday in turnover of 20,000 shares on the Chicago Stock exchange. Among the volume leaders were Midland Utilities 6 per cent prior lien and 7 per cent prior lien, down 2¾ and 2½, respectively; Radio corporation and Chicago corporation, down ⅛; and Consumers company B, up ½.

FORD MAY OFFER LOWEST PRICE SINCE MODEL A

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP).—Postwar production by the Ford Motor company of a lower priced car was forecast today by Henry Ford II., executive vice president, in an interview.

"If our ideas and designs work out, it is possible the market may see a lower priced car than has been offered the public since the days of my grandfather's famous model A," said Ford. "He and the rest of us at the Ford Motor company are thinking along those lines.

"Such a car would be in addition to our regular line," which he said would cover the entire auto market. "What it will sell for, what it will look like, are matters of conjecture at the moment.

"We are not thinking in terms of a miniature 'doodlebug' type. We are thinking of a more economical utilization of space and weight. The logical result of such planning would be a better automobile for the American family."

Swift Expands Plant Food Facilities in Hammond

Construction of a new research laboratory and model pilot plant at the Swift & Co. plant food factory in Hammond, was announced yesterday by C. T. Prindeville, vice president in charge of fertilizer operations. They will serve as research headquarters for the 17 Swift plant food factories in the United States. Completion of the project is expected in about three months.

SEC Revises and Approves Midland Plan

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 27 (AP).—A reorganization plan for Midland United company and Midland Utilities company was approved with modifications today by the securities and exchange commission. The modifications are to be made before the plan is submitted to the District court of Delaware, where proceedings under the bankruptcy act have been in progress since June, 1934.

Among changes asked are increases in the amount of new stock allocated to holders of Midland Utilities prior lien stock and a quicker payment of the settlement reached with secured creditors. A prompt merger of United into its subsidiary, Utilities, also is called for, with secured creditors waiving approximately $250,000 interest due to them under the settlement agreement.

Midland United to Liquidate.

Claims of secured creditors exceeding $15,635,000 are to be settled for approximately $7,230,000 under the plan, with the collateral returned to the bankrupt estates. United is to change its name to Midland Realization company, recapitalize on a one stock basis, and 'liquidate within one year.

It will distribute common stock of Public Service Company of Indiana to its own preferred stockholders, one share for each share of $3 dividend preferred and two for each $6 dividend preferred share.

Common stock of Realization company will be distributed to public holders of United preferred on the same basis as the Public Service stock; to debenture holders of Utilities at the rate of 2.06 shares for each $100 of debentures, and to holders of Utilities prior lien stock at the rate of ½ share for each share held.

Utilities to Recapitalize.

Without the modification, each prior lien share was to have received only 3-10 of a share of Realization company common.

Utilities also is to recapitalize on a one stock basis, distributing 60 per cent of its new common to Realization and 40 per cent to its own debenture holders at a rate of 10 shares for each $100 principal amount of debentures. The new common stock of both Realization and Utilities will have a $1 par value.

GRAINS RECOUP EARLY LOSSES, CLOSE HIGHER

Most grains closed fractionally higher on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday at the end of a see-saw market attributed to the confusion that persisted among traders as to the ultimate effect of the government program announced last Saturday, under which loan wheat not redeemed by May 1 will be purchased at parity by the Commodity Credit corporation.

Selling developed in early futures trading, sending prices down ½ to 3 cents a bushel at one time. The break brought in short covering, however, and buying developed as inflationary thinking arose from demands for wage hikes above the Little Steel formula maximums.

December contracts led the late advance, and closing prices were near the top. Barley was the only weak grain, losing 1¼ to 1⅝ cents. Wheat was unchanged to ⅞ cent higher. Corn finished ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher. Oats were unchanged to ⅜ cent higher and rye ended unchanged to 1¼ cents up.

Particular strength developed in December rye. It closed ⅜ cent above the May contract, against a ¼ cent discount Tuesday.

Corner of Michigan Av., Ohio St., Sold to Furrier

The southeast corner of Michigan av. and Ohio st., 60 by 100 feet, improved with a two story building, now vacant, was bought yesterday by Phil Berman, furrier at 661 N. Michigan, from New England Mutual Life Insurance company, for $130,000, according to county records.

KEEP SYNTHETIC RUBBER PLANT, JEFFERS URGES

Packers Told Need of Farm Outlets.

William M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railroad and former federal rubber coördinator, protested last night against rumored plans to scrap America's synthetic rubber plants. He spoke at the annual dinner of the American Meat institute in the Stevens hotel.

"I have heard rumors suggesting that we scrap our synthetic rubber plants as a good neighbor policy, and go back to buying rubber from the Dutch and the British," Jeffers said. "I believe in a good neighbor policy, but I'm also a good American, and I believe in America first.

"The plants represent one investment of the tax payers' money which will assure a return to them. Production is one million long tons per year, or 450,000 tons more than we used before Pearl Harbor. For the first time we are in a position to tell the British and the Dutch what price rubber is going to be."

Lashes at Hillman, PAC.

Jeffers also lashed at Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO political action committee backing a fourth term.

"The idea of Hillman is that he's going to assess every man in his union," said Jeffers. "I don't think you can buy an election in this country. The right to vote is one thing we have left, but if Hillman prevails, I don't know whether we'll continue to have that right."

Current heavy farm production means that the United States will have to find new outlets or make either voluntary or compulsory reductions in production or marketing, or both, Rep. Hope [R., Kas.] told the packers. The only two available outlets, exports or a larger use of agricultural products for industrial purposes, will be closed if government support prices are based on 90 per cent or more of parity.

Warns of Price Situation.

Speaking at an earlier session in the Drake hotel, Hope said "for export we will have to meet world market prices—for industrial uses, whatever price it takes to meet competition with existing methods. We cannot make alcohol in a competitive market out of corn at $1 a bushel. If 50 cents is the most that can be paid for corn for that purpose, then it is obvious that corn won't be used unless it is sold for 50 cents."

The situation adds up to the fact that if the country expects to continue production of agricultural products on anything like the present scale, and at the same time support prices at 90 per cent or more of parity, it will be necessary to have a two price system or perhaps a three or four price system for products which move into channels of other than normal domestic consumption, he said.

"Smacks of a Dole."

The two price system used with marketing thru normal channels and the payment to producers of the difference between the market price and the support price is not popular with farmers, because it "smacks of a dole," Hope said. Should the support price be made the market price thru government loans or purchases, the method probably would result in government handling of all farm products.

Asserting that support prices for agricultural products, in some form or another, will be continued as a national policy, Hope said that the fundamental problem is how American farmers can produce in abundance and yet not become victims of this abundance.

"A surplus of agricultural products is insurance against suffering and want," he said. "Yet many times in the past a surplus has been a curse to the farmers who produced it, and indirectly, a curse to consumers as well."

Oscar F. Mayer, founder and chairman of Oscar Mayer & Co., and Charles H. Swift, chairman of Swift & Co., received gold service buttons from the institute for completing 50 years in the meat packing industry.

F. D. R. Missouri Valley Plan Assailed by Trade Chamber

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Regional authorities for the development of American river basins, creation of which was urged on congress by President Roosevelt in a message last week, were attacked today by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States as an attempt "to socialize the waters of the nation."

The chamber announced its board of directors had adopted a resolution asserting regional authorities would take from the states control of waters within their borders and would jeopardize existing and future water rights.

Missouri "TVA" Proposed.

In his message last week, Mr. Roosevelt recommended that an authority similar to the Tennessee valley authority be created to develop water power, flood control, navigation, and irrigation in the Missouri valley basin. Previously he had urged authorities for the Arkansas and Columbia river basins.

The President based his Missouri river recommendation on a resolution adopted in August by the governors of Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, North and South Dakota, Colorado, Wyoming, and Montana, altho the resolution did not mention the regional authority urged by the President.

The governors' resolution asked the President to direct the army engineers and the bureau of reclamation to present to congress a coordinated plan for development of the Missouri river, which borders on or flows thru their states.

State Authority Suggested.

In their resolution, the chamber of commerce directors asserted that if the federal government seeks to establish any given federal water project for industrial, municipal, domestic, agricultural, or flood control purposes, it can do so under state laws without creating regional authorities.

Sen. Butler [R., Neb.] said today in an interview that the Missouri river watershed could be developed without the creation of a new federal bureau. He said synchronization of the activities of the army engineers, reclamation bureau, and the federal power commission could bring the same results without saddling another TVA on the taxpayers.

OFFER PUBLIC UTILITY SECURITIES TOTALING NEARLY 100 MILLION

Public offerings of approximately 100 million dollars of new public utility securities were made yesterday. A nation-wide syndicate headed by Morgan Stanley & Co. offered $30,962,000 of Ohio Edison company first mortgage 3 per cent bonds at 102½ and 180,000 shares of the company's preferred stock at 103.

Another banking group headed by Smith, Barney & Co. and Blyth & Co. offered 10 million dollars of Birmingham Electric company 3 per cent first mortgage bonds, due 1974, at 101 per cent and accrued interest. The proceeds, along with other corporate funds, will be used to redeem at 101 per cent and accrued interest 10 million of 4½ per cent first and refunding bonds due 1968.

The redemption on Nov. 1 of all outstanding United States Steel corporation serial debentures, totaling $27,500,000, was authorized by the company's directors. The debentures were to mature from 1949 to 1955.

They were sold May 1, 1940, in the amount of 75 million dollars to provide part of the funds needed to retire the then outstanding 3¼ per cent debentures. Prior to the first of this year $47,500,000 had been retired.

TENANTS AT 1430 LAKE SHORE DR. MAY BUY HOMES

Tenants in the 24 story apartment building at 1430 Lake Shore drive are considering buying the property to prevent their homes being cut up into small units by one of several syndicates contemplating purchase of the building.

The building, completed in 1928, has 22 suites of 10 and 11 rooms, each with five baths, and one six-room flat. The average monthly rent is $300. Among the tenants are David F. Bremner, president of Bremner Brothers, biscuit makers; William Press Hodgkins, president of Universal Castings corporation; William Spencer, chairman of North American Car corporation, and Henry R. Gross, president of Unity Manufacturing company.

The price asked by the owner, the Royal Neighbors of America, is reported to be higher than the tenants are willing to pay.

PENN. CENTRAL ORDERS 15 GIANT DOUGLAS PLANES

Pennsylvania-Central Airlines yesterday announced it had signed a contract with the Douglas Aircraft company for 15 giant DC-4 transport planes to cost nearly 10 million dollars and be delivered within several months after commercial plane production is resumed.

C. Bedell Monro, president, predicted that the 300-mile-an-hour speed of the four engine liners would bring such cities as Washington and Pittsburgh, Chicago and Detroit, and New York and Washington within an hour or less of each other.

AUGUST STRIKE TOTAL HIGHEST FOR FIVE YEARS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27 (AP).—The bureau of labor statistics today reported a total of 485 strikes last month, the highest August figure for any of the last five years. July strikes numbered 470.

August strikes involved 190,000 workers, compared with 145,000 in July. The number of man days idle was 935,000, compared with 680,000.

END WAGE PEG NOW, CIO CHIEF MURRAY URGES

Calls on WLB to Act Before Election.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Philip Murray, president of both the United Steel Workers of America and the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and closely allied with CIO's political adjunct, the political action committee, today urged the war labor board to decide favorably well before election day the issue of pay increases for labor.

The board is considering demands of the CIO and the American Federation of Labor that the Little Steel wage formula be junked and that the wage freeze imposed in 1942 by Presidential order be set aside. Many observers have predicted that the board will recommend such action and that President Roosevelt, just before the election, will set aside his own "hold the line against inflation" order.

Asks Decision by Oct. 15.

Murray told the board he was quite sure that it would give "scant heed to the diabolical underminings of those groups that are attempting to thrust a bread and butter issue into a national political issue."

"I am sure that you will decide the issue on its merits and at the earliest possible date," he said. "I urge that your recommendations be in the hands of President Roosevelt not later than Oct. 15. There have been commitments that this will be done and I hope that they will be lived up to without regard for the subtle efforts of those who would try to make it a political issue."

The AFL spokesmen yesterday had pulled no punches in laying the alleged inequities of the wage freeze at the door of Mr. Roosevelt and his executive agencies. Murray, with his close alliance with the New Deal involved, spoke kindly of the President, and sought to put the blame on the steel industry and congress.

Union Won't Tolerate Delay.

Asserting that the time has come for WLB "to decide whether to accept its obligation or yield to the wiles of those who seek its destruction," Murray said the hint that the case may not be decided for many weeks would, if it materializes, constitute a serious miscarriage of justice.

"The steel workers could not and will not be asked to tolerate such an outcome," he said. "We are entitled to a decision now. Both labor and industry are entitled to immediate determination. Thereby these groups could proceed to meet and solve both their immediate problems and prepare for the reconversion period. But delay and procrastination will only add to the friction and conflict."

In his argument that steel workers are entitled to a 17 cents an hour increase, Murray attacked the cost of living figures of the bureau of labor statistics as inaccurate. He said public members of the WLB panel named to study the problems conceded that retail prices have increased by 29.7 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941, and asserted that Mr. Roosevelt said in September, 1942, that if prices continued to rise they would constitute a sales tax.

PRICE 'EQUALITY' IS EXPECTED FOR 2 VITAL METALS

Magnesium, Aluminum Prospects Studied.

Altho the per pound price of magnesium ingots after the war is expected to be higher than that for aluminum, the prices of similar size ingots of both metals are expected to be about the same, representatives of the magnesium industry said yesterday. They explained that magnesium ingots of the same size and strength of aluminum run about a third lighter.

The similarity of price for comparable items will carry thru the finished products of both metals and the products will "definitely be competitive," a spokesman asserted.

Bar Price Compared.

As an example of the prospective peace time cost of ingots a bar of each metal three feet long and of the same strength was used. The bar of aluminum would weigh three pounds and the bar of magnesium two pounds. With an expected base price of aluminum ingots of 60 cents a pound, the cost of the aluminum bar would be $1.80. With the assumption that the peace time magnesium ingot price would be 90 cents a pound, the cost of the magnesium bar of two pounds also would be $1.80.

S. E. Bohn, plant manager of the magnesium division of Howard Foundry company, said that despite the industry's accomplishments in war production it still had to get into mass production. He termed this necessary to bring magnesium production costs down in peace time to the point where it can compete fully with aluminum, which has been in mass production for several years.

Expects Lower Costs.

Bohn traced the prices of raw magnesium to show how the spread between the two metals was narrowing. In 1915, raw magnesium sold at $5 a pound. By 1924 it had dropped to $1.10, then to 48 cents in 1930, 27 cents in 1939, down to the present 20 to 23 cents. In 1938 raw aluminum sold at 18¾ cents a pound and had fallen to 15 cents in 1943, he said.

Production costs of magnesium after the war should be lower than at present, Bohn said. He explained that because of rigid requirements of the army and navy the present price is high, but that commercial castings in peace time will not require such rigid inspection.

Big Field After War Ends.

W. R. Caple, in charge of the magnesium division of Dow Chemical company in Chicago, said there was a large field for magnesium after the war. This he divided into the following categories:

1. Uses in the transportation field; in planes, trains, buses, and trucks.

2. In portable and manually handled tools and vacuum cleaners, portable typewriters, safety equipment, and conveyors.

3. For reciprocating and rotating types of machinery such as are used in packaging, printing, and textile industries.

SUPPLY OF HOGS GAINS; AVERAGE PRICE IS HIGHER

Altho farmers sent in the largest Wednesday hog supply in seven weeks the market at the stock yards was cleared again at ceiling prices. The average price advanced 5 cents a hundred pounds to $14.55, highest since Oct. 25, 1943.

Altho receipts are increasing, which is normal at this time of the year, the rise in volume is gradual and current supplies are far below trade requirements.

Demand for cattle expanded and many classes of steers within a price range of $17 to $18 advanced as much as 25 cents over Tuesday. Plainer classes were unchanged, as were the best at $18.35. Heifers were steady to 25 cents higher.

Lambs were steady to weak. The $14.40 top was paid for a few lots.

Egg Futures Sink More, October to 34.15 Cents

All refrigerator shell egg futures set new seasonal lows on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, closing 0.40 to 0.60 cents lower. The October contract was off most at 34.15 cents a dozen.

TAX DEPENDS ON OPTIONS.

It is my understanding that, when the holder of an endowment policy at its maturity elects to leave the proceeds with the insurance company at interest, with the privilege of withdrawing the principal sum, the excess of the proceeds over the cost becomes taxable income in the year in which withdrawal may first be made. I believe that the annuity tax plan would not apply. The Investors's Guide of Sept. 26 did not make this distinction clear.—D. E.

We are informed by the revenue bureau authorities that when the proceeds of a matured endowment policy are left at interest with the insurer, with the privilege of withdrawal, the proceeds are treated as constructively received by the policyholder or beneficiary. This means that the excess of the proceeds over the total premiums paid is considered taxable in the first year in which the funds can be withdrawn, whether actually withdrawn or not.

Under such circumstances, the entire interest received is to be included in gross income for tax purposes. If, instead, an annuity option had been exercised prior to maturity, payments under the policy would be taxable to the extent of 3 per cent of the cost per annum until the entire cost had been recovered. After that any remaining payments would be fully taxable.

ELEVATOR FIRMS ASKS DISMISSAL OF RICE CHARGES

Exchange Says Rules Were Approved.

The Illinois commerce commission took under advisement yesterday motions by 11 grain elevator companies and the Chicago Board of Trade to dismiss a complaint of unfair trade practices made against them by Daniel F. Rice & Co., grain dealer.

Rice, asking the commisison to take tighter control over the companies, alleged that they mixed inferior grain with high grade grain; provided storage facilities for public grain in wooden warehouses charging "exorbitant" insurance rates, while storing their own grain in modern warehouses at reasonable rates; failed to register with the state commission as public utilities, and charged "discriminatory" service rates.

Says Exchange Will Resist.

Two companies, Norris Grain Elevator company and Chicago Grain corporation, asked dismissal on the ground the complaint did not particularize. The others contended they came under federal rather than state jurisdiction.

Howard Ellis, attorney for the Board of Trade, argued that the board operated under the commodities exchange act and could not exist if it fell under conflicting regulations of state and federal agencies. He said that if the state commission extended its authority over the Board of Trade a remedy would be sought in federal court.

Ellis offered commission members a pamphlet of Board of Trade regulations and challenged them to find any regulation relating to warehouses not submitted to the commission before its adoption. He asserted that the Board of Trade is not a public utility and that the commission should have no power to regulate it.

Charges Changing of Rules.

The Rice company had accused the Board of Trade of failing to prevent the alleged unfair trade practices and of changing its rules without applying to the state commission.

Lee A. Freeman, Rice counsel, declared that the Board of Trade is affected by public interest and therefore should be regulated by public bodies or by congress. Because congress has not attempted to regulate it, the commission should feel free to do so, he argued.

CHICAGOAN SET FREE BY NAZIS IS FLOWN HOME

Repatriated with more than 200 sick and injured flyers and air crewmen, Sgt. Harold F. Sheahan, 35, is at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sheahan, 103 Oakwood av., West Chicago. He was a prisoner in Germany from the time the Liberator bomber Wolf Wagon was shot down near Vienna, Austria, Oct. 1, 1943, until Sept. 9, when he was taken to Sweden.

Sgt. H. F. Sheahan.

Sgt. Sheahan said yesterday that the Wolf Wagon took a direct hit and he was blown out with Sgt. William Crowley, son of Mrs. Margaret Crowley, 7917 Green st. Sheahan was wounded in both legs, but Crowley escaped injury and was in a German prison camp when Sheahan left it.

Sheahan, a radio operator and mechanic, has been in the army since July, 1942. He started the trip back to the United States with the other repatriates aboard the Gripsholm, which reached New York Tuesday, but left the ship in England and was flown to the United States. He spent a week in Walter Reed hospital, Washington, D. C., before flying home to become a patient in Gardiner General hospital.

Sheahan said a dozen or more Chicagoans were aboard the Gripsholm when he left the ship in England. Upon arrival in the United States they were taken to Halloran General hospital on Long Island.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS.

The Board of Education of the City of Chicago will receive sealed bids for General Contract [which includes Masonry, Concrete, Cut Stone, Structural and Miscellaneous Steel and Iron Work, Carpentry, Hardware, Sheet Metal Work, Asphalt Shingle Roof, Lathing and Plastering, Painting, Glass and Glazing]; Plumbing, Heating and Ventilation, Temperature Control and Electrical Work for a new Elementary School, Oriole, Myrtle and Clarence avenues, Chicago, Illinois, until 12 o'clock noon [Central War Time] on the 6th day of October, 1944, at the Board of Education, Board Room 305, 228 North La Salle street, Chicago, Illinois, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Each successful bidder will be required to furnish a satisfactory performance bond.

The general prevailing rate of wages in the locality in which the work is to be performed for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute the contract has been determined in accordance with Chapter 48, Section 39-a, and following, of the Illinois Revised Statute, 1943, and a complete schedule of such rates, incorporated herein by reference, can be found in the specifications for the work.

Proposed form of contract documents, including plans and specifications, are on file at the Office of the Bureau of Architecture, Room 810, 228 North La Salle street, Chicago, Illinois, where they may be examined and obtained without cost by any person who has a bona-fide intention to examine them for the purpose of determining whether to make a bid.

The Board of Education of the City of Chicago reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any informalities in bidding.

Cash, certified check or bank draft payable to the Board of Education of the City of Chicago, or a satisfactory bond executed by the Bidder and a surety company in an amount equal to 5% of proposals from $500.00 to $2,000.00 and 3% of proposals over $2,000.00 shall be submitted with each bid.

No bid shall be withdrawn without the consent of the Board of Education of the City of Chicago for a period of thirty [30] days after the scheduled time of closing bids.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CHICAGO.

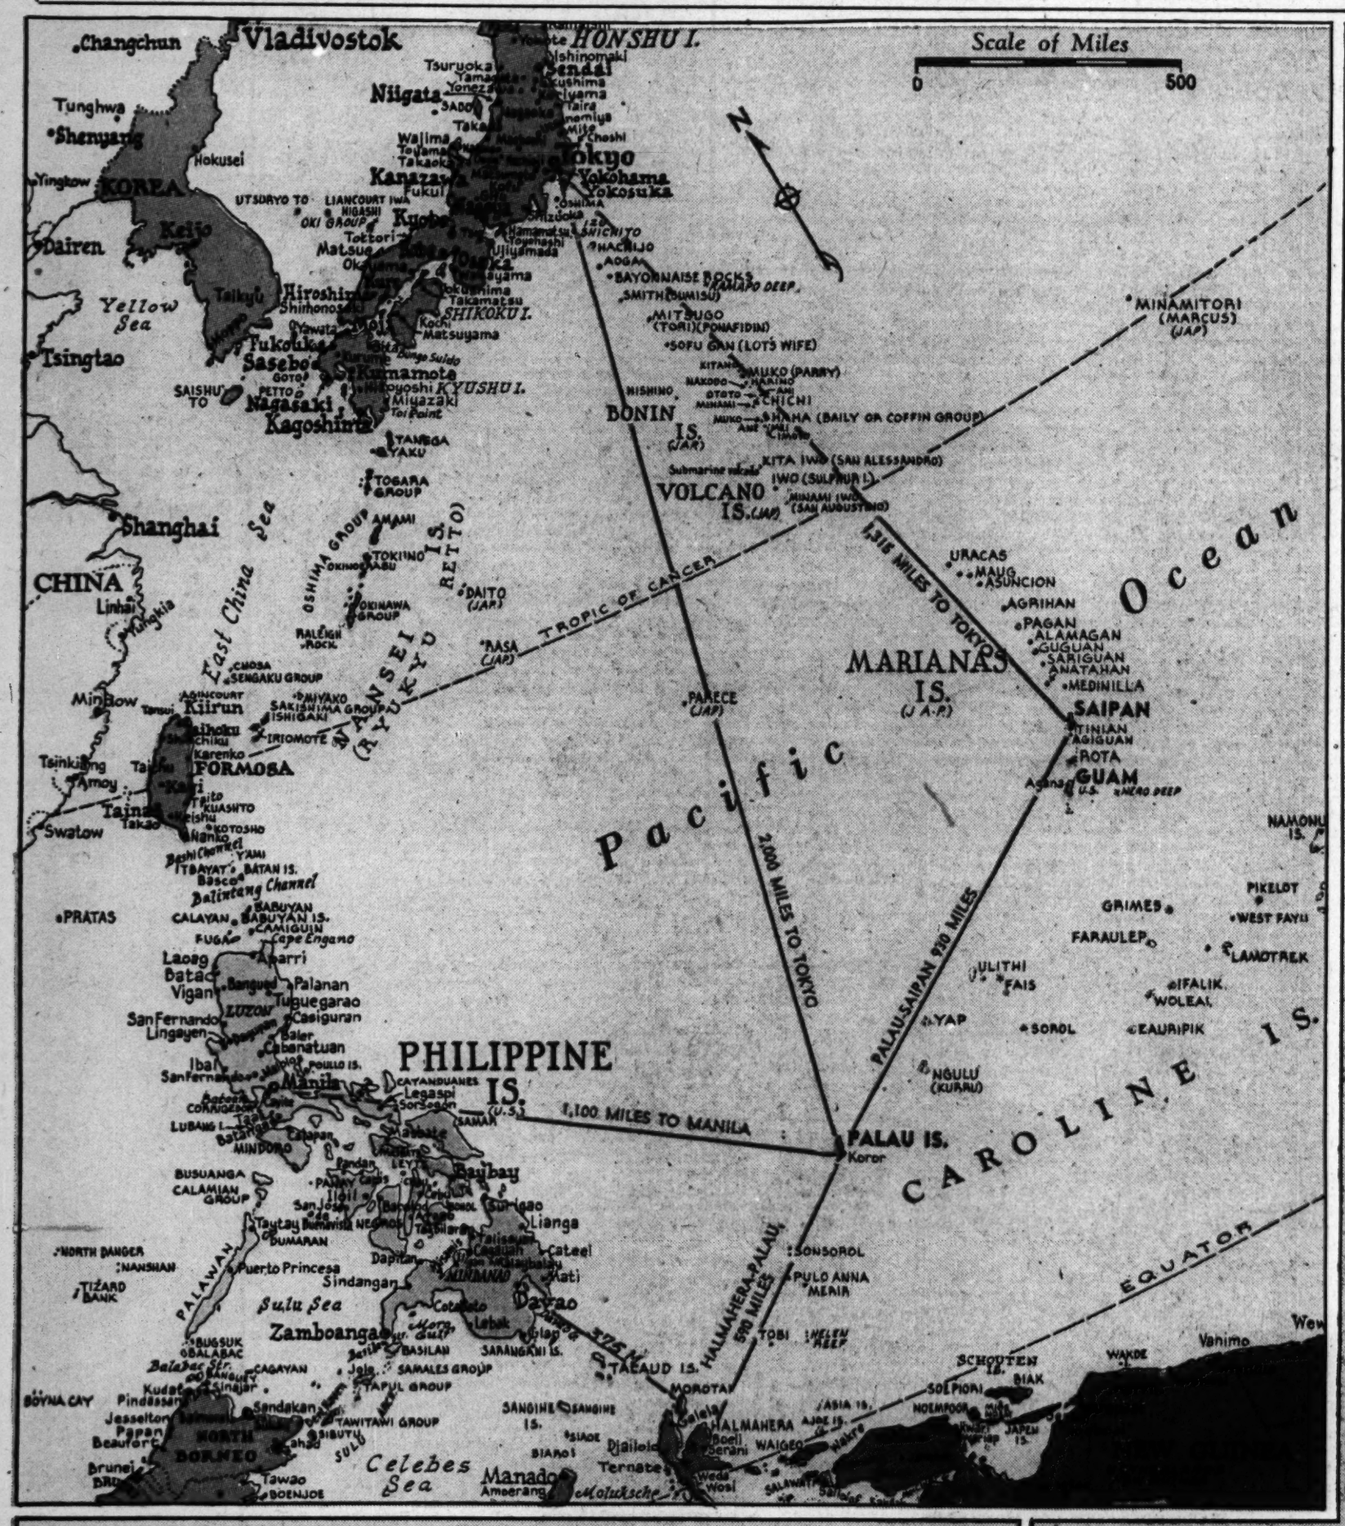
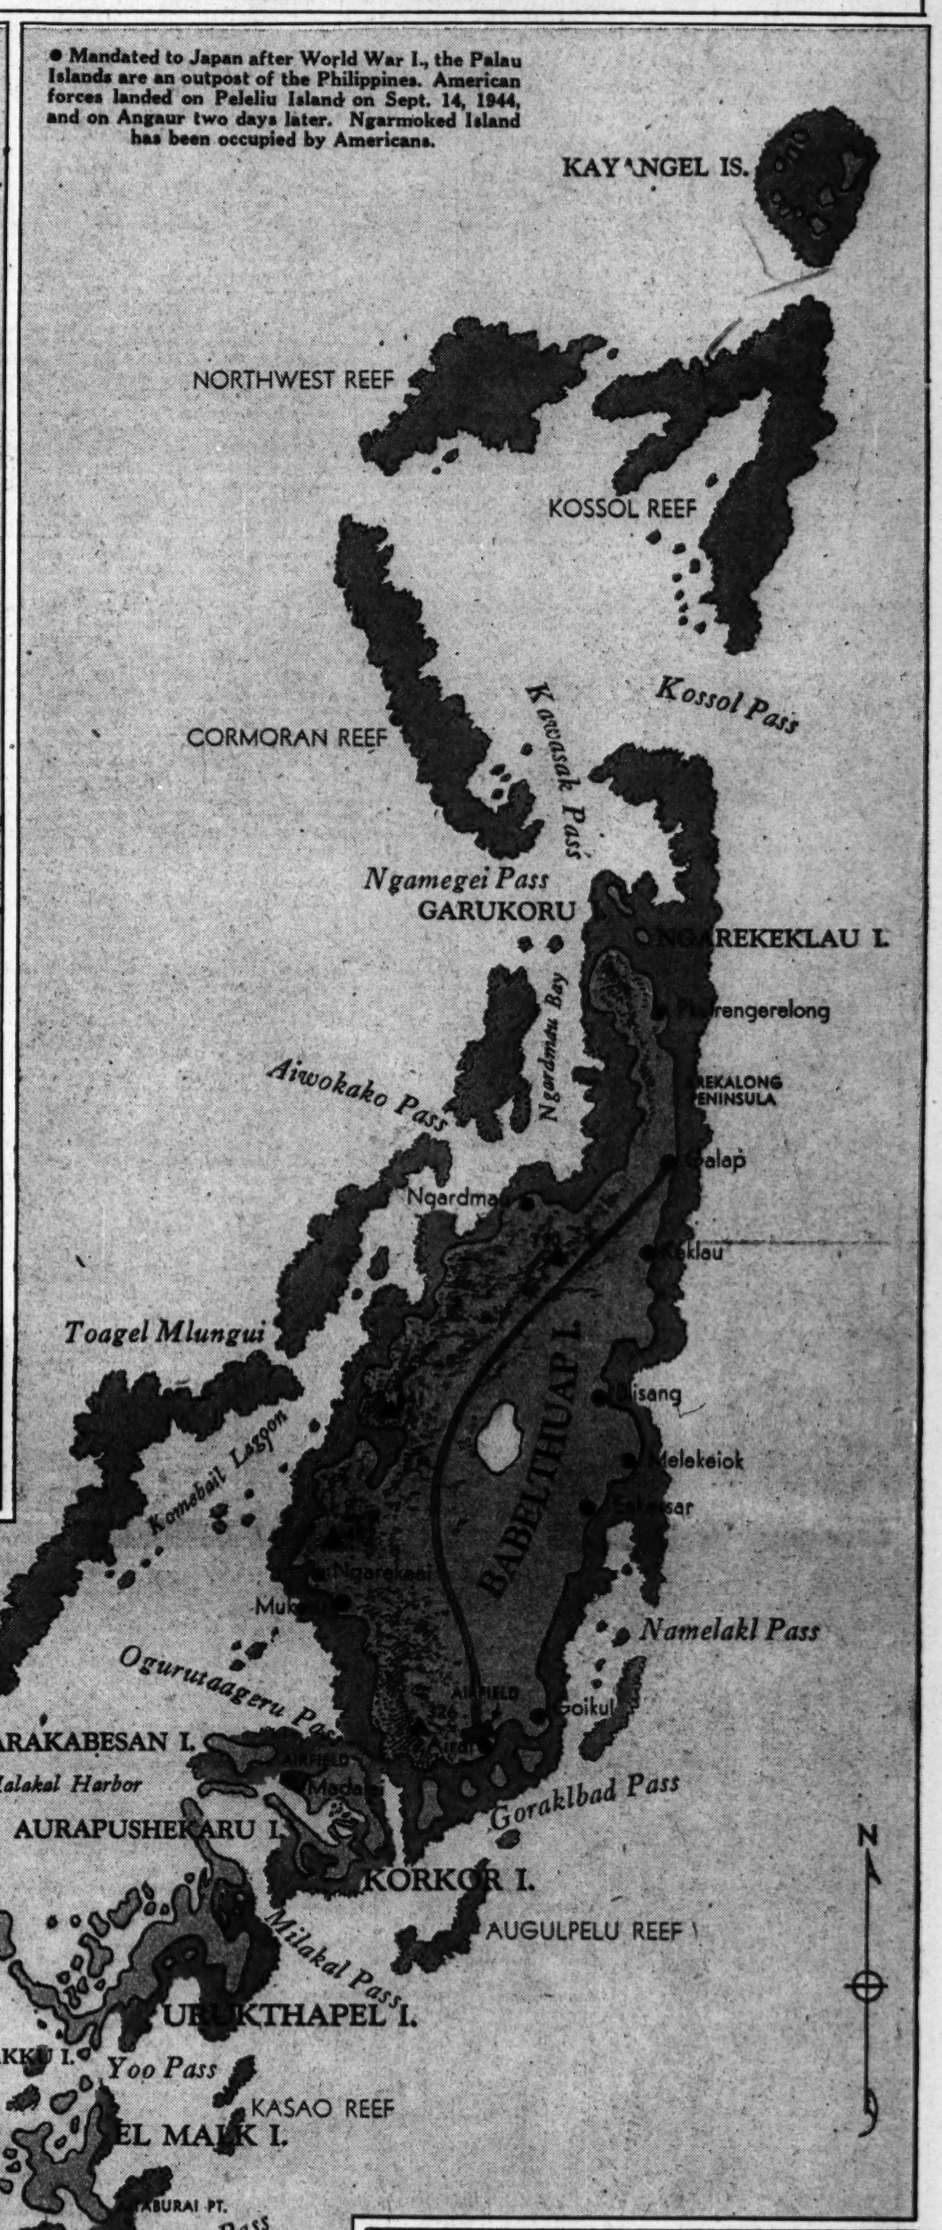
PACIFIC ISLAND STEPPING STONES TO JAPAN



● Mandated to Japan after World War I., the Palau Islands are an outpost of the Philippines. American forces landed on Peleliu Island on Sept. 14, 1944, and on Angaur two days later. Ngarmoked Island has been occupied by Americans.



● Largest of the Marianas Islands, Guam became a United States possession after the Spanish-American war of 1898. It was occupied by the Japanese Dec. 12, 1941. American forces landed there July 20, 1944, and the last enemy resistance on the island ended August 9.

GUAM

SAIPAN

Here are new maps of the Palau Islands and Guam and Saipan of the Marianas Islands, drawn to the same scale to show their relative sizes. Guam and Saipan have been taken from the Japanese, and the American conquest of the Palaus now is under way. These islands, American stepping stones to Japan, are located, along with other islands and mainland areas, in the map of the Southwest Pacific theater of war at the upper left of the page.
